

Miss Frazier Will Give Concert At Greensboro 19th

Miss Edith Piper and Mr. Bernard Taylor, of the Juilliard School of Music, New York City, are presenting Miss Martha Lue Frazier, soprano, and Mr. James Morris, Jr., baritone, in a concert of operatic and classical music, Friday, December 19, at 8:30 p. m., at the Odell auditorium, Greensboro College, Greensboro.

Among the repertoire will be three duets—one from act I Pagliacci, by Leoncavallo; one from act II of Verdi's Opera, La Traviata, and the other "Bess, You Is My Woman Now" from Forgy and Bess, by Gershwin. Miss Frazier, a North Wilkesboro girl, is in her third year at the famous school and has already performed over several of New York City's larger radio stations, as well as in concerts at Carnegie and other places of great interest.

Mr. Morris, a native of Greensboro, has been at Juilliard two years and has also had much recognition and experience for such a young artist.

The coming concert has created much interest in North Carolina and the young artists expect to tour the New England states in the spring with this very enjoyable repertoire.

A complete program will be published in this paper at an early date.

SOCIETY Station WILX Announces New Programs Here

Fidelis Class In Monthly Meeting

Mrs. R. T. McNeil, Mrs. C. B. Eller, Mrs. Wade Wallace, and Mrs. Gwyn Gambill combined hospitality to the members of the Fidelis class of the North Wilkesboro First Baptist church in their Christmas meeting held Tuesday evening at the McNeil home on D Street. Mrs. McNeil, the president, was in charge of a short business session and Miss Lillian Stafford led the devotions using as her theme the Night Before Christmas. Mr. McNeil showed moving pictures illustrating the same thought, also pictures of the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C. and places of note in Florida.

In the auction sale of gifts,

The announcement of many new radio programs from Station WILX will be of interest to the listeners of "The Voice of Wilkes."

Programs of High School news are to be heard from the County High Schools, with students as newscasters. Gordon Finley, Jr., of North Wilkesboro high school presents "The Lion Roars" each Tuesday evening at 7:30. Bill Justice of Wilkesboro high is to begin a program "Rambling With the Ramblers" next week. A newscast from the other high schools is to begin within the next week—Dean Nichols of Millers Creek High will report the happenings from his school.

The "Teen-Age Forum" is a regular feature on Thursday evenings from 7:15-7:45 with boys and girls from all the county high schools participating. They discuss subjects of interest to teen-agers from their point of view.

Through the cooperation of the schools in the county, beginning Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock and for two hours each day at that time, boys from the various high schools are on the air announcing programs from WILX.

On Saturday morning at 10:30 the "Children's Hour" is on the air—a group of youngsters, ages one to the early teen-agers will present a program of songs, poems, and interviews from WILX's studios. All children who wish to get on the programs are invited to do so.

On Wednesday and Friday morning at 9:45 Betty Lou White presents a program the "Happy Homemaker" from the studio at WILX—items of interest to ladies. Mrs. White will discuss items of local and general interest and give recipes for homemakers.

Nell Hubbard gives a program of "Women's News" on Monday mornings at 10:30. Miss Hubbard will discuss the events of women who make the news, and will discuss items of general interest—beauty, clothing and household news and views.

Recently Miss Kate Finley, Wilkes County Librarian, presented the first in a series of programs which will be carried by WILX each Thursday morning at 10:30 and will be aimed at creating better reading habits for primary grade school children. Through the cooperation of Mr. C. B. Eller, Superintendent of the Wilkes County Board of Education, the schools throughout the county will be tuned in for these programs.

At an early date the engineers from Station WILX are to begin working with the physics classes of the High Schools in Wilkes County and with radio clubs in the schools which have no physics classes; and will help students with the building of radio sets. Engineers James E. Brunson, Dane Ulrich, and M. G. White will cooperate in this program.

Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock the piano pupils of Mrs. Andrew Kilby presented a program from the studio of WILX—this is another in the series arranged through the cooperation of the music teachers of the Wilkesboros. Mrs. Robert Gibbs will present a second group on Monday evening December 15th at 7:30 o'clock.

Each Saturday evening from 10 until 12 midnight, on the Studio Record Party, everyone is invited to come to the studios of WILX and get in on the party. The studio visitors will announce the numbers, and under the supervision of the Engineer on duty, various individuals will actually put the show on the air.

At the close of the day's work, washing the horses shoulders with a cold water strong salt solution will help keep them in healthy condition.

brought by the class, and conducted by Mr. McNeil, the class realized a sum of $50.00 the proceeds to be given to Mrs. Ella Shockey to buy linoleum for her cottage at the Mills Orphanage in Thomasville.

During the social hour the hostesses served Russian tea with sandwiches and cake. Seasonal greens and red berries made a colorful setting for the large number of class members attending.

Blackburn-Haynes Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Blackburn, of North Wilkesboro, Route One, announces the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Irene Blackburn, to James F. Haynes, of Hays. No definite date has been set for the wedding. Mr. Haynes served sometime with the United States Army, which included overseas combat duty.
