JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB RAISING FUNDS FOR CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY OF NORTH CAROLINA

Junior Woman's clubs in North Carolina have selected support of the Children's Home Society of North Carolina as their state-wide project.

To better acquaint the public with the project, the following editorial comment from a recent issue of the Greensboro Daily News is reproduced:

Children do not ask to be born into this world. When they are born and have no families to provide for them, what happens to them?

What happens to them in North Carolina? Fortunately in this state there is an organization which for nearly 50 years has been dealing with that problem in a sympathetic, practical and expert way.

Its work "begins with one of the most tragic situations known, a baby who is not wanted, and ends with one of the finest and happiest in the world, an American home where two parents will love and rear another American child."

The society, which was organized in 1903, is one of the largest and oldest in the nation. It has cared for babies from every county in the state, and it has found good homes for them in every part of the state.

The problem with which it deals is a continuing one. During the last five years over 8,000 white babies were born out of wedlock in North Carolina.

These statistics are dead things but the mothers who were helped—helped to keep their children if that were practicable—or to find good homes for them if they were not, and the babies themselves, were and are very much alive.

Scholarship At Yale

Malcolm Gambill, son of Attorney and Mrs. Robert M. Gambill, of Wilkesboro, left Monday for New Haven, Conn., where he is enrolled as a student at Yale University.

This great work is an investment in citizenship, and like most investments it costs money, money for case workers, food, lodging, medical care, laundry, and so on.

The society is not tax-supported. It depends entirely on voluntary contributions. North Carolinians, and particularly the people of Greensboro where the society has its headquarters, support it because they know it is efficiently managed and they know its value to the state.

But for more help for more babies more support is needed. This year the Junior Women's Clubs of North Carolina have selected the society as their state-wide project to obtain new memberships with increased funds.

Polio Epidemic Fund Here Only $100.00 To Date

Only $100.00 has been raised to date in the Polio Epidemic Emergency Drive, it was announced today by Sam Ogilvie, Chairman of the Wilkes County Polio Chapter.

In emphasizing the urgent need for more contributions Mr. Ogilvie pointed out that this amount of money would pay less than two days hospital expenses of the six Wilkes children who are now being treated for Polio, and there are over 20,000 victims of Polio elsewhere in the U. S. It is estimated that before the epidemic is over there will be over 40,000 victims. Unless more money is raised the Wilkes County Chapter will be forced to discontinue helping the local victims immediately and if the Drive is unsuccessful on a nation wide scale it will result in thousands of victims going without treatment.

It will not be possible to personally solicit contributions in this campaign, but everyone is asked to mail a contribution to Sam Ogilvie, Chairman, North Wilkesboro, N. C. or to "Polio" in care of your local postoffice.
