THE LATEST NEWS

LATEST FROM KINSTON-THE ENEMY NOT ADVANCING. The Kinston correspondent of the State Journal writing on Monday, the 9th, says: The enemy has disappeared, but where he has gone to, no one seems to know, outside of our military authorities. There is a rumor affect here this morning to the effect that they had not fallen back to Newberne, as was first supposed, but are making their way towards Richands, Onslow county, on a thieving expedition. This number is not supposed to exceed 1200. It is merely a reconnoitering, thieving party, going through the country, seeking whom they may deyour. Our military authorities doubtless know their whereabouts, and if they are making their way towards Onslow, as some seem to surmise, I would not be the least astonished if the entire party is bagged before to-morrow night.

CONFEDERATE CONGRESS.

RICHMOND, March 9 .- In the Senate Mr. Clay of Alabams, introduced a resolution to repeal the naturalization laws. Referred to Committee on the Judiciary. Mr. Maxwell submitted a preamble and resolutions which were unanimously adopted earnestly recommending all agriculturists of the Confederate States to direct their Isbor to the preduction of such crops as will secure a sufficiency of food for all classes and for every emer-In the House the impressment bill was further considered. Mr. Wigfall's substitute was rejected and finally the House bill as amended was rejected by a tie. This vote was reconsidered and the Senate adjourned. In secret session some of the amendments to the currency bill were concurred in, and the bill returned to the House. Nothing important in the House in open session.

A SOLEMN WARNING TO WIVES. A correspondent of the Selma Reporter relates a story which should serve as a solemn warning to the wives of soldiers. He says a few weeks ago a soldier was tried and convicted of the crime of desertion, and sentenced to be shot. The day for the execution arrived, and at the appointed hour quiry it was ascertained he was as true as steel to our cause, and that it was on account of his wife and sufferings and earnestly entreated her husterest in the discharge of his military duties, and ed with death. In this state of perplexity he in a pacific manner. drew his wife's letter from his bosom and read it again and shutting his eyes to the consequences, he deserted! and for this crime he shiftered a ONE DAY LATER FROM THE NORTH. bloody and ignominious death. > ADDRESS OF GEN. D. H. HILL. HEADQUARTERS, GOLDSBORO', N. C.,) February 25, 1863.

The undersigned has been placed in charge of the troops in North Carolina. In assuming command, he would address a few words of exhorta-

SOLDIERS! Your brutal and malignant enemy is putting forth efforts unexampled in the history of the world. Having failed to subjugate you, he is maddened with the thirst for vengeance, and is pushing forward his foreign mercenaries to plunder your property and lay waste your homes. But his marauding hosts have been so often beaten and baffled, that they are now discouraged and demoralized. Should you be able to check them every where for the next sixty days, the three hundred thousand whose time expires in May, will not re-enlist, and the war will end before July. Should the scoundrels, however, gain a single substantial success at any one point, the war will be prolonged during the entire administration of Lincoln. It becomes a solemn duty then, to labor and fight during the next two months as we have never done before. We must make the war unpopular with the mercenary vandals of the North, by harrassing and annoying them. We must cut down to six feet by two, the dimensions of the farms which these plunderers propose to appropriate. You will have to endure more hardships, and to fight more desperate battles, than you would have done, were you ranks properly filled. . Our cities, towns and villages, are full of young and able-bodied skulkers, wearing the sem-blance of min, who have dodged from the battlefield under the provisions of the exemption bill. The scorn of the fair sex, and the contempt of all honorable men, have not been able to drive these cowardly miscreants into the ranks. So long as they can fatten upon the miseries of the country, and shelter their worthless carcasses from Yankee bullets, they are insensible to shame .-But a day of retribution awaits these abortions of humanity. Their own descendants will execrate their memory, when the finger of scorn is pointed. and the taunt is uttered, "he is the son, or grand-son, or great-grand-son of an exempt and extor-

PARTICULARS OF THE CAPTURE OF

THE QUEEN OF THE WEST. A correspondent of the Memphis Appeal gives the following account of the capture of the Yankee-gunboat Queen of the West, that rah our batteries at Vicksburg, and was subsequently captured, through an ingenious and herejc exploit of a single hand, the gallant Wood; the pilot taken from the Confederate stermer Era, and ordered to the wheel of the Queen of the West, under the bayonets of a guard of Yankee soldiers:

On the corning of the 12th instant, the Era No. 5, with Mr. George Wood as her pilot, steamed out from her mooring at Alexandria, loaded for Black river, which empties into Red river, some forty miles from her mouth. On reaching Gordon's landing, seventy-five miles below Alexandria, where we have a military post, consisting of fore (Wednesday) a suspicious looking craft had made her appearance in the mouth of Red river, consequently she tied up for fur her developments. Other boats, as many as four, came down and were likewise stopped; they remained awhile and then returned up the river.

Saturday morning, the 14th, at daylight, the Fra steamed up and plowed her way down to her destination, supposing she could reach the mouth of Black river with safety, as nothing had then been heard of the Queen of the West coming up. Gliding down her watery path, she was bounding onward with full steam, when some ten miles above the mouth of Black river, her turning point, she was met at a bend in the river, fired into, one shot hitting her pilot house, and was cap- to him at Camp, immediately after receiving the ortured by the Queen of the West, which was der, but I examined said men, and found them entirestraming upward on forbidden waters. The crew | ly unfit for military duty; so I sent him a certificate, and all were guarded on board the Era by a band | will be spared the epithet of deserters, for I, their Surof Abolition soldiers, save Mr. George Wood, the nilot, who was ordered aboard the Queen of the West, and with heavy threats directed to her pilot wheel to assist her pilot in directing her onward to the capture of our forts. On they glided, but not distrustful, andmuch elated at their success, till they came in reach of our battery at five, P. M., when she commenced firing, still advance ing. . Our batteries challenged her by opening most furiously from their hidden recesses. Still she advanced, till as I am told by one of our lieutenants, who was there, she came within a quarter of a mile of our battery, and on the opposite shore in full range for our guns, when the gallant Wood, who directed her wheel, had her rounded, ran her aground, breaking her rudder and thus crippling her and turning her broadside to give our guns a fair chance. This gallant man, in the confusion, made good his escape, as it was a life and death case with him. Thus crippled and disabled by the hand that drove her on to her desti- posed to public sale.

Thus grounded and crippled, it was then contemplated to blow up her magazine, and thus destroy her by fire, but the surgeon protested against it, as fortunately ber captain lay on board mortally wounded by a rifle shot received near Simmsport, and it was im-possible to remove him, so Cot. Ellett consented to let her lay, for the sake of humanity to her dying commander. She was well barricaced with cotton bales. On seeing all hope of success gone, Colonel Etlett made his escape, with nearly all his crew, by getting on cotton bales and floating down the river. She raised the white signal, as the storm abated, as it was seen by the light of a burning warehouse, but it was not answered till next morning. Thirteen of the crew remained in silence till day light, then her white banner was still affoat, and then, and not till then, our Southern sons of thunder crossed the river and formally took possession of this proud and haughty triumph, as she lay a victim of a single hand, gallant Wood. The results of the capture are one 32 pound rifie Parrot gun, one 24 pound rifle Parrot gun, three 12-pound Potterfield brass-pieces, and one 13 pound brass piece damaged, a fine supply of ordinance stores, a good deal of quinine, three fine cases surgical instruments, and provisions in

We did not hear the silvery bell, Rung by an unseen angel's hand, That summoned thee from earth, to dwell, With thy Master in the Spirit Land.

But well we know when the "long roll" beat That bade thee march from Time away, It was with eager, willing feet Thou the order did'st obey.

'Twas deep affection's mystic tie, That bound thee to thy master, slave, That made thee pine, and droop and die, Because he filled a martyr's grave,

For a season brief the golden chain Was severed by the hand of God, But now thou'st travelled once again The march that he before thee trod.

Not the prattling children of the dead. Nor the kindness of his fond wife's heart, Could make thes on death's waters dread To launch thy spirit's humble barque.

Peace to thy ashes! devoted slave, Rest to thy departed spirit! May memory wrsathe above thy grave Such flowers as Faith alone can merit.
