CHARLIE SPIVAK, COMING HERE DECEMBER 20, RANKS NEAR TOP

Charlie Spivak, "The Man who Plays The Sweetest Trumpet in the World," is the musician whose fresh and original idiom in trumpet playing is described as "honey in the horn." He is the leader of an eight-year-old band which rocketed to top flight stature so fast that it now ranks among the kings in the entertainment world.

Spivak and his orchestra will play for the V. F. W. dance here December 20.

Notches in Spivak's musical belt are 20th Century-Fox's "Pin-Up Girl" starring Betty Grable and "Follow the Boys" for Universal and a flock of box-office records created at the Paramount Theatre in New York, the Hotel Statler, New York, the Palladium in Hollywood and other top spots. Spivak's music-making is so solidly established for its individuality that it can be identified whenever and wherever it is played, as "indubitably Charlie's."

Born in New Haven, Connecticut, Spivak got his first trumpet while still in grade school, a tiny instrument with the first valve practically on top of Charlie's nose. He went to Hill House High School in New Haven, studying the trumpet on his own time with George Hyer who is a member of the New Haven Symphony Orchestra. The fact that Spivak's family had charted out a medical career for him didn't alter Spivak's decision to take to the brass, and when Paul Specht, then one of the country's outstanding bandleaders, offered him a job he signed up—and remained with the outfit for five years.

He next joined the Benny Pollack band, another number one outfit, and his next stop was the Dorsey Brothers band where he sat alongside such musicians as Glen Miller, Skeets Herft and Bob Crosby. When Ray Noble came to America, he asked Glen to help him organize a band, and the first musician to be signed was Spivak.

When Spivak left to try his musical wings on his own, he became the highest paid free lance trumpeter in radio, playing on the Ford Symphony Hour, Kate Smith and Fred Allen broadcasts. When he felt ready to organize his own band, a lot of encouragement came from Glen Miller who told him he had all the ingredients necessary for a winning combination. Spivak got his first big engagement at the Glen Island Casino, jumping off place for more than a dozen of the nation's top-flight band-leaders. He was so successful that the Casino, traditionally a summer spot, broke a precedent by keeping its doors open for the winter season to accommodate Spivak's drawing power. Spivak came to the Cafe Rouge of the Hotel Statler shortly there after and broke Glenn Miller's and Jimmy Dorsey's records there and then did the same thing at the Commodore. He has been a regular fall attraction at the Statler every season.

A highlight was his award by Downbeat Magazine as the top sweet band. Spivak is mild mannered and quiet-spoken. He is five feet eight inches tall, has brown hair, blue eyes and blushes at a compliment. A baseball fan, Spivak has organized a team within his band. Charlie plays center field.
