

Portsmouth, on the Outer Banks of North Carolina, has more buildings than people. Once a thriving town of 1,000, and North Carolina's first port of entry, Portsmouth's population is now 18. Fishing and hunting are its industries.

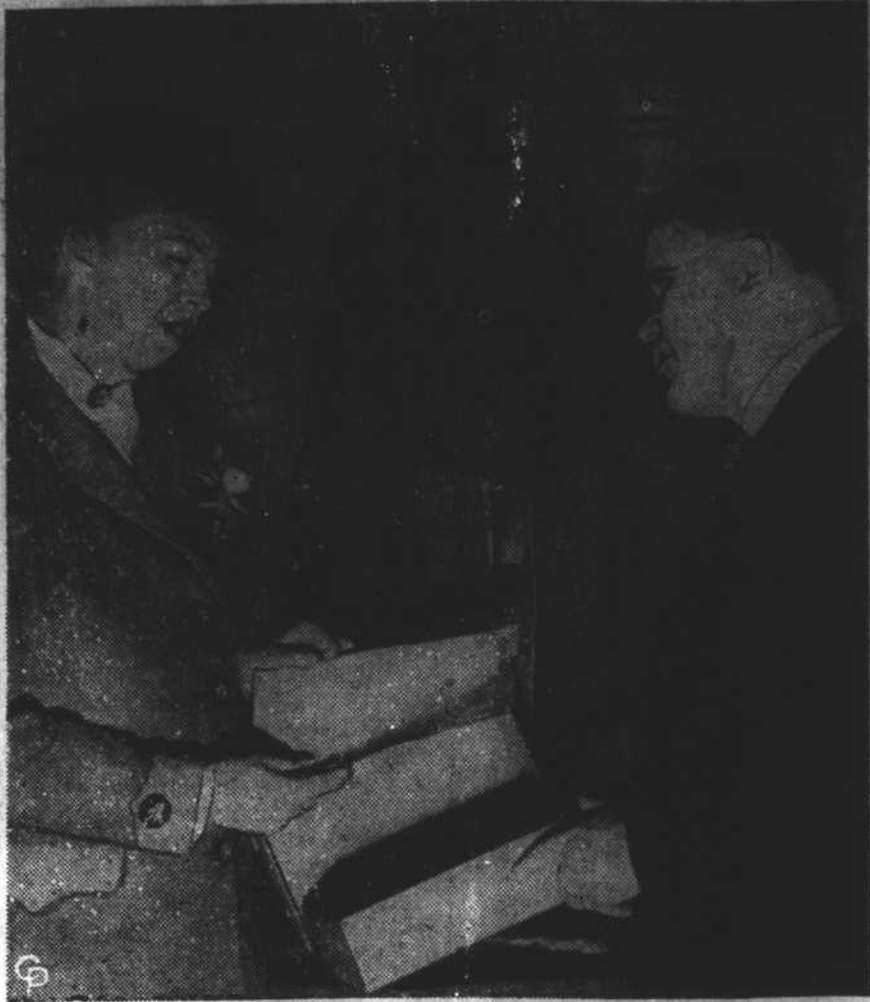

Alumni Of State College Hear Dr. Colwell In Elkin

Dr. W. E. Colwell, head of the Agronomy Department at N. C. State College, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Northwestern Alumni Club in Elkin, Monday night, March 13. Dr. Colwell outlined the "Green Pastures" campaign for North Carolina as planned by the committee appointed by Governor Scott. The campaign will be the coordinated efforts of professional and commercial agencies and farm organizations, which are directly concerned with the production of forage and utilizations of livestock products.

The goal of the "Green Pasture" campaign, as stated by Dr. Colwell, is two million Ladino acres. He emphasized that North Carolina needs more pastures, as the state has the equivalent of 1,200,000 animal units. According to Dr. Colwell, if pastures were properly used, two million acres would be a minimum for these animal units. Furthermore improved pastures are a third cheaper than corn in comparative feed value. Dr. Colwell reminded the group that North Carolina needs additional livestock to produce the livestock products it consumes.

Dr. Colwell reminded the group that a crop is needed to replace acreage turned out of cultivated crops and to put idle land into production. Ladino pastures have additional advantages for North Carolina, he said, because they protect the soil from erosion and improve the productive level of the soil.

Dr. Colwell told the group that pastures would pay because there are adapted forage plants in this state, and people know successful methods of seeding, fertilizing and managing improved pastures. He pointed out that North Carolina has a climate that favors a long-growing season for Ladino clover with grass mixtures. North Carolina has a third more frost-free days than a leading dairy state and two-fifths more rainfall than the same state.

The members and their wives of the Northwestern Club, which includes the N. C. State alumni of Wilkes, Yadkin, Surry, Alleghany and Ashe counties were further treated with a movie of the State-Long Island basketball game and a "Dutch" dinner at the Elkin YMCA.

Resolutions of Respect

In memory of Brother Elisha M. Hutchinson, who died Jan. 3, 1950.

Once again hath death summoned a Brother Odd Fellow, and the golden gateway to the Eternal City has opened to welcome him to his home. He has completed his work in ministering to the wants of the afflicted, in shedding light into darkened souls, and in bringing joy into the places of misery, and as his reward has received the plaudit "Well Done" from the Supreme Master; and

Whereas, The all-wise and merciful Master of the Universe has called from labor to refreshment our beloved and respected brother, and he having been a true and faithful member of our beloved Order, therefore be it

Resolved, That Union Lodge No. 331, I. O. O. F. of N. Wilkesboro, in testimony of its loss, drape its Charter in mourning for thirty days, that we tender to the family of our deceased Brother our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Carter's Opening Here Big Success

Formal opening of Carter's Jewelry store here during the latter part of the week was very successfully carried out.

The three-day formal opening event of Carter's which opened in December for business in the building between Allen Theatre and Payne Clothing company, was largely attended and was climaxed Saturday night by giving away valuable prizes. The $150 diamond ring went to Mrs. Balmer Hayes, of Millers Creek, and the $71.50 watch to Mrs. Warren Broynhill.

The Cherokees of North Carolina do not know what the name of their tribe means. They call themselves "Ani-Yunwiwa" or "real people."

North Carolina now has 25 organized conservation districts which include 28,022,400 acres of land. Three new districts were set up during 1949.
