

Mrs. Mathis Hostess To Club at Clingman

The members of the Clingman Home Demonstration club met

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 9, with Mrs. Woodroe Mathis, with Mrs. Millard Mathis as co-hostess. The club was very happy to have Mrs. Annie H. Green, our home agent, to meet with us.

The president, Mrs. Woodroe Mathis, presided during the business period. The program opened by singing, "It's A Good Time to Get Together," repeating Club Collect, and Prayer by Mrs. R. H. Green.

The usual reports were made, and matters of importance taken up and disposed of. The club is working to help build a lunch room for Clingman school. Plans were also discussed for the club to have a pie supper soon, for the benefit of lunch room.

At the conclusion of our business Miss Addie Malone, home economist for Duke Power Co., took charge of the program and gave interesting and helpful thoughts on how to get full value from your lighting dollar and to get the most satisfactory lighting service use the right size and type of lamp bulbs in all your table floor lamps and fixtures.

During the social period the hostess served delicious refreshments. Our next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Melton, Friday, Nov. 7.—Reported.

W. M. ALEXANDER WRITES ABOUT FLOOD CONTROL

If, "Of the People, By the people and For the People," all the rivers and streams of the earth were harnessed with dams, greater and lesser as the situation required, for the production of electricity, flood control, irrigation and navigation, to what extent would such a program benefit the peoples of the world?

Since our chemists are fast finding means of destroying insect pests, blights and cumbersome weeds of which our food vegetation is subject to, the net ultimate results would be, better protection for human and animal life, protected and irrigated soils where needed for better and more abundant crops, relegating into the past the pestilences of flood and famine, abundance of electricity for power and the heating of our homes, further means of transportation by water, untold millions of protected fish life for the benefit of humankind, additional beauty to an already beautiful world and real co-operation with nature in its eternal effort to provide humankind with all its food and raiment needs.

That such an undertaking would accomplish just one of the above mentioned blessings, the elimination of famine from the earth, what would be wrong with such a program, even at a cost equal to that of our two late world wars?

On what grounds can we oppose projects that would mean flood control, if nothing more?

W. M. ALEXANDER.

FORMER COUNTY ATTY. GRATEFUL TO RETONGA

Prominent Citizen Tells About His Own Case In Hope That Others May Regain the Joy of Living As He Did, He States. Felt Like He Was About at End of Row.

"Retonga made life pleasant for me when it looked like I was about done for, and it would be impossible to express my gratitude to the medicine," states Mr. Ferd P. Veeck, Petersburg, Ind., former county attorney, Republican committeeman, newspaper publisher, and one of the most highly respected men in Southern Indiana.

"I suffered tortures from indigestion after every meal, and by four o'clock in the afternoon I felt almost completely exhausted," continued Mr. Veeck. "In the middle of each summer I had to stay away from my office for weeks, and I spent most of the time in bed. In '39 I had an old gentleman about 75 working in my garden. Neither the intense summer heat or the hard work seemed to bother him, while I, as usual, was barely able to be up. He told me he took Retonga and advised me to try it."

"Before I finished the first bottle of Retonga I felt so greatly relieved that I began to eat better and feel stronger. By the time I finished three bottles I felt better and stronger than in years. I have continued to enjoy unusual good feeling and strength. Retonga was grand for me, and I hope this statement will enable someone else to regain the joy of living as I did."

Mr. Veeck is one of hundreds of prominent men and women praising this famous medicine. Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. Retonga may be obtained at Horton's Drug Store in North Wilkesboro. (Adv.)
