LATE EUROPEAN NEWS.

good deal of information upon the progress of the Southern cause in Europe. It is not very encouraging. Perhaps it will, in the end, be all the better for us that we should be compelled to obtain our independence and liberty unaided by any other power:

IMPORTANT SPEECH OF EARL DERBY - THE SOUTHERN STATES NOT TO BE RECOGNIZED.

Earl of Derby said he was not much in the habit of occupying the time of their lardships with matters personal to himself, or with making ob- purpose of taking his seat in the "Confederate" servations in reference to the reports of his speeches or those of other noble lords in that house. The fact was, he very seldom read the reports either of his own speeches or of other speeches which he heard in the house. But he happened to look to the report in the Times newspaper of what he act. addressed to their lordships yesterdsy, and there was one point in it to which he could not help adverting. Helwoold not notice the other inaccuracies in the report, which he believed was not so accurate as reports in that paper generally were, and he only alluded to the one he had mentioned because it attributed to him exactly the opposite of what he uttered. In reference to the recognition of the Southern Confederacy, the Times reported him to say that the time had nearly airived when her Majesty's Government ought to be called upon to recognize the successful revolt of those Confederate States. Now, what he did say was, that in his judgment the time had not arrived when her Majesty's Government was called upon to recognize the independence of the Southern States, and he added that although the practice of her Majesty's Government was to recognize any de facto government that had succeeded in establishing itself, he did not think the resistance of the Southern States had been so complete and so successful as to justify them in recognizing the independence of a State which bad not yet shown the power of securing and maintaining its own independence.

HE ENGLISH BLUE BOOK OF AMERICAN AFFAIRS. A Blue Book of three hundred and sixty-seven pages has been laid before the British Parliament, containing all the official correspondence with the belligerents. Among these is a long (but not able) paper from the Southern Commissioners, Mann, Rost and Yancey, presenting the grounds on which they asked the recognition of the Southern Confederacy. We give the concluding paragraph, one of the best in the document, and Earl Russell's reply :

In closing this communication the undersigned desire to urge upon Her Britannic Majesty's Government the just claim which, in their opinion, the Government of the Confederate States has at this time to a recognition as a government de facto: whether its internal peace, or its territory, its population, its great resources for both domestic and foreign commerce, and its power to maintain itself are considered; or whether your Lordship shall take into consideration the necessity of commercial relations being established with it, with a view to the preservation of vast interests of the commerce of England. If, however, in the opinion of Her Britannic Majesty's Government the Confederate States have not yet won a right to a place among the nations of the earth, the undersigned can only assure your Lordship that while such an announcement will be received with surprise by the government they represent, and while that government is to be left to contend for interests which, it thinks, are as important to commercial Europe as to itself, without even a friendly countenance from other nations. its citizens will buckle themselves to the great task before them with a vigour and determination that will justify the undersigned in having pressed the question upon her Britannic Majesty's Government; and when peace shall have been made their government will at least feel that it will not be justly responsible for the vast quantity of blood which shall have been shed, nor for the great and widespread suffering which so prolonged a conflict will have entailed upon millions of the human race, both in the Eastern as well as upon the North American continent.

W. L. YANCEY. P. A. ROST,

A. DUDLEY MANN.

EARL RUSSELL'S REPLY. Foreign Office, Aug. 24, '61.—The undersigned has had the honour to receive the letter of the 14th inst, addressed to him by Messrs. Yancev. Rost and Mann, on behalf of the so styled Confederate States of North America. The British Government do not pretend in any way to pronounce a judgment upon the questions in debate between the United States and their ad. versaries in North America; the British Government can only regret that these differences have unfortunately been submitted to the arbi trament of arms. Her Majesty has considered this contest as constituting civil war, and her Mujesty has, by her royal proclamation, declared her intention to preserve a strict neutrality between the contending parties in that war. Her Majesty will strictly perform the duties which belong to a neutral. Her Majesty cannot undertake to determine by anticipation what may be the issue of the contest, nor can she acknowledge the independence of the nine States which are now combined against the President and Congress of the United States until the fortune of arms or the more peaceful mode of negotiation shall have more clearly determined the respective positions of the two belligerents.

Her Majesty can, in the meantime, only express a hope that some adjustment satisfactory to both parties may be come to, without the calamities which must ensue in the event of an em

One of the filthy Paris correspondents of the New York Herald gives some particulars concerning the personal movements of our Commissioners abroad. As they have the air of probable truth, though clothed in the malignant phraseology of the Yankee press, we give some sen-

The traitor Slidell has not yet succeeded in objaining and interview with his Majesty, or even with the Minister of Foreign Affairs; but has been for the last week engaged in the undiplomatic business of house-hunting. He and his family, which consist of his wife and two daughters, and a mulatto "chattel," are still stopping at number of gun-barrrels are rolled out every day, the Hotel de Rhine. The white portion of the and contracts have been entered into to supply family is very exclusive and uncommunicative, keeping their rooms continually, while the "enattel" is exceedingly talkative, and delights in telling how the gallant "Young Missus" slapped the face of Lieutenant Fairfax, according to her story, "one, two, tree times."

There are two or three Americans in Paris, men of Northern birth and education, who, however, here, if they do not openly advocate secession, hang upon the skirts of the secession party, to whom they seem to delight and consider it an honour to toady. The principal one of this tribe is Colonel Hiram Fuller, who, a short time since, took the trouble to go over to London and lecture in favour of secession. Fuller stops at the Hotel de Louvre, and associates altogether with the Southern secessionists and a few English From our files of Northern papers we obtain a and other foreigners, male and female, who have become converted to the secession gospel. To udge from his appearance, however, I should say his faith did not bring much consolation. Judge Rost has not left yet Paris, but is posting up his successor, and will leave in a few days for Spain, where he is to remain in the same capacity as that in which he has lived here

Mann goes to Belgium-there to represent the "Confederacy," and Yancey has, it is said, sailed for Havana, in the Seine, and will take his chance In the House of Lords, on the 7th instant, the of running the blockade, or perhaps will be helped by our English friends into Mexico, whence he will reach the "Confederate States" for the Congress.

Of Mr. Mason we hear not a word. He is acting properly to remain withdrawn from public attention and gossip till the time comes for him to Charleston Mercury, writing from Suffolk, Virginia, thus alludes to the new commander of that post, General G. W. Randolph, and his opera-General Randolph is the same Colonel Randolph, of Bethel Clurch. His headquarters are here, and since his arrival very little of the country has been left unexplored; he seems indefatigable. Forces have been ordered to this post, and, ere ong, quite a camp will be here. A company of the First regiment South Carolina volunteers. Captain McIntosh, is now drilling as light artillerists. They have fine guns-howitzers and rifle guns. With these and several regiments reported to have been ordered hither, we may do a little damage. The people are frightenedladies have left in numbers. The Black-water and Nottoway rivers are quite well blocked, and riflemen upon the banks can do considerable dam-

THE "SILVER GRAYS IN THE FIELD.—An old citizen of Ratherford county, N. C., writes enthusiastically of the uprising of the people of that State since they heard of the disaster at Roanoke Island. He says: "I was at Burnt Chimneys, which had previously furnished over 200 volunteers, and it was a sight to see the Silver Grays coming up to answer to their names. I have a son in the army, not yet fifteen years of age. I am fifty-seven, and carry lead in my person, shot there by a savage; but I will be with Jeff. Davis in six troubles, and in the seventh will die befere I forsake him.'

Richmond Dispatch. THE FIRE IN BOSTON .- The fire in Boston on the night of the 24th ult. is represented to have been the most disastrous that ever occurred in that eity.
