GIRL SCOUTS ENJOY DAY CAMP AT MORAVIAN FALLS

This happy group of girls represents a part of the large number who attended the Girl Scout day camp at Moravian Falls all last week. The week was spent in many worthwhile activities which were beneficial as well as entertaining. At the time the above picture was made 12 senior Scouts were out on hike and missed out on the photographer's appointment. At the camp four girls received badges in basketry. They were: Isabella Gibbs, of North Wilkesboro; Nancy Brown, Gene Somers and Joanne Vaught, of Wilkesboro.—(Photo by L. S. Atkinson, Jr.)

August 1 Date Beauty Contest By Jaycees Here

Over 50 Beautiful Girls To Compete For Title Of "Miss Wilkes—1947"

Miss Wilkes—1947 will be among the ten contestants chosen at the big Jaycee Beauty Contest to be held during the intermission of their dance, Friday night, August 1st, at 8:30 p. m. at the large stone building, across from the Prison Camp on highway 115, east of North Wilkesboro.

The local Jaycees, North Wilkesboro's newest civic organization, have made elaborate arrangements to make this dance and beauty contest a gala affair. Music will be by a well-known orchestra and the dance will be informal. Judges for the beauty contest will be chosen from interested parties to assure fairness in the elimination. There will be no voting. The ten contestants chosen by the judges will compete one week later at a local theatre and the winner will be awarded a wardrobe, consisting of street, evening and beach costumes and sent as "Miss Wilkes" to compete at the state contest at Wrightsville Beach on August 16th with all expenses paid. This promises to be the community's most fashionable and colorful civic event and the dance floor will accommodate hundreds of couples.

Everyone is requested to bear in mind the date of Friday evening, August 1st, 8:30 p. m. for the "Good Time of the Year."

More than fifty contestants have already filed and any young lady not already contacted is asked to file with Misses Geraldine Caldwell at Sentinel Insurance Agency or Miss Harriet Crutchfield at Wilkes Chamber of Commerce office.

The requirements are that the contestants be: between 18-28 and single.

Half the net profits from the project will be given by the Jaycees to the Memorial Park fund.

Flock Brothers To Battle Again In Auto Racing

Large Field of Stock Cars Entered For Race On Sunday, July 27

Fontello Flock, present leader of the national point standings, will head a crack field of the nation's foremost drivers who will compete in 110 laps of stock car auto racing at the North Wilkesboro Speedway Sunday afternoon.

The race schedule calls for three 15-lap heats, a 25-lap consolation and a 40-lap main event in addition to time trials. The latter will begin at noon with the first race getting under way at 3 p. m.

Fonty Flock will try to uphold one of the top reputations ever established at a single track. In two appearances here he has twice won the first heat and followed up with twin victories in both features. The Atlanta, Ga., speedster has also turned in the fastest qualifying run each time.

But the younger of the two Flock brothers will receive plenty of competition from his brother Bob and more than 30 other top-notch chauffeurs. Included in

Eighth Division Highway Office Be Constructed

Brick Veneer Building Under Construction Near Highway Garage

Permanent office quarters are being erected at North Wilkesboro for the Eighth Division Highway office.

The structure being erected will be located on the highway division property near the division garage on highway 115 just outside of North Wilkesboro. It will be of brick veneer construction and will contain nine offices, assembly room and other facilities.

The highway division office, headed by District Engineer Zeb Stewart, is now located at Lenoir. It was first established here when the division was formed in reorganization and J. G. Hackett, of North Wilkesboro, was appointed commissioner. It was later moved to Lenoir when V. D. Guire became commissioner for the division but was not moved to Mount Airy when Raymond K. Smith, who is now in the middle of a four-year term, was appointed.

Only $20,000 Will Be Given Yadkin Project

Army engineers disclosed last week that only $20,000 will be spent in planning work for the Yadkin River Flood Control Project if Congress votes only the sharply-reduced appropriations passed by the House.

The engineers had requested $75,000 for planning the Yadkin project, but when the House trimmed the total advance planning fund in the civil functions bill from $4 million to $2 million, a tentative allocation of $20,000 was made for the planning work.

Unless the Senate restores the House cuts, the $20,000 will be used in planning the first of four proposed dams on the upper Yadkin and Reddies rivers; and the remaining three reservoirs must wait until additional funds are made available.

Money to start actual construction will be sought in next year's bill. The four dams will cost an estimated $7,124,000, and opponents of the project are expected to put up a hot fight against flood control of the Yadkin.

Wilkes Implement Co. In New Quarters Soon

Wilkes Implement Company, local International dealer, will be in their new building just outside of this city on highway 115 next week.

Sam Winters, manager, said today that moving is in progress and that patrons should call at the new location Monday.

North Wilkesboro Loses to Boone 13-5

Memorial Park Athletic Lights Arrive In City

A large trailer truck load of reflectors, sockets, lights, wire and other materials for Memorial Park athletic field arrived here this week and are now stored pending actual construction of the park. C. Jack Swofford, Memorial Park campaign chairman, said today.

Douglas fir poles 80 feet in length have been ordered and will arrive here in a few days. The committee has done an excellent job of locating and securing delivery on the materials, many of which are on the list of scarcities.

Meanwhile the fund campaign is making some progress but is far short of the amount needed to complete the job, which will include grading and erection of seats. The committee is determined to have the lights on for the first home game of the football season here this fall. Detailed plans for the combination baseball-football field are being drawn. The football portion of the field will remain at the present location and will be in the outfield of the baseball field.

State Beekeepers Will Meet Here Friday, Aug. 1st

Raleigh, July 23.—The North Carolina State Beekeepers' Association will hold its annual meeting in North Wilkesboro at the Town Hall on Friday, August 1st. This location is in the famous land of the sky and gives promise of both a vacation and a well worth-while meeting.

The meeting will be manned by home talent including successful beekeepers and authorities on bee culture from both State College and the Department of Agriculture. Prospects for an out-of-state speaker look favorable. A good entertaining and instructive program is being arranged and the public has a cordial invitation to attend this meeting.

Further details can be secured from the County Agent's office in Wilkesboro.

His Body In River

BILLIE DEAN MILLER

Search Continues For Body of Boy Lost In Yadkin

Many Searchers Fail to Find Billie Dean Miller, Drowned Saturday

Diligent search for the body of Billie Dean Miller, age 8, who drowned Saturday in the Yadkin near Curtis bridge two miles west of here, has failed to find the child's body.

Meanwhile the boy's stepfather, Tom Parsons, of Cricket, has posted a reward of $100 with Sheriff C. G. Poindexter to be paid to the person finding the body.

Billie Dean was lost in the Yadkin Saturday afternoon while swimming with Bryce Carlton, 13, and Donald Vannoy, 13. Bryce Carlton said he tried to rescue Billie from the river while Donald was going for help and that he saw the smaller boy disappear in the river after he had helped him to safety on a pile of driftwood in the center of the river.

Local volunteer searchers, including members of the fire departments of the Wilkesboros, highway patrolmen and others were aided by the emergency squads from Elkin and Winston-Salem and members of the Statesville fire department with special lighting equipment. Nets were placed across the river downstream and the banks of the river have also been searched without results.

After temporarily abandoning the search the Elkin emergency squad members were back in the river yesterday aiding a large number of local people who were trying to recover the body. A number of experienced river searchers expressed the opinion that the body may have been lodged on the bottom and was later covered with sand. Others said the body would probably come to the surface in from three to seven days.

A. A. A. To Again Offer Limestone

The Wilkes County AAA Office announced today that authority has been received from the Raleigh Office to take orders for limestone for the balance of 1947 crop year. Farmers desiring this material should contact the county office immediately and file their orders. When the order is filed the farmer's part of the cost of the limestone will be paid. This amounts to $1.60 per ton.

The first orders for the limestone can be delivered immediately and farmers are urged to file their orders so that all of the limestone can be delivered before cold weather. The above announcement was made by Lawrence Miller, Secretary of the Wilkes County AAA.
