Mrs. M. B. McNeill Entertains Her Club

The members of the Sans Souci club and some extra guests were entertained Thursday evening by Mrs. M. B. McNeill at her home on Ninth street. An ice course preceded the game of bridge played at two tables. High and second high score prizes were won by Mrs. Boyd Stout and Mrs. R. H. Shell.

Ila Holman Bible Class In Meeting

Mrs. Pearl Yates and Mrs. Coley Parker entertained the members of the Ila Holman Bible class of the Wilkesboro Baptist church at the Yates home Wednesday afternoon, having ten members and two visitors present. Mrs. R. L. Wellborn, who was in charge of the program, led the devotions using as her theme, The Christian Home. Mrs. Nan Hoyle made a talk on the same thought, and others taking part on the program were Mesdames Elmer Dancy, P. J. Mitchell, Carl Bullis, and T. M. Foster. Mrs. Wellborn conducted the business session, and during the social hour the hostesses served refreshments.

Ex Libris Club Met With Mrs. Ford

Ex Libris club members were entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. James Ford at her home on F Street. For the program Mrs. Ford gave a sketch of the life of William Faulkner, a southern writer from Mississippi, and read one of his short stories. Mrs. Darwin Smithy, president of club, presided for a short business session. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served a salad course with sweets.

Miss Betty Lou Foster Speaks Vows With William F. Gaddy

The First Baptist church was setting Saturday afternoon, July 16, for the wedding of Miss Betty Lou Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Foster, of North Wilkesboro, and William Frederick Gaddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gaddy, also of this city. Dr. John T. Wayland, pastor of the bride, heard the vows at four o'clock using the double ring ceremony.

The altar was banked with ferns, floor baskets of white gladioli and baby chrysanthemums, and lighted by white candles in seven-branched candle-labra.

Mrs. Robert Davis, organist, prior to the ceremony hour rendered a program of nuptial music which included "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Always," and "Liebestraum." Mrs. Wake Clark sang "Because" and "Through the Years," and as a benediction Rev. Dean Minton sang "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional, and as the vows were spoken the organist sounded muted notes of "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Geraldine Gaddy, sister of the groom, as maid of honor; Miss Betty Jean McNeill and Miss Agnes Reynolds as bridesmaids.

Best man for the groom was his brother, Jack Gaddy, and the ushers were LeRoy Lane, Atlanta, Ga., Jack Strader, Gene Foster, and Bill Eller.

The bride's dress of white embossed organza was made with cap sleeves and a full floor-length skirt. She wore elbow length mitts and a strand of pearls, which were worn by her mother on her wedding day. Her fingertip length veil of illusion fell from a crown of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, centered with an orchid, and showered with valley lillies.

The maid of honor was dressed in ice blue organdy made with a very full skirt and a ruffled V neckline. She carried a nosegay of pink baby chrysanthemums and wore a crown of the same flowers in her hair. The bridesmaids dresses were of pink organdy fashioned after the maid of honor's dress, and their nosegays and headdresses were of lavender baby chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Foster, mother of the bride, wore a powder blue crepe street-length dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Gaddy, mother of the groom, chose a navy dress and white accessories. Her corsage was of white rosebuds.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to points in Virginia, and upon their return they will be at home at 411 Eighth Street, North Wilkesboro. For travel the bride changed to a yellow Hand-macher suit with matching hat, brown and white accessories, and pinned at her shoulder the orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the North Wilkesboro high school. The groom, a graduate of Georgia Military Academy, at College Park, Ga., holds a position with the Gaddy Motor Company in North Wilkesboro.

The Cake-Cutting Party

On Friday evening following the rehearsal Mrs. Ray Barnes, aunt of the bride, Mr. Barnes, and the bride's parents entertained at a cake-cutting party at the Barnes home on E street honoring the bridal couple and members of their wedding party. In the dining room the decorations and appointments emphasized the bridal note, and elsewhere about the home mixed flowers were used. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, white flowers and gleaming white candles decorated the dining table covered with a white cloth.

After the bride and groom cut the first piece of cake Mrs. Cleve Beshears cut and served the remainder. Mrs. Cecil Hayes presided at the punch bowl and assisting with the serving were Miss Janett McGrady, of Greensboro, and Mrs. John Crawford.

Kentucky 31 rescue is proving to be popular among Wilkes county farmers, several of whom are producing seed as a cash crop.

Soil Conservation In Wilkes

J. E. Smith, of the Clingman community, is now growing alfalfa and lespedeza hay and corn that will go near the one hundred bushel mark on land that he says would not 'sprout peas' when he started using conservation measures a few years ago.

Zeb Beshears, of Summit, says that the farmers of his neighborhood have doubled yields on their farms in the past ten years. Mr. Beshears says that this has been done by adding needed fertilizers and lime and rotating grass and legumes with the row crops. He says that from his own experience he has found that there is still a shortage of potash in many cases.

The personnel of the Tri-Creek Soil Conservation District was in Raleigh last Thursday and Friday, June 23 and 24, studying conservation practices and good pasture improvement displayed by the State Experimental farms of the State College of Agriculture.
