Pores Knob Club Learns About Foods

On Friday, April 8 at 2 p. m., thirty-two members of the Pores Knob Home Demonstration club, including six new ones, met at the community house to learn from Mrs. Annie H. Green's interesting demonstration many facts about what foods we need and why we need them. She made up food posters of "3 Meals That Measure Up," showing what we need to eat to give us the necessary food values for a day. She told us of the great importance of protein foods for the body and much about how to retain the vitamins in our vegetables. Score cards on our food habits were given to each of us so that we might check on our own way of eating.

Mrs. J. M. Bentley, president of the club, had charge of the business period. She read, "The Meaning of Easter," and followed it with a short prayer. Mrs. C. M. Ashley read the Easter story as recorded by Luke. The club sang "The Quilting Party," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. V. E. Jennings, who also played, "The Easter Parade." The collect was repeated in concert, after which the secretary, Mrs. W. C. Anderson, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll, which was answered by telling what room each had chosen to improve this year. The recreational leader, Mrs. Kenneth Broyhill, announced that the Easter egg hunt and party for the children would be held Saturday, April 16, at 2 p. m. at the community house and that it would include a picnic lunch.

During the business period the club elected the present community house building committee with the addition of Vaughn Broyhill to serve as a board of trustees for the building, since it is nearing completion. The officers of the club are to meet with the recreational leader to make plans for the spring reception for the young people, honoring our high school graduates. These plans will be announced at the May meeting. Miss Thompson, our new assistant agent, was introduced and welcomed to the club.

The Easter season was really ushered in with the dress parade that about 20 of the members put on, wearing new prints with zippers and bound button holes showing what they had learned from the March demonstration. Prizes went to Mrs. Russel Brookshire and Mrs. Ray Parleir for the prettiest dresses and to Mrs. C. P. Brock for best zipper and to Mrs. Bentley Parleir for best button holes. Mesdames F. M. Jennings, V. E. Jennings and R. K. Broyhill judged the dresses. Mrs. Vaughn Broyhill was remembered by the other members with a beautiful shower. Easter favors of colored eggs, rabbits, ducks, and chickens were found on the refreshment plates. Spring flowers were used on the tables and piano. An Easter contest was conducted by Mrs. Grace Johnson. Numbers were sold and lovely aprons went to Mrs. B. M. Broyhill and Mrs. Everette Davis as the winners. Mrs. W. G. Johnson and Mrs. J. M. Bentley were hostesses for the afternoon.—Mrs. J. M. Bentley, reporter.

'48 Poultry Receipts Total $35,000,000

Raleigh, April 12.—Cash receipts from North Carolina's poultry industry last year totaled more than $35,000,000, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service announced today. This is exclusive of the cash value of chickens and eggs consumed on farms. The 1947 receipts totaled $52,511,000. Chickens produced on farms in 1948 totaled 16,898,000, of which 7,562,000 were sold for $8,750,000. Cash receipts from eggs totaled $25,040,000. Chickens and eggs consumed on farms represented total values of $9,411,000 and $13,000,000, respectively.

State Highway Fatalities Jump

Raleigh, April 11.—Fatalities on North Carolina highways so far this year are running 20 per cent ahead of 1948. Motor Vehicles Commissioner Landon Rosser said today. Through April 1, 170 persons lost their lives in accidents on the state's streets and highways. The figure on April 1, 1948, stood at 143. Rosser said that the unusually low death toll in February, 1948, is mainly responsible for the difference. Because of extremely bad weather during much of that month, he added, fatalities were cut to 38. Two months ago, 67 persons died in highway mishaps.

The Story of a Story...

THE STORY of little Kathy Fiscus stirred the nation. Little Kathy, playing with two other children in a vacant lot in San Marino, Calif., fell into a well-like water pipe late Friday. Saturday morning's newspapers first told the story of little Kathy and of the efforts to rescue her.

The rescue efforts continued all day Saturday, and through the night that followed. Tons of equipment—bulldozers and steam-shovels and other earth-moving devices — and hundreds of people were at the scene. Engineers and miners and thin men from the circus and midgets . . . all trying to figure out how to get little Kathy out of the well.

By Sunday morning the whole nation was trying to figure out how to get little Kathy out of the well! The people in San Marino, Calif., found their hopes and prayers shared by people in all of the 48 states . . . people in New York and Chicago . . . people in Attleboro, Mass. and in Amarillo, Texas . . . people in Wichita, Kan., and in Winter Park, Fla. . . people in New Jersey and North Dakota and in Nebraska and North Carolina . . .

Those people looked to their newspapers to provide the answers to their questions about Kathy . . . they depended upon their newspapers to paint, with printer's ink, a vivid picture — and an accurate picture — of the drama that was taking place on that vacant lot in San Marino, California.

THE MEMBERS of the staff of The Winston-Salem Journal knew that the people of North Carolina would want complete coverage of the story of little Kathy . . . and they knew that thousands would look to The Journal for that kind of coverage . . .

That's why The Journal made arrangements to obtain up-to-the-minute coverage of the story of little Kathy. Photographs taken in San Marino on Saturday were transmitted by wire to Atlanta and then flown into Winston-Salem . . . That's why The Journal and Sentinel on Sunday was the only North Carolina newspaper with pictures of Kathy and of the efforts to save her life . . .

This is how North Carolina's six largest Sunday newspapers covered the story of Kathy:

(State Editions)	Column Inches Of Type	Photographs
The Journal & Sentinel	61	4
Newspaper B	24	None
Newspaper C	19	None
Newspaper D	10	None
Newspaper E	16	None
Newspaper F	24	None

Again on Monday The Journal was ahead of the field. Utilizing the wire services of The Associated Press and the United Press, and again making arrangements for special photographic service, The Journal presented the most thorough coverage of the final 24 hours of the San Marino story. Monday's Journal has the most complete word coverage of the San Marino story . . . and The Journal was the only newspaper in North Carolina with Monday morning pictures of Sunday's rescue operation.

The story of little Kathy had a sad ending. The members of The Journal staff had shared with thousands of other people the hope that the story might have a happy ending.

But whatever the story . . . whether it be the story of little Kathy or the story of the United Nations . . . or the Sugar Bowl football game or a New York fashion show . . . or a fire in Winston-Salem or a war in China . . . the staff of The Winston-Salem Journal will be at work sparing no effort to make their coverage the best.

"THE CRUSADES" is in the great DeMille tradition . . . a magnificent show . . . timely as today's headlines . . . the story of the struggle for possession of the Holy Land, a battle that is taking place today in the towns and hills of Palestine." — Says LOUELLA PARSONS
