The Paris Patrie looks upon the American war s "about over." The Constitutionnel says "Europe cannot wait any longer before recognizing the Southern Confederacy." CAPTURE OF OUR SICK AND WOUND-ED AT WARRENTON.

A sumber of our sick and wounded, who were captured by the Yankees at Warrenton on Monday, and afterwards paroled (says the Richmond Dispatch of Thursday,) arrived in this city yeslerday afternoon. They represented that they were supported by fifteen hundred infantry, but the infantry supports never made their appearance. We had no force at Warren-

FROM THE ARMY ON NORTHERN VIR-GINTA.

By arrivals yesterday (says the Richmond Exner of Thursday,) we have intelligence from the army of Northern Virginia as late as Sunday last. THE LATEST NEWS. Our forces were then in position at and around Bunker Hill, (Mill Creek) a strong position ten miles porth of Winchester, our right flank resting upon Opequan creek. The previous reports of the excellent condition and increased numerical force of our army are confirmed. It is believed we confront the enemy here with double the number of troops we carried into action at Suarps—burg.

McClellan's headquarters were, on last Sunday, at Martinsburg. With the main body of his tosces he crossed the Potomac at Williamsport, whilst detached corps crossed lower down—at Shepherdstown and Harper's Ferry.

It was rumoured here throughout the day yesterday, that the battle had been begun; but at a late hour last night the rumour had not been contact the same official dispatches, and should firmed by any official dispatches, and should therefore be discredited. Telegraphic communication between Richmond and Winchester being complete, early intelligence of any important movement or event connected with this army may be confidently expected.

FROM KANAWHA.

The bank, the large hotel, (the Kanawha House,) and a few other buildings, were destroyed by the Yankees in their flight from Charleston, Kanawha county, Virginia. The quantity of salt on hand at the Salines is stated to be 19,000

THE FLORIDA'S CRUISE FROM NASSAU TO MOBILE.

Correspondence of the Savannah Republican. It was announced some days ago, that the war steamer Florida (formerly the Oreto) had run the gauntlet of the blockading fleet at Mobile, and passed under the guns of Fort Morgan. We have received, from a correspondent on board, a highly interesting and thrilling account of her adventures on the voyage, which, in justice to the brave men who encountered such perils, should be known to the public. There are few such acts of dauntless heroism on record, and they mark Captain Maffit as the man for the time. Such gallant conquet should meet with a grateful and practical recognition on the part of his government, and we hope it will not be slow in according what all must regard as purely a reward of merit.—ED.

MOBILE, Sept. 24.

The "Oreto" was seized, released and again seized, and learning that through the efforts of A Paris correspondent believes that Count the Lincoln agents it was determined again to Mercier has been ordered by the Government of take possession of her and send her to England France to make a conciliatory attempt to put a M. Ship _____, and on the night of the 9th, with eleven deck hands and five firemen and coal heavers-all that money and cunning could obtaindrifted with the tide under the shadow of the land some eight miles, and thus the Yankee cruisers hovering around us were evaded. A schooner with our guns on board was awaiting us outside, and taking her in tow we dashed down the "Tongue of the Ocean," and were soon where no Yankee officer dared to follow us. Threading our way through innumerable rocks and shoals. with many narrow escapes, we anchored among them and all hands-only fourteen in all-went to work with a hearty good will. In four days we got the guns, etc, on board. Imagine our misery when we discovered that neither rammers. sponges, sights, beds, quions, passing boxes or magazine equipments had come along with them, and on the day following the yellow fever appeared in all its horrors. There was no physician on board and the case was fatal.

On the 16th, two more new cases. You can scarely men enough on board to handle the ship, the circles to the pivot gun did not fit; Yankee cruisers about; disease on board, and no help at hand but the indomitable energy of our Captain, who, in addition to his many duties, was nursing the sick. It was determined to run for Cardenas, in Cuba, as the most healthy and secluded port, in the hope of picking up a few seaman, and get-ting medical aid, and in the night, the ship was gotten under way, and steered close along the breakers, passing over the banks with considerable risk. On the night of the 18th made Cardenas Light, and Yankee gunboats; at 1 o'clock on the morning of the 19th, entered the harbor. Our crew, by this time, was reduced to three men on deck, and one fireman, who had been on duty for eleven hours. On the 20th the Yellow fever had full possession of the ship, and an officer was sent to endeavor to get men. On the 21st our Captain was taken down, and soon thereafter given up as helpless case. He remained insensible for several days, but merciful Providence was with him, and he recovered his consciousness to find his much beloved son in a dying condition beside him -Poor Laurens!-he died at sundown, and just after him, four seamen, and the 3d Assistant Engi-

In the meantime, the Yankee Consul Gen. Shufeldt, had got wind of our whereabouts and despatched five gunboats to cut us off and hem the Oreto in port. We obtained twenty-four laborers; and tupping our anchor ran the gauntlet, getting clear to sea without mishap. A poor little Spanish passenger steamer, coming out two hours before us, was mistaken for the Oreto by the Yankees and peppered for thirty-six miles. The enemy supposing that we would run for Charleston, increased their force about Abaco, the Florida passes, and off Wilmington and Charleston, and Commander Guert Gansvoort, in the Adirondack, in his zeal to head us off and capture us, was totally wrecked.

On the 4th at 3 p. m., we made Mobile Light and three smart looking blockaders watching the port; we got up a full head of steam and tried to arrange our guns for at least one shot, but could not. Every preparation was then made to set fire to the ship in case of necessity, and compustibles were got ready in ten different places, our brave little ship standing boldly in towards the enemy. Meanwhile the cruisers ran out to meet us, forming themselves in a triangle about us, withholding their fire, as we still kept aloft the red cross of old England, and they hesitated for a moment or two tow make up their minds as to our nation-

We were so near that their conversation could be distinctly heard on board, and a midshipman ber of Congress from Kentucky (says the Rich- at the mast head sung out, "She is not English, there are only a few men on her deck." At this the beggars blazed away at us, knocking about fourteen hammocks out of the nettings, and then striving to head us off; but Captain Maffit ordered the men at the helm to steer right for the starboard of the nearest vessel, and not liking the looks of things our Yankee friend sheered off, bringing the two vessels in a line—just what we wanted.— At this time we hauled down the British ensign and ran up the Confederate flag, and then commenced upon us a shower of shot, shell and scrapnel, that made everything crack again. It was a perfect hail storm, and we not able to return their ire though if we had been fully manned and equipped we could have polished them off handsomely. Finding they held their own with us, our men were ordered aloft to make sail, which they did with a rousing cheer, though the shell were burst ing in the rigging cutting it away and wounding the men.

A parrot shell entered the cabin. An eleven inch shell struck us amidships, grazed the boilers, and deflecting forward, took off the head of one of our best men, severely wounding three others. All our boats were pierced, sides, hammock rail. smoke stack and musts filled with scrapnel. After making sail, all the men were sent below, ex-cept the efficers, who were retained on deck. Thus we stood on for two hours and eighteen minutes. ton, and, of course, no resistance was made. The number of sick and wounded paroled was about sight hundred.

The walls of Fort Morgan were thronged with officers and men, and our safety was greeted with cheers. All behaved nobly. Four days after our sight hundred.

As the prisoners were sent to Newbern before was permitted to communicate with them, I got this list from the Washington Era, as published by the Federals, and, therefore, cannot vouch for its correctness. The wounded were treated with great kindness by the citizens of Washington, and were not unkindly treated by the Federals, as some of the wounded recognized among the nurses sent to wait on them, the very men who inflicted their injuries, and who seemed the more anxious to attend them after becoming aware of the fact. > FOR THE REGISTER. CAMP GORDON, Sept: 23, 1862.

MR. EDITOR :- After the Jate attack upon Washington, some of our wounded soldiers were by request of the Ladies of Greenville, Pitt County, N. C., carried to a hospital established in the town of Greenville by the patriotic ladies of that place. Among the wounded was a memsympathise with us in our sad plight. We had ber of my company of cavalry, Marshall Rowland, who was severely wounded in the hand.

'Tis a pleasant duty, devolving upon myself, to thank them for their unremitted attention and kindness, not only to my own, but to the other wounded soldiers in their charge. Their kindness, tenderness and hospitality, can never be surpassed. And when this unholy war shall have come to a close, our country will not be more indebted to her brave soldiers, than to the beautiful and lovely part which the women of the Southern Confederacy have acted. In thanking the ladies of Greenville the other day, I received the following chaste and elegant reply: "We are glad to administer to the comfort of those who so nobly risked their lives in defending our homes." They will pardon me for bringing their names nto public print. I have the following, but there re others that I do not how remember.

Among the most active were: Mrs. Dr. Blow, do Delaney, Mrs. Corey, do Hoel. do Harriss, do Pearce, do Goold Hoyt, do McClure, do Umber, do Gladson, do Kinsaul do Prichard, do Wilson, do Rouse. do Braswell do Proctor, do Whichard do Shaw, do Bernard. do Howell, do Dr. O'Hagan, do Parker, do Sutton, do Dancey, do Doughtry, Miss Clarke, do Ernull.

SECOND N. C. HOSPITAL .- The Raleigh Standard of the 21st states that a correspondent has writen it a letter over his own signature for pubication, which reflects severely upon the management of the 2nd N. C. Mospital in this city.

The attack is regarded by the patients in that hospital, and disinterested gentlemen in this community as unjustifiable. Dr. J. C. Warren, the Surgeon in charge, is row absent on a sick furlough-and in no condition at present to meet the unspecified charges or reflections to which the ndard refers. When the public hears the testimony of patients and medical men who are inti mately acquainted with the management of this hospital, it will not repard it as inferior to any in the State of North Carolina or elsewhere. Petersburg Express.

RETURN OF RESEASED HOSTAGES. On Thursday last n neteen citizens of Fredericksburg, who were carried to Washington some weeks since as hostages, returned home. Among them were Mr. Slaughter, Mayor of the city, T. B. Barton, Attorney for the Commonwealth, and Rev. W. F. Broaddus. They agree in the statement that there was west excitement in Washington, officials being imprisoned, and arresta being made rapidly. SOAP WITHOUT GREASE .- To four galloes of strong lye add ten pounds distilled rosin or eight pounds of pine gum not distilled and free from trash is better; boil steadily until there is no rosin to be seen, and if the quantity of lye is not sufficient, add more until the rosin is out, and boil until it makes a brown soap. From the Richmond Enquirer. A PATRICTIC SONG FROM AUROSS THE WATERS.

We have been favored with a copy of the following beautiful, soul stirring lines from the gifted pen of Mrs. Ellen Key Blunt, daughter of the late Francis Key, the well known author of the "Star Spangled Banner," to whom and his song a touching allusion is made in the second stanza. Accompanying the lines is a model of a national flag, in which thirteen stars, equal to the number of the thirteen States, are arranged in the 6th ult., for the information of anxious the form of a cross on a blue ground, the red and white bars being disposed as at present:

THE SOUTHERN CROSS. In the name of God! Amen! Stand for our Southern rights ! Over ye, Southern men. The God of Battles fights

Fling the invaders far, Hurl back their work of woe The voice is the voice of a brother But the hands are the hands of a foe. They come with a trampling army, Invading our native sod-Stand, Southrons ! fight and conquer !

In the name of the mighty God!

They are singing our song of triumph, Which was made to make us free, While they're breaking away the heart-strings Of our Nation's harmony.

Sadly it floateth from us. Sighing o'er land and wave, Till, mute on the lips of the Poet. It sleeps in his Southern grave. Spirit and Song departed! Minstrel and minstrelsy! We mourn thee, heavy-hearted, But we will, we shall be free

They are waving our flag above us With a despot's tyrant will; With our blood they have stained its colors, And call it holy still.

With tearful eyes, but steady hand, We'll tear its stripes apart, And fling them like broken fetters That may not bind the heart. But we'll save our stars of glory, In the might of the sacred sign Of Him who has fixed forever Our Southern cross to shine.

Stand, Southrons! stand and conquer! Solemn and strong and sure! The strife shall not be longer Than God shall bid endure. By the life which only yesterday Came with the Infant's breath! By the feet which 'ere the morn may Tread to the Soldier's death !

By the blood which cries to Heaven! Crimson upon our Sod! Stand, Southrons! stand and conquer! In the name of the Mighty God! To His Excellency President Davis.
