> OLD ABE AND THE WESTERN FARMER. A Washington paper relates the following

President day after day until he procured the characteristic dialogue between Old Abe and a plain Western farmer : A few days ago a western farmer sought the much desired audience. He had a plan for the successful prosecution of the war, to which Mr. Lincoln listened as patiently as he could. When he was through he asked the opinion of the President upon his plan, "Well," said Mr. Lincoln "I'll answer by telling you a story. You have heard of Mr. Blank, of Chicago? He was an immense loafer in his way-in fact, never did anything in his life. One day he got crazy over a great rise in the price of wheat, upon which many wheat speculators gained large fortunes .-Blank started off one morning to one of the most successful of the wheat speculators, and with much enthusiasm laid before him a "plan" by which he was to become independently rich .-When he had finished, he asked the opinion of his hearer upon his plan of operations. The reply came as follows: "My advice is that you stick to your business." "But," asked Blank, "what is my business?" "I don't know, I am sure, what it is," says the merchant, 'but whatever it is, I advise you to stick to it!" "And now," said Mr. Lincoln, "I mean nothing offensive, for I know you mean well, but I think you had better stick to your business, and leave the war to those who have the responsibility of managing it."

WHAT THE NEW YORK HERALD THINKS OF MR. VALLANDIGHAM .- From the New York Herald, of the 9th inst, we extract the fellowing editorial:

At the last session of Congress the Hon. Mr Vallandigham, of Ohio, and Burnett, of Kentucky, now a prominent leader of the Kentucky rebels, were almost as intimate as the Siamese Twins, for they were always together. At the present session Mr. Vallandigham is left to do the best he can for the rebel cause without the assistance of Burnett; but he seems to labor as willingly for a war with England, in behalf of our Southern rebels, as if his Kentucky friend were at his side. The speech made the other day on the Trent settlement by this patriotic Vallandigham was just such a speech as Burnett or Breckinridge would have made in our Congress on that subject. So it was understood in the House, and so it will be accepted by the loyal people of our loyal States. The gentleman from Ohio is un. derstood, and he is only wasting his time in beating about the bush, instead of slipping off to

BURYING A MAN ALIVE -SINGULAR CIR-CUMSTANCE.—The Baltimore Clipper of the 6th tells the following:

On Thursday last an unusual occurrence transpired at the camp of the Wisconsin Fourth regiment, now encamped at Patterson Park. Peter Moore, one of the privates, had been ill for several weeks. He to all appearances, died. A cer-tificate of his death was handed to Major Belger, who ordered a coffin for the defunct. On Thursday morning Moore was placed in the coffin, and, just as the lid was being nailed down, he greatly frightened the bystanders by sitting up in his coffin and exclaimed that it was a shame to bury a man b fore he was dead. Of course he was removed from the box and once more placed under the care of the doctor. Moore had laid one day and a night as if dead, and came very near being buried before his time. His companions declare that, as he refused to be buried when the funeral was ordered by the Colonel, he has disobeyed or-ders, and that when he recovers he shall be court martialed.

THE BEAUREGARD CONTROVERSY IN CONGRESS.

We learn that there has been a sharp and prolonged controversy in secret session of Congress on the topic of General Beauregard's report of the battle of Manassas. It will be recollected that a portion of this report was displeasing to President Davis, who, we now learn, sent the document into Congress, accompanied by comments of his own on some of its preliminary passages. The order eventually taken by Congress was to have the document published, after expurgating the preliminary portion of it and also the comments of the President thereon. We learn that a number of members urged the publication of the entire report, with the President's message, on the ground that injustice was done to Gen. Beauregard in publishing as his report what was not really his report, and for the purpose of convincing the public that the controversy, as shown in the papers, so far from being a serious one, was of the most trival description.

As the report, in its present expurgated form, has been deprived of its main points of popular interest, and merely narrates what is more than a thrice told tale—the order and incidents of the battle-it would be useless to burden our columns with it .- Richmond Examiner.

SPICY CONUNDRUM. - We have been furnished with the following truthful solution of the conundrum published in last Friday's Courier-the conundrum being re-published that the answer may be appreciated.

Why is Seward like a restless sleeper? Give it up?

Because, after lyiny on one side, he turns and lies on the other .- Charleston Courier.

The Northern Papers report that the treaty with Mexico provides for mortgaging all public lands, including church property, to the United States, as security for the eleven millions loaned
