In the Senate, on Monday, the Free Suffrage bill was brought up for a second reading, when Mr. HAUGUTON moved to amend the first section, by providing that no unnaturalized foreigner shall vote for members of the Senate or House of Commons, which amendment was finally passed by a vote of 26 to 23, despite the strenuous opposition of the Hon. Asa Bigos, United States Senator elect, who seemed, during the whole proceedings, to be undergoing a purgatobill passed by a vote of 36 to 14. In the House of Commons, on Friday last, the Bill introduced by Mr. Steele for the incor-here he exercised his sarcastic powers to their full extent, but he failed to advance a single tenable argument against what is reported to be their doctrine.' "His talk about oligarchies and Wall street jugglers was very unfortunate for him. It is well known that one of the principal supporters of Franklin Pierce was a Wall street broker, named Belmont. Our readers have heard of this worthy before; how he gave a large sum of money to elect Gen. Pierce, and received a foreign appointment as a reward, although he had but a few weeks betore represented a foreign government in this country. And who is Marcy but a Wall street juggler and spoilsman, and is not he the first lieutenant of this administration, to which the Staunton Convention has hitched Mr. Wise ? Mr. W. utterly failed to advance an argument that was at all tenable. The chief power of his

AFTERNOON SESSION Justices of the Peace were appointed for the vanous counties of the State. The proceedings were of an amusing character, with some serious debate, however Mr. Turner, of Orange, addressed the House at some length upon the impropriety and unseemliness of making the business of appointing magistrates a mere matter of fun. He said it needed no persubsion or argument on his part to convince every member of the House, that there had been a great couse of the power of creating magistrates by former Legislatures. Every member on this floor had condence of it at home. He looked upon the appointment of forty-two new magistrates, which and now proposed for one county, as a gross abuse of the appointing power ; and though it might not be the popular side of the question, he would op-pose it, though he stood alone in the matter. He appealed to gentiemen to know if they had not heard, in every country, frequent complaint, that a majority of the magistrates could not be assem bled when the public business demanded that they should be. Such complaints, he submitted, would not be heard, if each County had only as many magistrates as was necessary for the wants and convenience of the people, and the speedy and proper administration of the law.
