SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 8, 1862,

NOTES OF THE WAR.

It will doubtless interest our readers to know what the Yankee newspapers say of the Southern soldiers who have been recently captured in battle. A correspondent of the New York World, writing of the Fort Donelson affair, holds forth as follows :

THE PRISONERS. If the prisoners which have fallen into our hands are to be regarded as a fair sample of the refinement, but the rank and file are only like so many white serts. The histha between the privates and officers corresponds to the gap in social day: life between the negro owning aristocracy and the poor white trash-benighted, ignorant and uncouth far beyond expectation, even for the most rural of inhabitants.

Their appearance as they even marched on board of the transport presented a picturesque aspect. A favorite and common substitute for blankets is a strip of showy carpeting. White shipplasters; gold and silver is all hoarded.

They affect great surprise when told that this currency is worthless with us. In conversation with many of our officers they strangely found themselves agreeing with them on all the main questions which brought about the war, and seemed but ltitle inclined to believe that the war is not being' made one of eman-cipation. These men will fight. It is one of the few things they have learned. It is of no use to say that they have not the physical courage of their race, but they cannot be a match for the giant minds of the North and West. They report the strength of the garrison in the fort at about twenty thousand; seven thousand of them got out by land through our lines.

The Roanoke Island correspondent of the New burg Republican. York Herald has probably a better claim to the title of "gentleman" than the vulgar blackguard who penned the foregoing. Describing the appearance of the prisoners, he says: Their uiforms are of the most miscellaneous character, and vary in color from a dark blue, through all shades, to a dingy gray, like an Irishman's frieze. A dark pepper and salt color, how-ever, is the most prevalent one The designation of rank is effected with every modification of style, from a full dress gold sleeve braid down to a home-made tinselled shoulder strap, while the stripes on their pants are of broad and narrow gold fringe, blue velvet and black cloth. A gaudy display is quite marked. The caps are of every pattern, from regulation through all the degrees of sou' westers, slouches, sugar loaves, &c., with a spinkling of others like those worn by the historic Mississippi gambler and Texan ranger. The regiment of each is indicated by brass letters and figures on the caps, thus— 'W. L." (Wise Legion), "46," '59," "8 N. C. S. T." "31," "Miss," "Ga," &c. As a general thing they are very intelligent and gentlemanly men, particularly those of the Wise Legion and North Carolina troops.

The rank and file of the prisoners present a still more diversified appearance. For the most part they are low sized, stunted, sandy complexion, hardy fellows, attired in coarse but comfortable uniforms of gray jean cloth. The Virginians, however, form an exception. They preserve a gentlemanly effeminacy, not disguised by the exposure of camp life, and affect a better style of uniform and dress. The accourrements were of the most primitive pattern and quality. The haversacks were made of coarse canvass or tent cloth, with large bone buttons, the belts and straps of cowhide, kip and grain leather, while new-born Southern industry was evidenced in a number of roughly cast leaden buttons: In blankets they were well provided, but a want of homogeneity in size, color, and texture betrayed that they were not of C. S. A. furnishing, but had been brought from home by the men them-

THE SURRENDER OF NASHVILLE.

It appears that the city of Nashville was surrendered to the enemy, by Mayor Cheatham, on | 22 23 24 Sunday, the 23d ult. The Memphis Avalanche, of the 26th, has the following account of the trans-

It is true that the Federals had not previously entered the city, but a regiment of Federal cavalry were encamped in the town of Edgefield, a short distance from Nashville. It was to this point that Mayor Cheatham repaired, and formally tendered the city, with all the public stores it contained, to the commander of The Federals seemed loth to believe that the city had really been surrendered, and accordingly only sent over fifteen men to take possession-and even these seemed to be on the lookout for a surprise of some sort. There was a large amount of bacon and other army stores in the city of Nashville, and Col. Forrest, of this city, was engaged up to Sunday afternoon attending on the saving and transportation of the same. While engaged in this service Mayor Cheatham opposed, and told him to desist, he having formally given up the same to the Federal officer. These of many cold Ferral officer. eral officer. Those of us who know Col. Forrest can well imagine what his reply would be to such an order. He told the Mayor that he ranked all officers then in the city; that he was a Confederate officer, and that if he did not desist from interference, he would take force. Subsequently a lot of low flung characters about the city comsquare, killed five of them before they were dispersed. It is, perhaps, the first city of such size, and containing such a large amount of valuable stores, that was ever surrenderred, under such circumstances, to such an inconsiderable force. The Memphis Appeal, of the 27th says:

Thirty of the enemy's pickets, stationed on the Murfreesboro' road, a few miles from Nashville, were taken by Capt. Morgan's Kentucky cavalry company on Monday night last: This company had secreted themselves in the city, and took the SCRIBER has in store a splendid assortment of pickets by surprise as soon as they assumed their position.

A large proportion of the respectable citizens of Nashville had left before it was surrendered, Three fourths of the Government property and i description served allege in the many

Gen. Buell has entered Nashville, and made a speech to the citizens, in which he disclaimed any purpose of molesting private rights. The United States flag was hoisted upon the capitol, amid the cheers of some of the citizens who remained in the city. Gen. Buell has issued a proclamation in which he offers amnesty to all who will take the oath to support the Federal Government. Such proclamations were issued, it will be remembered, in Northwestern Virginia end in the Virginia Peninsula. We know how the vandals kept faith. Can there be Tennesseans so gullible as to swallow this state bait?

CAPTURE OF A YANKEE IN COW'S CLOTHING .- DIABOLICAL INTENT.

We received yesterday a letter from our regular correspondent in the army of the Valley, dated Romney, January 30, but it has lost so much of Southern army, they are indeed a pitiable lot of its interest by delay, that we deem it useless to wretches. The officers are men of some little publish it. The following extract from it, how ever, will be found interesting, even at this late

The first night after Gen. Jackson's command reached this place, one of the guards placed near a spring of water, was attracted by a peculiar sound of a gow bell. It seemed to ring faster than it should, and its wearer approached towards the spring, and when haited, stopped a few seconds and raised its head, and stared in the direction of the veice, and then went on towards blankets and the uniform, home made, butternut the spring. All seemed natural, excepting the colored jeans, is the costume of the privates and too fast ringing of the bell. On this account the some of the Colonels They have little or nothing sentinel felt himself justifiable in compelling anyelse but the Confederate bonds and Tennessee thing, even a cow, to halt, and walking up, he thrust his bayonet under her belly. This was enough, and to the surprise of the sentinel, the cow, like Balaam's ass, spake, "Am I not your prisoner ?"

We have often heard of a person in "sheep's clothing," but we never pefore heard of a person in cow's clething being sent out as a spy. He was making his way to the spring evidently with the intention of poisoning our soldiers, for a considerable amount of arsenic was found upon his person. Can any one doubt what should have been done with such a person? I do not know what has been done with him, but no doubt he has or will meet his deserts. Many acts, however, of the most atrocious kind, have been perpehave escaped. About eighteen hundred cavalry trated upon unoffending citizens, even to burning their houses and shooting them down. [Lynch-

NORFOLK DAY BLOK. The very Latest Northern and European Intelligence.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE. DAILY, One Year, One Month,

VEEKLY, One Year, THE DAY BOOK HAS NOW BECOME THE newspaper of the South. The very latest Northern and European News appears in its columns, one, two, and three days in advance of all other papers in the Confederacy.

We submit the following extracts from what others have to say of us. D. T. Bissis, Esq., who has lately returned from Europe, with important dispatches to the Confederate States Government, says in a recent letter :

"While in London and Paris, I saw several quotations from the Negrous Day Book, and since my return I have also noticed extracts from the same sprightly journal in the newspapers of New York, The Suffelk (Va.) Christian Sun says:

The Norfolk Day Book, which is so fast gaining popularity broughout the Southern Confederacy, comes to us greatly enlarged and improved, and gives us Northern and Foreign News in advance of any of our other exchanges, and is, therefore, perused with menced a series of depredations upon private property, and the Mayor being powerless to repress them, it is reported that Col. Forrest took a detachment, and, meeting them in the public avidity. The Wilmington (N. C) Daily Journal says:

"The Norfolk Day Book has become the most valusble exchange we receive, as it contains the very latest news from the Rump Government as well as Foreign News." The Fredericksburg (Va.) Herald says:

"The Norfolk Day Book contains the latest news from the North, and its editorials are always of an interesting character." Subscribers to the DAY BOOK may rely upon having their papers sent promptly by mail.
