FRESH MEDICINES AND TOILET ARTICLES.

The Subscriber has the pleasure of announcing to his friends and the public generally, that after much delay, trouble, and expense, owing to the war, and interruption of trade, he has procured a fresh supply of Medicines, Toilets and other articles in his line, which he has been unable to furnish for some time past.

He has to pay CASH for all he buys, and hopes that such of his patrons as do not pay promptly, will take the hint, and that all others, who have not gone to the seat of war to fight for our independence and dearest interests, will pay up their arrears or a part at least, so that he may be able to meet pressing demands, and keep his Stock replenished.

All orders from the country (unless from prompt and reliable parties) will go unnotified, if not accompanied with the CASH or its equivalent.

ANOTHER BRILLIANT VICTORY!

While on my recent visit to the Old Dominion, I had the good fortune to procure from an old friend a demijohn of Rose Cordial of the most delectable flavor—a splendid and invigorating article for the sick. Call, by all means, and get some before it is gone; price 25 cents a bottle. Among the choice variety of other things too tedious to mention, to which the attention of the public is respectfully called, I have a fine lot of the best Hair Brushes. If you want to feel good and peevish in these gloomy times, just call around, procure a brush and a bottle of cordial, and I will guarantee a fine flow of the most hygienic phlegm.

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 18, 1862.

SHELLING A DWELLING IN THE DEAD OF NIGHT—A FAMILY DRIVEN IN THE SNOW.

We are again called upon to note a most wanton and dastardly attack of the Sepoy navy of Lincoln.

About 2 o'clock on Thursday morning last, says the Fredericksburg Herald, two Lincoln steamers ran close into "Chatterton," the family residence of Col. John Tayloe on the Potomac, and fired from 30 to 40 shot and shell at the house, seemingly bent on its destruction.

Col. T. was from home, in command of his cavalry troop, which fact was doubtless well known to the vile miscreants. The house was occupied at the time exclusively by non-combatants, women and children—Mrs. Tayloe, her children—and a few lady friends on a visit.

The attack was of course terrifying, but what cared the miscreants? The family knew not at what moment a shell might explode in their midst, laying waste and desolate, and baptizing with their own blood their heretofore peaceful and quiet hearthstone.

As soon as possible they escaped—yes, escaped from their own home! some in their night clothes, and some barefooted, and were thus forced to subject themselves for hours, during the rigors of a wintry night, to all the cold and inclemency of the season.

Surely such vile brutality has never before been witnessed in any contest carried on between professedly civilized countries. Is it not time, high time, that the 'chalice' was returned to the lips of the brutalized followers of Lincoln?

THE SITUATION.

The Mobile Register says: The enemy has landed at Biloxi on the mainland of the Mississippi coast and is virtually in possession of that village. What he has done at Biloxi he can repeat at any point on the coast accessible to his gunboats. It is for our Generals commanding to determine when and how he is to be fought and resisted. There is a fine field for Mississippi rifles, sharpshooters and active scouts all along those parts of the coast held by the Yankees. A few light cavalry companies could also do effective service in cutting off straggling parties, annoying the enemy's pickets, and harassing him by every means known to warfare. Until we were ready to meet him in force, an active partisan warfare should be carried on. We do not believe that Butler has a soul big enough for any military enterprise above a Hatteras raid. We do not expect to see him attempt to march a column either to New Orleans, Mobile, or Jackson, Mississippi. If he approaches to Mobile by water are secure, we shall see no Yankee troops in Mobile this winter. After the winter is over, the fevers and sandflies peculiar to the climate will be powerful auxiliaries against Northern companies with cut-throat bayonets. All the presence of these Massachusetts invaders is an insult to the Mississippi soil, and no rest should be allowed them while they occupy it. A cordon of light troops should confine them to the coast. The negro population should be sent to the interior, and allowed no communication with the enemy. All property available to support and comfort the enemy should be removed or destroyed. A torch ought to have been applied to Biloxi, and should be applied to every village and hamlet liable to fall into their hands. A patriotic people must be equal to these sacrifices, so that nothing but pine trees and sand barriers are left to our foes.

It is to be regretted, we think, that there is more than one military head to the district embracing the Gulf coasts from Florida and Louisiana—Pensacola, Mobile and New Orleans are alike menaced by the enemy. There are armies in each of these cities, and under one military head they could be concentrated at either point of attack with celerity and certainty. With a Major General commanding at New Orleans, and another at Pensacola and Mobile, this despatch and combination, so necessary in military movements, are prevented by the necessity of previous consultation and agreement. We hope the Government will be made aware of the importance of the fact.

In the landing at Biloxi the citizens of Mobile have nothing to complain of; that the war, so far as a distance from our doors, is coming home to us. Every Federal soldier landed east of the Pascagoula River is a menace to the safety of this city. Mobile can be best defended against land attack at the greatest distance from it where the enemy can be met.

ECONOMY IN BOOTS.—How to make three pair of boots last as long as six, and longer.

The following extract is from Colonel Macrae's Seasonable Hints, which appeared in the Mechanic's Magazine, dated February 3d, 1848. After stating the utility of sheep skin clothing, for persons whose employment renders it necessary that they should be much out of doors, &c., he says: "I will not conclude without inviting the attention of your readers to a cheap and easy way of preserving their feet from wet, and their boots from wear. I have only had three pair of boots for the last six years, (no shoes), and I think that I shall not require any other for the next six years to come. The reason is, that I treat them in the following manner—I put a pound of tallow and a half pound of rosin into a warm pan, and when melted add a quart of a painter's brush until neither the sole or upper leather will suck in any more. If it is desired that the boots should take polish, dissolve an ounce of beeswax with an ounce of turpentine, to which add a teaspoonful of lamp-black. A day or two after the boots have been treated with the tallow and resin, rub over them the wax and turpentine, but not before the fire. Tallow or any other grease becomes rancid and rots the stitching as well as the leather, but the rosin gives it an antiseptic quality which preserves the whole. Boots or shoes should be so large as to admit of wearing in them cork soles—cork is a bad conductor of heat."
