WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 1, 1862.

LATE NORTHERN NEWS.

THE EFFECT OF THE ENGLISH NEWS.

From the New York Herald, of the 17th inst.,

we make the following condensation of news: The Herald pretends that the Federal Administration will not attach much importance to the denunciations of the British press, nor will it accept the statement of the decision of the British Cabinet as a just exposition of the policy of Her Majesty's Government: It relies upon the sober second thought of the statesmen of England .-After a full examination of the situation of affairs, the Heruld admits a belligerent aspect, but says that however much John Bull may bluster and try to bluff the Cabinet at Washington, he cannot afford to fight. The confiscation of debts and loss of Canada will make England pay the expenses of the war. The Washington correspondent of the Herald says that the Cabinet was in session several hours on Tuesday, discussing the difficulty with England. It was decided that, whatever demands the British Government might make of the United States, the Confederate Commissioners should never be surrendered. This is a fixed fact. The Bank Convention assembled in New York on the 16th inst., and decided not to suspend specie payment. The Herald says, however, that the decision was not final. One bank has already suspended, and it is thought others will soon follow. A telegrapic despatch from Port Royal to the New York Herald says that three thousand negroes from South Carrlina have sought protection at the hands of the Federal forces, and that they have already picked two millions pounds of cotton for the U. S. Government. An article in the same paper says that Gen. Butler is landing at Ship Island, and that the Federal coil is surely crushing out the Southern The English brig Mary Morton reports that the privateer Sumter and the Federal gun-boat Iroquois had a severe engagement, and one of them is now at Martinique for repairs. This is 6's at 88, and 5's at 80: Erie shares at 47: Virginia 6's 46. Cotton 40 cents per pound. Coffee 20 cents. Mess pork $12.50. Bacon 7 cents.-

Lard 8 cents. From the New York Times, of the 17th inst., and other papers, we make up the following sum-

The News from England has created great excitement at the North; and its effect there was very unsettling on the markets. Exchange on London went up to 110 to 111 per cent., which presupposes an immediate suspension of payments at bank in specie, (or in other words, as we have just learned from another source, the Northern banks have suspended specie payment.) The consequence on the stock market was a general fall of about three per cent., and a depreciation in several instances of 5 a 6 per cent. Federal securities fell 2 per cent.; Missouri's, 3 per cent. Cotton has gone up; sales of middlings 40 cents, and a lot of good middlings 42 cents.

THE PRESS ON THE NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

From the Baltimore Sun, of the 17th. The press, of course, freely comment on the news from England, in relation to the Slidell-Mason excitement. The N. Y. Times, Rep., speaking of the decision of the legal officers of the British Crown, remarks: It reduces the offence of Capt. Wilkes very materially. It admits his right to visit and search the ship, but insists that he should have taken her into a prize court for adjudication. We are by no means sure that our Government will not concar at once in this opinion. Indeed the only official utterance we have yet had on the subject eans decidedly in that direction. The Secretary of the Navy, while commending in the warmest terms the spirit and patriotism evinced by Capt. Wilkes, complains that he did not take the Trent berself into a neutral port, and only forebore to censure him for this omission in view of the peculiar circumstances of the case. Neither the President nor any other member of his Cabinet has expressed any opinion on the subject. The Times does not anticipate any serious trouble. The N. Y. World, Rep., is also of the opinion that a war is not very probable.

The Philadelphia Ledger is disposed to take a serious view of the subject, and remarks: Whatever may be the intentions of England it is evident that her attitude is of the most horrible character, and we should, therefore instantly prepare for the worst. Every ship-yard in the country should be put instantly at work build-ing vessels-of-war. They will be useful for home service if they are not needed for a foreign war, Our lake and river defences should be at once seen to, and active measures taken to put them into the best possible condition. If Great Britain refuses to sell us saltpetre and arms, we should prohibit the exportation to England of breadstuffs, which she will more need than we do her war

The New York Tribune says: In this emergency we do not presume to say what the Government should or should not do. Whatever course it may adopt will be determined by mature and careful consideration of all the rights and duties of the case. Meanwhile, the first and most pressing of our duties is to fin-ish the rebellion and the blockade at once, by employing the promptest and most efficient means.
President Lircoln wisely forebore any allusion to the arrest in his message to Congress. The Government is, as yet, uncommitted with refer-Lord Lyons will probably in his first commu-nication merely recite the facts, and make a demand fer suitable reparation. Our Government will have first committed itself to the position it intends to take in Secretary Seward's reply, WARE.

FISH! FISH!! FISH!!!

Herrings, Mullets, Mackerel, Salmon, White Fish, and Shad are daily expected at WHITAKER'S CITY EMPORIUM the question open with a view to peace or war, according as its interests may seem to dictate in the future progress of our civil war.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says: Notwithstanding all this bluster of the newspapers, we do not believe there is any more purpose on the part of the English Government to rush headlong into a war with the United States, than there is on our part to provoke a war with England. A conflict between two such powers is no holiday diversion to be engaged in without reflection.

A bill was passed which strikes from the pension roll the names of all persons who have taken up arms against the Government, or in any manner aided the rebellion. Mr. Vallandigham, of Ohlo, (Opp.,) introduced the fellowing preamble and resolution:

Whereas, The Secretary of the Navy has reported to this House that Captain Charles Wilkes, in command of the San Jacinto, an armed public vessel of the United States, did on the 8th of November, 1861, on the high seas, intercept the Trent, a British mail steamer, and forcibly remove therefrom Jas. M. Mason and John Slidell, disloyal citizens, leading conspirators, rebel enemies, and dangerous men, who, with their suites, were on their way to Europe to promote the cause of the insurrection, claiming to be Ambassadors from the second Confederate States;

Whereas, The Secretary of the Navy has fur-ther reported to this House that the prompt and decisive action of Capt. Wilkes on this occasion, merited and received the emphatic approval of the Department, and, moreover, in a public letter, has thanked Captain Wilkes for the act, and Whereas, This House, on the first day of the session, did propose to tender the thanks of Congress to Capt. Wilkes for his brave, adroit, and patriotic conduct, in the arrest of the traiters ames M. Mason and John Slidell, and

DISPATCHES FROM THE COMMANDER OF THE IRO-

The Washington telegraphic correspondent of the New York Times, under date of the 16th inst., says: The Navy Department has received dispatches rom Captain Palmer, commanding the steamer Iroquois, in which he minutely relates his movements in order to capture the pirate Sumter. The Government at Martinique, he says, refused to give the Sumter coal, but allowed her to come to St. Pierro, where she obtained a supply from English merchants. The Sumter had been received with courtesy at the seat of Government, and Capt. Palmer discovered, to use his own language, that "this farce of non-recognition of the Confederate flag by France and England, is played out." He had a correspondence with the Gov-

The Sumter was at that time in port, and the Iroquois obliged to anchor one marine league The majority of the citizens of Port Royal were n favor of the Sumter, and therefore anxious for her escape. Being French, they sympathized with Louisiana, to which State they thought the Sumter belonged. Throughout his proceedings Captain Palmer was apprehensive and fearful that the Sumter would escape him, and wished she were anywhere else than under the French protection, as the authorities were throwing every obstacle in his way. The Governor, however, repudiated every-thing unlike friendliness in reply to Captain Palmer's complaint. Owing to the distance from shore which the Iroquois was obliged to occupy, and the fact that the bay is fifteen miles wide, and for the reasons above stated, the Sumter suc-ceeded in escaping. The Iroquois followed her, but found no vessel visible on the background of the sky. THE COMMANDER OF THE IEOQUOIS TO BE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ESCAPE OF THE SUM-

It is understood here that the Captain of the United States gun-boat Iroquois will be brought to rigid account for not capturing the privateer Sumter at Martinique. His extraordinary regard for Capt. Semmes, of the Sumter, because the latter was his school-mate, and had once been his superior officer, is looked upon as a display of affection and respect of such exalted and unusual character as to require investigation. .
