Piedmont Springs.—The Undersigned has become proprietor of the above named springs. They are situated near the centre of Stokes county, N. C., in a high, healthy, mountainous region of country, within a short distance of Dan River, the Cascade, and "The Torys' Den," a very noted place in the revolutionary war. They also command a fine view of the Blue Ridge, Pilot Mountain, and Pauratown Mountains. The roads leading to the Springs have lately been greatly improved, so that they are now easily accessible to the traveling public, and during the summer season a stage from Salem will run regularly to the Springs to convey passengers. The proprietor has been at great expense in furnishing and refitting the buildings and improving the grounds, and he pledges himself to spare no pains to render comfortable and pleasant all persons who may visit the Springs, whether for health or pleasure. The mineral water of these Springs have been pronounced by competent judges to be equal to any in the United States. The season will open on the first of June next.

He flatters himself that he can and will offer them at prices so low as to astonish all who will give him a call. Ladies and customers generally, who wish to secure great bargains, should not fail to examine his large and attractive assortment of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, embracing almost every style of Ladies' Dress Goods, of the newest and latest importations. 250 pieces of the newest style Prints; 100 pieces of Muslins and Lawns, from 10 cents up. Organdies, Jaconetts, Barages, Brilliants, Challies, Barage D'Lain, Ginghams, Embroideries, Mantillas, Silk Parasols and Fans, at all prices, Straw and Silk Bonnets, from 25 cents to $10. Did I say bonnets at 25 cents?—Yes, who is it that cannot buy a bonnet? Linen and Cotton goods for men and boys' wear, of every style, price, and quality; Black and Fancy Cassimeres, Italian and Drab, etc. etc., for Pants and Coats. A splendid lot of Moleskin and Soft Hats, Straw and Leghorn Hats. Also, Boots, Shoes, and Umbrellas, Ready-Made Clothing,—in fact, I have almost every thing, from a baby shoe up to a fine dress, or from a fine Mantilla down to a ball of cord.
Now, customer, allow me to say one or two words. You talk about this New Store selling goods cheap, and that Old Store,—young folks and old folks. Why, customer, what are you thinking about? Why, I will sell you goods just as cheap as you can buy them of any honest man that intends paying for his goods, in this City, County, or State. I ask you to call and examine my stock, and if the styles, prices, and quality do not suit you, pass them. You will find me always ready at my post—ready and willing to serve my customers, and to give them the worth of their money
I return them my grateful thanks for the liberal patronage they have bestowed, and I hope to merit a continuance of the same.

Desirable Hotel Property for Sale.
The well known Hotel, in Greensboro', N. C., "The Bland House," will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, on Tuesday, the 21st day of April next. This valuable property consists of a large frame house, with rooms, parlors and offices, a row of brick rooms, a commodious dining room, with a cooking establishment in the basement, kitchens, stables, garden, &c
The Hotel is nearly in the centre of the town, and can accommodate more persons than any other establishment of the kind in the place.
Since the completion of the North-Carolina Railroad, Greensboro' is likely to become a place of Summer Resort for people from the eastern and southern parts of the State; and there is also a very considerable travel between this place and Danville, the nearest point on the Richmond and Danville Railroad.
Greensboro' contains two of the most flourishing and celebrated Female Seminaries in the Southern country; and while these bring a large number of visitors at all seasons, the crowd at the annual examinations is so great that it is difficult to find accommodations.
Persons wishing further information before the day of sale, can make personal or written application to
JOHN A. GILMER, ESQ.,
Or to either of the undersigned, at Greensboro',

[From the London Times, March 5.]

A MARRIAGE IN THE ROTHSCHILD FAMILY.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 4th instant, a marriage was celebrated with great pomp and splendor at Gunnersbury Park, near Chiswick, the country seat of Baron Lionel de Rothschild. The contracting parties were the representatives of the two great—or, rather, greatest—firms of the Rothschild family—the bride being Miss Leonora, the eldest daughter of Baron Lionel, and the bride-groom Baron Alphonse, the eldest son of Baron James Rothschild of Paris.

The wedding repast was laid out in two large rooms, one of which was especially built to the dining room for the occasion. Both were decorated with exquisite taste and splendor. The walls were covered with large mirrors, with ornamental trellis work between, up which were twined large garlands of flowers, lilies, wreaths large blossoms, and other emblematic Flora suited to the occasion. The outer saloon was lighted from the roof, which was entirely composed of glass, over the panes of which were strained fluting of white and pink silk in the form of a Maltese cross.

The subdued roseate hue thus shed into the chamber beneath produced a most beautiful effect. Tables were ranged along the whole length of both apartments, and, but that in this age of progress tables turned instead of groaning, we should have expected them to remonstrate at the weight of silver which was piled upon them. Great centre pieces, epergnes, candelabra race-cups, and massive tankards, flower vases, and the chief d'œuvre of Sevres, Dresden, and Worcester strewed the board in rich profusion. The wedding cake, a very marvel of sugar architecture, was in the centre at the top, upon a salver, which for size and weight might have done duty as a shield for Achilles, while behind the seats of honor rose up a buffet of gold plate—a black-ground quite in keeping with the gorgeousness of the whole scene. The covers were laid for 140. Only the plate of the family was used.—We cannot hazard a guess as to either its weight or value, but it must be enormous.

The bridal presents, both in quality and rarity, were more than sufficient to have stocked an eastern bazaar; so a mere glance at the most prominent must suffice. Breakfast services, as usual, distinctly prevailed, there being some five or six of them, all of silver, except one set from Mrs. Montefiore, which was of massive standard gold enriched with the most elaborate chasings. To this princely gift proceeded a long row of candlesticks, gold and silver filagree, and enamelled ivory work-boxes, lace, fans, jeweled buttons, prayer books, bound in gold and jeweled, escritoires of buhl and marqueterie, more breakfast services and a lace parasol. The latter was in a kind of jewel-case, the handle was covered with serpents of rubies and diamonds, and the tip of each rib was formed of an oval shaped emerald and large pearl. Arranged on tables by themselves were the jewels, a dazzling pile, all given by different members of the Rothschild family. Close by these, and in a well-merited place of honor, were some humble but beautifully worked little presents from the scholars and pupil teachers of the Jewish free school.

Shortly before 3½ o'clock the guests who were invited to be present at the ceremony began to arrive. The visitors assembled in the drawing-room, where Dr. Adler the chief Rabbi, assisted by Mr. Archer and Mr. Green, prepared to perform the ceremony according to the rights of the Jewish religion. A velvet canopy, supported by 4 of the bridegroom's garcons honneur, was placed at the upper end of the room. The bridegroom was then led in by his nearest male relatives, and placed under the canopy. The bride, who till then had remained in her apartment, descended to the saloon, attended by no less than sixteen bridesmaids, all attired alike in white dresses, trimmed with light blue, the bride wearing the usual lace dress and orange blossoms.—At the door of the saloon she was met by her mother, who, assisted by the bridesmaids, completely enveloped her whole figure and person in a veil which reached to the ground, and which is worn in compliance with the scriptural verse in Genesis relating to Rebecca. She was then conducted to the saloon with the same forms as the bridegroom and placed under the canopy.—The Chief Rabbi, having p
