INVASION TROOPS MAKING GAINS IN FRANCE

Fifth War Loan Campaign Is Organized

$990,000 Goal For Wilkes County In Present Campaign

To Quality For Name On A Landing Craft, Wilkes 'E' Bonds Must Be $227,000

Fifth War Loan organization in Wilkes county has begun work on the task of selling Wilkes county's quota of $990,000. W. D. Halfacre, chairman for the campaign, said today.

In the quota of $990,000 is a quota of $227,000 for "E" bonds. If the county meets the "E" bond quota and exceeds the overall quota by as much as ten per cent, a plaque will be placed on a landing craft in honor of Wilkes county and bearing the county's name.

Beginning Monday, the official opening date of the campaign, a concerted effort will be made to contact the people of the county and to sell the quota in bonds as early during the drive as possible.

CANVASS OF HOMES
In North Wilkesboro Mrs. Edd Gardner and Mrs. Gordon Finley will lead the canvass of the homes and block leaders will call at every home, explaining the Fifth War Loan and urging purchases. They will be prepared to take orders for bonds, give receipts and have the bonds mailed directly to the purchasers.

DISTRICTS DESIGNATED
The county has been divided into districts similar to the central school districts for the sale of bonds and a quota has been assigned each district, which will have a chairman and canvassers.

MERCHANTS TO HELP
Another phase of the campaign will be carried out through retail merchants. Throughout the country merchants have agreed to assist in the campaign and each store is accepting a quota equal to $300 in bond sales for every member of the sales personnel.

INDUSTRIES COOPERATE
In North Wilkesboro industrial firms having a payroll deduction plan for purchase of bonds are asked to accept quotas far in excess of regular purchases in order to help put the county over in the campaign.

BONDS FOR Y. M. C. A.
Attention is called to the fact that series "F" and "G" bonds may be purchased by those wishing to contribute to the Y. M. C. A. fund and that they may have the bonds made payable to the Y. M. C. A. The series "F" bonds are from $37.00 up and the series "G" bonds from $100 up.

The campaign to raise $160,000 with which to erect a Y. M. C. A. here and the Fifth War Loan can be carried on cooperatively, because it is anticipated that the Y. M. C. A. building fund will remain in war bonds until after the war when it will be practical to erect a modern Y. M. C. A. building.

CANVASSERS TO MEET
Attention of all block leaders for the Fifth War Loan canvass in North Wilkesboro is called to a meeting to be held Friday afternoon, four o'clock, in the town hall. All those who have been contacted by Mrs. Edd Gardner and Mrs. Gordon Finley to serve in the campaign are urged to attend.

There the canvassers will be given instructions relative to the sale of bonds in North Wilkesboro.

The basic needs of those in the armed forces are being supplied by army and naval authorities, but there are many supplementary items which are not provided from official sources—that is where we can be of help—for of course we as civilians will want to do everything possible to see that the many extra comforts, supplies, and services reach the men and women in uniform to whom they mean so much. Quotas Assigned To Communities In Bond Drive

County Subdivided Into Districts Similar To Central School Divisions

D-Day has come. Americans and valiant fighting men of the other allied nations are attacking in France in a climatic struggle to overthrow the forces of oppression and let freedom live.

D-Day was Tuesday on the beaches of northern France, when men from Wilkes were part of the greatest military armada ever launched in an undertaking.

Here at home the Fifth War Loan is starting, an event in which the people in the security and comfort of their own homes can back the attack in Europe.

In this campaign you are only asked to lend your money, and at good rates of interest, to finance the coming campaigns to crush the axis.

In order that each section of the county have a separate responsibility, the county has been divided into districts with a quota of war bonds set for each. The districts and their quotas are as follows:

HEAVY BATTLES RAGE AS ENEMY LINE STIFFENS

Invasion Armies In Third Day Of Attack In France

Fierce Fighting In Progress As Nazis Attempt To Halt The Advancing Allies

The Allies announced today capture of their first French city, the Nazi-fortified town of Bayeux, five miles inshore in the center of the Normandy invasion coast, and said they also had cut the highway from Bayeux to Caen as they moved inland in general heavy fighting against counterattacking German reserves.

Caen, 18 miles southeast of Bayeux and nine miles from the sea, was the scene of a German armored counterattack which has been hurled back, headquarters disclosed, and the Allied forces were said to be doing generally "better than expected."

Aside from these two towns, Supreme Headquarters gave no place-names, ignoring a continuing stream of German broadcasts which reported new Allied attacks all the way from the Pas de Calais area on Dover Strait to Nantes at the base of the big Brittany Peninsula jutting out into the Atlantic.

A headquarters communique said the Allied landing beaches had been cleared of the enemy and had been taken up by the second day of the invasion with steady reinforcements poured in by sea and air.

The supreme commander, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, toured the beach areas in a British vessel for four and one-half hours Wednesday, conferring with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and other operational chiefs less than five miles from German-held territory.

The German accounts, many apparently designed purely to provoke replies, claimed the British Sixth Parachute Division had been "annihilated", that a beachhead on the right bank of the Orne River had been wiped out; that a new amphibious attack had been made on the Calais area nearest Britain and heaviest bombed spot prior to the invasion; that new Allied air-borne operations were directed against Lorlent, Nataes and St. Brieu—all on the Brittany Peninsula, and on Falaise and Argentan, 30 miles south of Caen, and 40 miles inland.

The Germans spoke at length of the "surprising" strength of airborne operations, and Allied headquarters confirmed that these were continued Wednesday on a large scale, without mentioning localities.

The Germans said Caen was aflame, and Allied accounts inferentially confirmed this by describing heavy air attacks in that area and shelling of it by the 16-inch guns of the British battleship Nelson.

Heaviest fighting apparently centered around Caen and Bayeux, the latter a cathedral town, once of 9,000 population. Reports from the front mentioned many casualties, although there was no solid evidence of the actual number or proportion. Both the U. S. and British navies reported their casualties in personnel and ships were so far very small.

Resistance of the German Navy and air force continued relatively light with E-boats driven off in two attacks and 51 German planes downed Wednesday by the overwhelming Allied air cover, which lost 23 of its own planes. Lightning fighter-bombers demolished a German headquarters Wednesday afternoon.

One returning flier said the Germans had flooded three large lowland areas near the beaches in efforts to hold up the Allied advance.

The German land forces put up increasing resistance that was expected to become still stronger as the Nazi command struggled to discern and meet the Allied strategy.
