Hadley-Davis Vows Spoken Here In Home Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Patsy Ruth Hadley and Bradley Kincaid Davis was solemnized in a lovely home ceremony Wednesday afternoon, February the second, at four-thirty o'clock, at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pearson, on J street. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Lucy Vannoy Hadley, of this city, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davis, also of North Wilkesboro.

Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, pastor of the bride, heard the vows in the presence of family members and a few close friends. Arrangements of white gladioli and carnations, white candles, and greenery formed an improvised altar before the bay window in the living room.

Given in marriage by her older brother, Jack Hadley, the bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Ruth Vannoy Pearson, as maid of honor. Best man for the groom was his brother, Robert Davis.

Miss Lois Scroggs, pianist, prior to ceremony, played "Romance", and as the vows were being spoken sounded muted notes of "To A Wild Rose". Lohengrin's wedding march was used for the processional.

White net and white satin, fashioned the bride's wedding gown made with net yoke and long, full skirt. She wore long white satin mitts, and her finger tip veil of net fell from a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book topped with an orchid.

The maid of honor wore a pink dress, fashioned similar to that of the bride's gown, and carried a nosegay of pink and blue flowers. The mothers of the bridal couple, each were dressed in black with shoulder corsages of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points, after which they will be at home at 229 D street, North Wilkesboro.

For travel, the bride changed to a dark brown suit with which she used brown accessories, and pinned at her shoulder the orchid from her prayer book.

Cake Cutting Party On Tuesday evening following the rehearsal, Mrs. Ralph Reins, aunt of the bride, entertained at a cake cutting party at her home on E street, having as guests members of the bridal party, family members, and a few intimate friends of the bridal couple. Mrs. Walton Black, sister of the hostess, greeted guests at the door.

A green and white motif was used in the dining room while elsewhere about the home were bouquets of early spring blossoms. The dining table, spread with white cut work cloth, was centered with a 3-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and contained the traditional tokens of fortune. About the cake was a lovely arrangement of greenery, white carnations, and white candles.

Miss Mary Caroon finished cutting the cake, after which the first slice was cut by the bridal couple. Assisting with the serving were Misses Faye Kerley, Betty Summers, and Ruth Vannoy Pearson.
