Three-Weeks Term Cancelled Except for Hearing Motions and Divorce Suits

Jurors summoned to appear in Wilkesboro for the thee-weeks court scheduled to begin Monday, January 17, have been notified not to appear.

Wilkes Bar Association in a meeting Tuesday afternoon decided to postpone trial of cases in which juries would be necessary. The majority of the bar members present reached this decision in view of the fact that so many wites are absent from the county and others will not be able to reach court because of illness said weather conditions.

However, court will convene on Monday, January 17, with Judge J. A. Rousseau, of this city, presiding. Motions will be heard and other court business not requiring a jury will be taken up. Thisontested divorce cases may be tried.

Turning Back Time Over 25 Years

Turn back time a little more than a quarter of a century and you find scenes like this in North Wilkesboro. Perhaps you don't recognize him, but the man seated on the running board of the 1914 Ford is none other than Iredell M. Myers, who is now Wilkes county's coroner and is manager of the Call Hotel in North Wilkesboro. At the time this picture was made Mr. Myers had recently purchased the Ford from the late John Finley, and used it in his traveling salesman work in calling on merchants in this part of the state. Mrs. Myers is in the back seat on the outside. If you are old enough, maybe you can name the others in the picture. T. C. Caudill was given the picture by Mr. Myers about 25 years ago.

USES Office Has A Good Record In Filling Jobs

North Wilkesboro Employment Office Placed I, 910 On Jobs In 1943

Local branch of the U.S. Employment service made a total of 1,910 job placements during 1943, according to a report released by Mrs. Kathryn A. Lott, manager.

Under stepped-up war conditions, the office had a most active year, devoting much time to supplying labor for vital war work.

The stabilization program which went into effect in May added much to the duties of the office.

A total of 3,285 persons requested statements of availability. Of and 164 were denied. The denials were due chiefly to the persons making the requests being needed on local jobs.

During the year a total of 18,-Unemployment compensation ens before making sales after the claims dropped sharply during the effective date, which will be in year. There were only 1,538 the latter part of February. In claims as compared to 9,024 dur-
