From Tennessee we have the assurance that the army under Rosencranz has fallen back from Murfreesboro. What this movement means, no one can tell. It is suggested that Recourranz is probably tchanging his base." Van Dorn is on the North side of Duck Riv r. the enemy having tallen back from Franklin also.

Mrs. General Bragg is said to be dangerously ill at Winchester, Tenn.

From Fort Pemberton we learn that Gen. Loring has whipped the enemy back, and that they were in full retreat for Yazoo Pass.

Banks has fallen back from Port Hudson to his fortified camps. Deserters arriving in report great dissatisfaction in their ranks, and represent Banks' army to be completely demoralized.

In Congress, on Monday, a report was presented in the Senate from the Committee of Conference on the subject of regulating the impressment of private property for the use of the army. The bill reported provides that when property belonging to producers is impressed, it shall be appraised by two disinterested persons, who shall award just compensation ; also provides for sppointment of two Commissioners from each State, one by the President and the other by the Government, who shall fix a schedule of prices every two months or oftener, which shall regulate the amounts to be paid for property impressed in the hands of any person other than the producer, or person holding the same for his own use. At deep Gully, nine miles from Newbern, Gen. Hill encountered a force of the enemy consisting of two regiments of infantry, and a battery of field artillery. Here a brisk fight was kept up for a short time, when the enemy retreated in the direction of Newbern.

About this time Gen. Pettigrew being on the North side of the Neuse river, opened on an earthwork on the South side of the river, but, in consequence of an accident to one of his guns, which resulted in the loss of three of his men killed, and us at least have the satisfaction of maintaining in-15 wounded, and also the arrival of heavy rein- tact our dignity to the last." forcements to the enemy, he had to retire.

Several transports arrived at Newbern Saturday evening. Gen. Robertson is reported to have succeeded in getting possession of the railroad below Newbern, and in destroying a portion of the track and burning a bridge by which a train was destroyed.

No men were lost in Gen. Hill's immediate command, and his horse was not struck with Min-nie balls as telegraphed from Raleigh. In fact there has been altogether too much sensation made out of this affair, which, so far, is barren of results, and which, as we have every reason to believe, never was intended for a direct attack upon

GEN. JOHNSTON AND JUDY PAXTON. We heard of a little incident yesterday that may profit some of our Northern fees should this paper fall into their hands, and they will take the trouble to peruse it. Gen. Joe Johnston was receiving his friends at the Lamar House, on Sunday. He was sur-rounded with many gallant officers who had called to pay their respects, and conversation was at a flood tide, when there came a small rap at the door. An officer, shining with stars and gold lace, opened the door, and there stood a veneralace, opened the door, and there stood a venerable negro woman with a coarse sun-bennet on her head, and a cotton umbrella under her arm. "Is this Mr. Johnston's room?" asked the American lady of African descent.

The glittering officer nodded assent, "Mister Joe Johnston's room?"

Assent again being condescended, the swarthy woman said "I want to see him." In she marched, sans ceremonie, and familiarly tapped the great military chieftain on the shoulder. He turned and clasped her shony hand in his, while she for a moment silently perused his features .-

"Mister Joe, you are getting old." What followed? We cannot record the conversation, but we do know that as the General affectionately held his old nurse's hand, and answered her artless inquiries, large tears rolled ties," and thereupon Sir L. Palk withdrew his down his soldierly check, and among the dashing motion. and reekless officers who witnessed the interview "albeit, unused to the melting mood," there was not a dry eye. LATER NEWS FROM THE NORTH.

We are enabled this morning to give will a many of news from the United States to the

The London correspondent of the Philadelphia Liquirer writes as follows, under date of February The chief interest in American affairs, on this side of the water, centres this week in the belligerent attitude of Mr. Seward and Mr. Mercier, and the general news sinks into insignificance when compared with this. But one view appears to be entertained upon the subject and its probable results, and the politicians and editors have settled down into the conviction that Mr. Sewand must speedily be diamissed in compliance with the peremptory demand of the French Govern-ment. The universal sympathy seems to be on the French side of the question; and the 'leader' writers of the various journals have again over-hauled their vocabularies in order to discover the most scandalous and obnoxious epithets to apply to their 'bite noir,' the American Secretarys of State. No two statements could be more thoroughly antagonistic than those made by the two high functionaries in question; and, as certainly, but one of them can by any possibility be true. An attempt has been made here to reconcile the An attempt has been made here to reconcile the conflicting statements and to apologize for Mr. Seward on the ground of his probable ignorance of the French language, or of his having been misled by the imperfect English of M. Mercier. This, however, is sheer nonsense, a sieve that will held no water. I do not know whether or not Mr. Seward to a French scholar, but it is

"If you will recall to mind the chief contents of my last two or three letters, you will, I imagine, obtain the clue to the whole mystery. There is not the shadow of doubt, in my own mind, that the result now reached was part and parcel of the grand scheme long ago concocted at the Tuileries, and that M. Mercier has from the first, been merely following the instructions conveyed to him by his Imperial master. Intervention, in some way, and at any hezard, having been determined upon as a measure of French policy, it was not enough that an army and navy should be concentrated in the Mexican Dominion, but some pretext must be found for an eventual rupture with the Amer ican Government at Washington; and to this end M. Mercier was doubtless directed to bend his utmost energies. How well he has succeeded in the portion of the general programme entrusted to his management, we already see, and somewhat sconer than I expected. That it has been accomplished at the expense of truth and candor, personal as well as diplomatic, however we may regard it, is a matter that will not trouble the tect in time the underplot, so that an open rup-ture cannot now be prevented without that sacri-fice of the national honor and dignity, which is now hailed as inevitable by the unfriendly British press. I feel sure that I express the sentiments of every loyal American in Europe, (and I can see no good reason why we should be ignored) while I say, if Mr. Seward is in the right, let bim be sustained, and protected in defi nce of all the threats and demands of France. As Mr. Lincoin is reported to have intimated, let him still declare that they shall sink or swim together.—

If the crisis comes, and France is found the open advocate of the South, let us fight the unholy sombles ion, and trust to the good sense of other nations to come to our aid if necessary, when they see how base and baseless are the demands and conduct of the Emperor. If otherwise, and we must succumb, as a nation, to superior force, let

Sir L. Palk called the attention of the House to the distress existing in the manufacturing districts, and moved an address to her Majesty, asking that a royal commission might be issued to ascertain the best mode of obtaining a permanent supply of cotton. His speech was elaborate and evidently carefully prepared, with the ex-pectation that something would grow out of its delivery. His allusions to the United States were

"We cannot look with any sort of hope to termination of the struggle in America. Battles were fought and blood was shed, and still neither side had gained a victory leading to a hope that Neither, as far as he could say, was there any diminution of determination on the part of the North, for enforced union. From a letter which deed. he had recently received from Charleston he believed that should the black population ever rise made war on women, and issued proclamations at which the world must blush, and had ever treated the black race with contumely and oppresion. *

* Should we attempt mediation? Time was when mediation might have done much." The speaker argued that such a step now would be vain, but that the British Government should recognize the South and free its coasts of a blockade which brought ruin to their operatives, 'and was at the same time somewhat questionable as regarded its strength and operation."

Mr. Milner Gibson, on the part of the Ministers, replied to this speech, and expressed the opir ion that "it was best to leave to individual effort and the operation of the law of supply and demand the business of providing the markets of this country with cotton as well as other commodi

The special war correspondent of the Atlanta Confederacy, writing from camp, near Fredericks-

Fredericksburg is in full possession of our troops, and the houses are mostly occupied by them, I believe the old Burg is irretrievably ruined. Her citizens are scattered from the Rappahannock to the Gulf, many of them will form new homes and new associations, and will never return permanently to their desecrated hearths. The flowers of their gardens have been trodden under foot, their household gods have been violated and the rude invaders have with their unparalleled impiety, invaded every sanctuary and turned things of beauty and of life, to pollution and horrer. Be-sides, the town is a perfect Golgotha of the slain. In nearly every yard can be found a grave or more, and on the play grounds of her youth can be found thousands of festering carcasses. It is no place for beauty and for youth, and never will be again. The fresh air they once breathed is now tainted with pestilence, and all the perfumes of Arabia will never restore its sweetness. He turned to the doctor, who was present, and asked him if he did not think that pretty heavy. The doctor, with that peculiar toss of the head which indicates a small whiri wind, said:

O, a wonderful stream is the river of Time. As it runs through the realm of tears,
With a fautiess rythm, and a musical rhyme,
And a broader sweep and a surge sublime,
As it blends in the accamel years?

There's a magical Isle up the river Time,
Where the roftest of also are playing;
There's a cloudless sky and a tropical clime,
And a song as sweet as a vesper chime,
And the Junes with the roses are airaying.

And the name of this Isle is the Long Ago, And we bury our treasures there—
There are brows of beauty and bosoms of snow,
There are heaps of dust—0! we loved them so—
And there are trinkets and tresses of hair! There are fragments of song that nobody sings, And parts of infants' prayers; There's a lute unswept and a harp without strings,

There are broken vows and pieces of rings, and garments our dead used to wear. There are hands that are waved when the fairy shore By the mirage is lifted in air,
And we sometimes hear thro' the turbulent roar,
Sweet voices we heard in the days gone before,
When the wind down the river is fair.

O! remembered for aye be that blessed Isle,
All the day of life till night;
When the evening glows with its beautiful smile,
And our eyes are closing in slumbers awhile,
May the greenwood of soul be in sight!

Raleigh, M. C., March 5, 1863.

ON OR BEFORE APRIL IST, 1863, the Subscriber will receive proposals for the purchase of THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS (35,000) NORTH CAROLINA SIX PER CENT. COUPON BONDS of the derominations of $500 and $1,000, interest payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July in each year at the Public Treasury, and the principal at the end of twenty years from the first of January, A. D., 1863. These bonds, under an ordinance of the Convention, amending the Charter of the Chatham Railroad Company, are issued to the Baleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, deposited with the Public Treasurer, principal and interest payable at the same time, but with liberty to the Company to discharge such bonds before maturity. Payments made by the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, are to be exclusively applied to the redemption of the State bonds issued to the Company.

Proposals will likewise be received for FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS ($15,500) of Nacch Convention Proposals will likewise be received for FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS ($15,000) of North Carelina six per cent, bonds, similar to the above, but issued to the City of Raleigh in exchange for like bonds of the City. Payments made by the City are to be applied to the redemption of the State bonds issued to that por-

Attention is invited to the following section of an act passed by the General Assembly at its late section, by which the bonds advertised have the double security of the state of North Carolina, and of ceperations of the highest financial standing: of the highest financial standing:

SEC. 5. Be it further exacted, That all sums of money paid by the Raleigh and traston Railroad Company and the City of Raleigh to the Treasurer of the State, in satisfaction of the principal and interest of the hends of said corporations deposited with the Treasurer, as contemplated in the said Ordinance of the Convention, shall be applied first to the payment of the interest of the bonds of the State given said corporations in exchange for their own, and the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid of the staid one shall be given to the flownissions of the staid of the due shall be given to the Commissioners of the sinking fund, to be used by them at their discretion for the re-demption of said bonds of the State.

$50,000 NORTH CAROLINA STATE BUNDS FOR SALE. Office of the Chatham R. R. Co.,

RALBIGH, March 14, 1868, TO CORRECT AN ERROR INTO WHICH SOME have fallen from an inscenses reading of my advertisement inviting preposals for the purchase of $50,000 State bonds, I call attention to the fact that these bonds are not redeemable before maturity. They are unconditional N. C. six per cent. coupon bonds, the interest of which the State promises to pay semi-annually, and the principal on the first day of Janua-ry, 1883, and the obligation of this promise is not afected by or dependent on any contingency whatever. A reference to the advertisement will show that beides the faith of North Carolins, part of these bonds (35,000) have the additional security of the honds of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, and another portion (viz. $15,000) of the City of Raileigh. Considering the high financial standing of these corporations, it is not going too far to say that no better opportunity for a safe investment has been or will be KEMPP.
