WEDNESDAY MORNING, DFC. 18, 1861.

THE CAMPAIGN ON THE KANAWHA. We find in the Bowling Green Courier the following article which that paper extracts from the Goods were bought in times of peace, and consequent- | Cincinnati Times. This testimony from the enemy, of the efficiency of our operations on the Kanawha, must, of course, be accepted as reliable so far as it speaks in our favor : The second escape of Floyd from Western Virginia, without even a battle, certainly should not be very satisfactory to the Government. His forces were much less than Rosencranz's, and the latter had ample time to cut off Floyd's retreat, or at least force him to battle. That it was not done is one of the mysteries of the campaign -At a time when it was supposed that Western Virginia was free from rebels, Floyd stole a march upon Rosencranz, suddenly appearing upon the opposite bank of the river, and throwing balls into Rosencranz's camp. For several days and fifty patients. The gallant Old North State Flovd's cannon commanded the roads connecting our camps, and cut-off all transportation during

The boldness of the movement was only equalied by the supineness which afflicted our side. The taunts of the rebels were submitted to without resistance. We were told, and so was the Government, that Rosencranz was aware of Floyd's advance; that no resistance had been made because As Reported by the Secretary of the State Conven-Rosencranz wished him to advance, and that now that Floyd was upon the Gauley, Rosencranz had him just where he wanted him, and that in a few days Floyd would be bagged. Then followed a silence of several days, and at last came the intelligence that Floyd and his whole force had escaped, making a successful retreat to a point out of reach of our forces. The announcement created no little astonishment, and as the facts connected with the case

It seems, that after suffering a bombardment of several days, General Rosencranz adopted a plan to surround Floyd and cut off his retreat. Three brigades, embracing a force superior in numbers, were detailed for that purpose. Gen. Benham was commanded to cross the river below Floyd, while Cox and Schneck were to cross waiting for orders to march. At last those orders were received, and Benham advanced to the rebel camp. He gave the signals agreed upon, and received answers from the other brigades that all was right, yet when he reached the rebel camp he found it freshly deserted. The other brigades had failed in their movements, and Floyd, taking advantage of that fact, retreated through the unobstructed road before him. It has since transpired that but for a fortunate night's rest, ordered by Gen. Benham, his brigade would have been precipitated upon Floyd's whole force, and cut off Gates, from all aid, might have been annihilated by superior numbers. The result is just this: Floyd has escaped a second time, when he should have been captured. As at Carnefax, he out-generaled Gen. Rosencranz. At the former he drew off his forces safely with a small loss, while to-day Rosencranz's forces have not recovered from the terrible forced marches Hyde, they were then subjected to. As we have before remarked, our loss by disease, resulting from the hardships of that occasion, is greater than that of all the battles which have been fought in Western Virginia. In this last expedition, Floyd certainly eluded what was proclaimed as a sure trap for the destruction of his army. Such are the unpleasant truths which come to us from the Kanawha. We can but reiterate the opinion heretofore expressed, that Gen. Rosencranz can be superceded to advantage. We should like to see a General in command of that department who could at least prove a match for Nash,

The following receipts, says the Milledgeville Union, have been furnished us for publication by Mrs. Hansell, of Marietta-a lady whose elegant accomplishments and skill in all the departments of housewifery, will entitle her experience to the highest consideration. They have come in a good time, and will be properly appreciated by the country at large: FOR MAKING TALLOW CANDLES .- For every 10 pounds of tallow, have 4 pounds of alum; dissolve the alum in 2 gallons of hot water; boil the Stanly, tallow first in slear water 2 hours. After it is Stokes, perfectly cold, cut the tallow out, scrape off all Surry, the sediment from the bottom of the tallow, and boil it in the alum water 2 or 3 hours, skimming it well. After it becomes cold, again scrape off all the sediment, which adheres to the bottom of the tallow; and simmer until all the water is out | Watauga, of the tallow, which may be known by any one | Wayne, accustomed to boiling lard or tallow. After every drop of water is out, it is then ready to mould .-To make the tallow still more firm, though not so | Yadkin, white, add 3 pounds of bees wax to every 10 pounds | Yancey, of tallow, and boil it with the tallow in the alum water. As the common candle wick is too large, split the wick and put it in the moulds. FOR CORNING BEEF OR PORK .- To one gallon of water, take 12 pounds of salt, half pound of brown sugar, half ounce of saltpetre; in this ratio, the pickle to be increased to any quantity desired. Let these be boiled until all the dirt from the salt and sugar rises to the top and is skimmed off. Then throw the pickle into a large, clean tub to cool, and when perfectly cold, pour it over the mest, which must be in a tight barrel or box, the brine, by putting something heavy on it .-The meat must not be put in the brine until it has been killed at least two nays, during which time it must be spread out and lightly sprinkled with saltpetre. Twenty gallons of water, 20 p salt, 10 pounds of sugar and 10 ounces of saltpetre, will fill a barrel. The same brine can be used a second time by boiling and skimming it

The following has just been made public: DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, Dec. 4, 1861. To Major-General George P. McClellan, Washington City: General :- I am directed by the President to call your attention to the following subject : Persons claiming to be held to service or approved August 6, 1861, entitled "an act to coniscate property used for insurrectionary purposes," such hostile employment is made a full and sufficient answer to any further claim to service or labor. Persons thus employed, and escaping, are received into military protection of the United States, and their arrest as fugitives from labor or service should be immediately followed by the military arrest of the parties making the seizure. Copies of this communication will be sent to the Mayor of the City of Washington and to the Marshal of the Pistrict of Columbia, that any collision between the military and civil authorities may be avoided.

By the fourth section of the act of Congress.
