BIDS FOR SUNDAY STAR ROUTE SOUGHT BY LOCAL POST OFFICE

Winston-Salem.—Bids are being sought by the Winston-Salem Post Office for temporary star route service on Sundays between this city and Wilkesboro.

A request that such bids be secured was sent Ira G. Shamel, local superintendent of mails, yesterday by J. B. McGee of Greensboro, district superintendent of Railway Mail Service.

The Sunday star route will begin operating between Greensboro and Boone (through Winston-Salem) on Feb. 4. The H. P. O. service will run six days a week.

In his letter to Mr. Shamel, Mr. McGee mentioned no date for the start of the Sunday route, nor did he say how long that service would be needed.

The operator of the star route will have to furnish his own car and will have to handle first class mail, newspapers, special delivery, and certain types of parcel post. He will not be responsible for box delivery nor collection.

The route schedule is: leave Winston-Salem 3:55 a. m., arrive Wilkesboro by 6:30 a. m.; leave Wilkesboro 4:15 p. m., arrive Winston-Salem by 7 p. m. The route will cover Elkin, Ronda, Roaring River and North Wilkesboro, in addition to the terminal points. The Northwestern counties are now given mail service by star routes out of Winston-Salem and by an early Southern Railway System train that leaves here at about 8:15 a. m.

Women IN THE CHURCH

"Seeds for Peace," a project of the National Council of the State Garden Clubs, has contributed $40,000 worth of seeds, or enough to plant 70,000 gardens, and these have been shipped to Europe and distributed to needy farm families there by Church World Service, the latter organization reports.

Mrs. W. Murdock MacLeod, of Atlanta, Ga., has been named executive secretary of the United Council of Church Women—an organization representing the active women's groups of some eighty-four Protestant churches in the United States—succeeding Mrs. Ruth Mougey Worrell, of Columbus, Ohio, who has retired.

Mrs. MacLeod has been prominently identified with the work of church women in Georgia and Tennessee, and has taught school in North and South Carolina. Recently she has been a secretary of women's work in the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., in Atlanta. She is a graduate of Winthrop College, S. C., and is the widow of Dr. W. Murdock MacLeod, prominent Presbyterian pastor of Pinehurst, N. C., and Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Worrell was the first executive secretary of the Council, serving from 1942 until this year.

Moonshine Plants Closed By Officers

Elkin, Jan. 6.—Yadkin and Surry county officers closed in on the moonshine business over the week-end to put a damper on the New Year for at least two booze manufacturing plants.

Yadkin officers arrested Gwyn Rogan Mathis, of Wilkesboro route 2, Friday night after they stopped his coupe and found 60 gallons of illegal whiskey in it. Mathis is being held for a hearing. The car and whiskey were confiscated.

Early Friday morning Surry sheriff's deputies seized a 200-gallon illicit distillery near Kappps Mill. They didn't apprehend the still operators but destroyed 1,000 gallons of beer.

The average per-acre yield of tobacco in North Carolina in 1948 was 1,236 pounds, as compared with an average of 999 pounds from 1937 to 1946.

A widening horizon of social and community service on the part of rural women in these post-war years is reported by Miss Marjorie Winkler, an executive of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church. Recently she told a convocation of rural church leaders in San Jose, California: "Organizations of women of town and country churches, which in the past concentrated upon raising funds to pay the minister's salary, keeping the parsonage repaired and furnished, visiting the sick and the shut-ins, have in most cases enlarged their conception of community service to include the promotion of Christian family life, the development of wholesome recreational opportunities, the establishment of hot school lunch programs, the building of better roads, the development of health services, the provision of rural library service, the promotion of farmer's curb markets, and the improvement of local government. . . . They are also studying about world problems, discovering world needs, and getting acquainted with world peoples. They are giving time and money toward the building of a better world."
