At the Wilkesboro church Mrs. H. H. Dotson was in charge of program and gave the devotionals, and was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Lowe and Mrs. Arlie Foster. Mrs. George Johnson introduced Miss Ray. While here Miss Ray was entertained in the homes of Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Johnson.

Parish Day At St. Paul Church

Not only do the present members but many friends and members who have moved away, look forward to it with interest.

At eleven o'clock there will be a celebration and sermon. The Right Reverend Robert E. Grihben, Bishop of the Diocese, will be present again this year and will administer the Rite of Confirmation.

At one o'clock, picnic dinner will be served on the lawn at the home of Miss Elizabeth Barber. All members of St. Paul's, friends and visitors are given a special invitation to attend and participate in all activities of the day.

MOTION DENIED ON POSSESSION AND LARCENY COUNTS

Lentz and Scott were parked near the building from which the large amount of liquor was taken and put on trucks, and that he saw flaps of what he described as cardboard liquor cases sticking up above the back windows of the tuxedo cars. Solicitor Hall had six cases of liquor from the seizure brought into court, apparently to show that the cases which Ingle saw could not have been on the floorboard of the car and that the cases were on other cases or some other objects.

Sgt. Ingle said he came to North Wilkesboro with the first two truck loads of the liquor and went back to Yates' home about the time a third truck went for the remainder.

Second witness was C. T. Doughton, former Wilkes sheriff who drove the third truck loaded with liquor to town. His testimony was corroborative in that he stated that Sgt. Ingle told him that there was liquor in Lentz's and Scott's cars.

Sgt. Guy Duncan, of the State Highway patrol, on the stand said he looked in Lentz's car but did not see any liquor.

Paul J. Vestal, chairman of the Wilkes board of commissioners, testified that on the morning after the seizure Sgt. Duncan asked him to give them a receipt for "approximately 650 cases of liquor" for the county and that he refused to sign a receipt until a count was made by the county accountant, which showed 603 cases. He said the liquor was now stored in the basement of North Wilkesboro town hall.

This morning the state continued to place witnesses on the stand but little of importance was added to the case.

Mrs. Phillip Yates, J. F. Byers and Doub Powell, who were at the Yates home at the time of the raid, testified but their testimony was of a general nature.

At 11:30 when the state rested its case counsel for the defense entered a motion for direct verdict of acquittal and the motion was argued until court recessed for lunch.

Phillip Yates, from whom the liquor was seized and whose case is calendared for this special term, has not appeared in court, although he has been called out and officers have been ordered to make a diligent search for him. He is not only the defendant in his own case, but a principal witness in the case against Lentz and Scott.
