RALEIGH, N. C.

Saturday, September 1, 1849.

The Internal Improvement Association, Will meet this evening (Saturday) at candlelight. Several addresses may be expected, and among the number, one from HENRY W. MIL-LER, Esq.,

General McRae's Letter.

We would call particular attention to the lette of Gen. McRAE, President of the Wilmington Road, to Gov. MOREHEAD, published in our today's issue, upon the subject of the North Carolina Rail Road. It presents much the most forcible view of the matter that we have yet seen, and carries irresistible conviction on its face.

The friends of the project are greatly indebted to Gen. McRaz for the lively interest he has taken in its success, and, if we are not much mistaken, will have reason to be much more so, in view of the good that this letter must accomplish.

Washington National Monument.

The Association at Washington City who have in charge the construction of this great national work, have expressed the wish to procure from each of the States of the Union a block of Granite or Marble, with appropriate inscriptions, to be placed in conspicuous positions in the inside stairway of the Obelisk.

Gov. MANLY, entertaining the opinion that he will be fulfilling the public will by complying with this request, has had a correspondence with the agent, and is now desirous of procuring a block of White Marble, about 4 feet long, 2 feet high and 2 feet in depth. It is his design to have it dressed and prepared throughout, according to the specification in his possession, by our own Lithographers, and have engraven on it the name of the State, embellished with the State's Coat of Arms. A block of granite from the State's Quarry in this vicinity would, in many respects, be a fit emblem and representative of the "Old North State" but, on inquiry, the engraving cannot be executed | plunder! with sufficient taste and skill on stone.

The Governor will be thankful to receive from one of our Western Quarries a suitable block, and will pay whatever may be right on its delivery in

This proceeding is not intended to interfere at all with the action already taken on this subject by patriotic Associations in different parts of the State, but the Governor feels himself called upon. officially, to make this contribution to the Monument of the "Father of his Country," in the name and on behalf of all the people of the State.

Newspapers friendly to this object will please copy this notice.

"Help me Cassius."

The recent shameful course of the "Union,' in its unscrupulous and filthy abuse of the Ad ministration, has already, as we have hitherto said, disgusted the more respectable portion of the Democratic party. The last "Standard," however, steps in to the rescue of its noble ally. The defence thus volunteered, reminds us of a Hindoo story we have seen some where :- " An Elephant and mouse were walking across a bog. The Elephant quickly mired, while the mouse tripped gaily along. But how am I to get out, said the Elephant. Take hold of my tail, replied the says, "At every town, village, cross road, hamlet mouse!"

New Post Offices.

A Post Office has been established at Big Laurel, Yancy. County, in this State, of which John Roberts is Postmaster.

One has also been created at White Rock, Yancy County, of which Kneely Weede is Postmaster.

South Carolina Medical College.

We are indebted to a friend for a "Catalogue of the Trustees, Faculty and Students of the Medical College of South Caroina," at Charleston .-The Hon. M. King is President of the Board of Trustees, and the Faculty consists of eight eminent Physicians. The number of Students is 141, of whom six are from this State. The next session commences on the first Monday in November, and closes on the first Saturday in March.

THE OPPOSITION PARTY

A more contumacious set of political managers were never ejected from power, than those that were displaced by the election of Gen. TAYLOR .-Instead of bowing with submission to the will of the People, which was so fully and triumphantly expressed in the due course of their legitimate rights, they say-submission is no part of our creed; we have too long enjoyed the blandishments of station, to yield passively to defeat; we have a community of interest that binds us; we have a common sympathy that stimulates us we have an active spirit of revenge that stirs within us; and the last effort of desperation shall be employed to regain the power that is now lost to us. In conformity to these controlling principles, we find them every where busy and active, from the proudest leader to the humblest tide-waiter. We ask the People to dwell upon these thingsto look seriously at the organized effort making to contravene their will, and "by hook or by crook," to again possess that power, which they have been emphatically told they were unfit to manage. Is there a single leader of the Locofoco party, that the PEOPLE? No. not one. On the contrary, they are implacable in their opposition, and have taken their stand against the sovereign POWER of the country! Such an inordinate desire to grasp the reins, points significantly to danger .-Let the People beware of those, whose ambition | Congress. can brook no delay.

Yes, after all-after a majority of upwards of one hundred thousand-after years of hard, bitter contest-after the settlement of the vexed question by the voice of the sovereign People-after all this, it seems that the Nation is not to have repose. The plan of another campaign is announced-the routed battalions of power are again marshalled in battle array-and the political warfare is to be renewed. Gen. TAYLOR's administration is met at the threshold, at the outset, with a predetermined, systematic, fierce opposition, and that opposition is to be continued and kept up unceasingly for four years to come at least. We are to have no breathing time-no opportunity for developments-no waiting for measures; war is proclaimed in advance, and war is to be carried on with all the political means which can be used!

Fortunately, happily, for the country, this new contest is one commenced exclusively by the politicians. We do not believe, after what has just passed, that the people can be enlisted in so unjust and ungenerous an assault upon the man of heir choice, and the principles of reform that he is about to strive to introduce.

But let the fact be known every where, that the Nation is again to be convulsed by disappointed politicians, and that, too, for their own factious. selfish purposes. Let them be warned to beware of suffering themselves to be deluded and deceived by those who are now to work hard for pay and

The Queen's Visit to Ireland.

The Queen of England is on a visit to Ireland, and great preparations are being made to receive and entertain her to pay, her court and homage.-She will see nothing of the country, or its condition, and none of the mass of the Irish people, her subjects, and return to England about as wise as to the real condition of that part of her kingdom, as when she left London. Would that the pageant which surrounds her could be dispersed, and that incog. she could traverse ill-fated and oppressed Ireland, and see and hear and feel, their pressing wants, by mingling with the Irish people. She could in that way learn much, might scenes she would witness, and returning home, do much for their relief! But that she cannot do, and her visit will result in elevating still higher some already high enough, but in no good whatever to her subjects.

Formerly, the adjoining provinces exhibited extreme nervousness at the manifestation of our Republican appetite for other people's land, and naturally trembled for their own fate when they saw the great Democratic Mammoth swallowing an empire at a gulp, and intimating that it felt better after the operation. Their turn might come next, and so each one kept its pen in one hand, writing its last will and testament, and its sword in the other, to defend itself to the last extremity. But the scene has changed. "Circumstances" have exerted their magic influence upon Canada and Cuba, as well as upon Cass. They eem to have fallen in love with annexation, like the trout with being skinned. As if fascinated by the eye of their dreadful foe, they are hastening to his jaws, as to a city of refuge. Canada, indeed, exhibits an indecorous haste upon the subject, which is calculated to nauseate the keenest appetite. On the Income of the North Carolina Railroad. Wilmington, N. C., August 23, 1849.

Chairman of the Executive Committee: DEAR SIR: Since my return from Salisbury, have felt a deep interest in the success of the Central Rail Road, and am much pleased to learn by the papers, that you are out in your strength in

Gov. Swain's letters are well calculated to enlighten the people on the subject of this important improvement, but I think he has under estimated might be considered presumption to venture an the additional value such a work is calculated to opinion about the cost of such a work, especially confer upon the lands through which it would as I have not seen the country between Salisbury pass. But on this subject, I am at a loss how to and Charlotte. Yet having some knowledge of limit my own estimation. If we look to Massachusetts, she has set a bright example in the way be permitted to say that I see no difficulty in the of constructing Roads for the benefit of her own way of constructing a Rail Road on the route becitizens, without regard to the accommodation of tween Salisbury and Goldsborough, by the way those who have no interest in her prosperity. Our of Lexington, Jamestown, Greensborough, Hillsmistake has been, the attempt to benefit those who have no interest in the State; we have been carried away by the ignis fatuus of through travel. I say, if we look to Massachusetts to see the value given to her landed property, by the construction of Rail Roads, and adopt it as a basis upon which to construct our estimates, it will look so much like "tall talk," that our people would think we were humbugging. It is therefore difficult to say what limit should be adopted. The estimate of the increased value of lands on some of the Roads in Massachsetts exceeds $100 per acre. and that too on lands inferior to those in Western North Carolina. Now if we were to base an estimate upon one half that sum, it would be looked upon as wild and extravagant; yet I am at a loss to understand why like causes should not produce like effects. If the North Carolina Road should be constructed, I cannot see any cause why Towns and Villages should not spring up at every depot along its line? Our people are industrious and prudent; let but a door be opened for them to dispose of the surplus produce of the the Road in successful operation. farm, the loom and the shop, and depend upon it, they would soon be a thriving people, and the homestead would be looked upon as being equally valuable with any lands in any State of our Union. I therefore do not hesitate in saying that the State at large and her citizens would be gainers by the construction of this Road, if it never paid the first cent of dividend. But, sir, I am not prepared to admit that the stock of this Road would not be paying stock. On the contrary, I think it can be proved, from fair inferences, that it will not only be paying stock, but would prove to be a valuable investment of capital. We must not judge of the stock from the failures that have heretofore taken place in our State. The reason of these failures are too palpable to be mistaken, by man be without a copy. persons versed in the expenses of maintainance of Rail Roads. These Roads were constructed of too frail and perishable materials; this is an error which can, and certainly will be avoided. No one acquainted with the practical effects on Rail Roads can be found to recommend the light strap iron, such as heretofore used in the construction Our fire engines-may they be like old maids, of our Roads. We must not therefore draw conclusions from the enormous expenses attending the working of these Roads. To arrive at anything like an estimate of the value of stock in the North Carolina Road, it is necessary either to know how much produce and merchandize would be transported on it, and the on the subject-this armed expedition to Cuba number of passengers; or, else, we must draw conlusions from the income on other works similarly situated. From the first source, it is difficult to draw our conclusions, because, in our State, so little attention has been paid to statistics, that we have no certain data upon which to found such estimates. I will take the liberty of submitting the conclusions to which I have arrived by a comparison with other Roads. I will therefore and is also coming into rapid use among all our best simply refer you to the Wilmington and Raleigh physicians, for coughs, colds, and all diseases of the might also instance the Georgia Rail Roads, as of consumption by the celebrated physician, Dr. Mott, was gorged with the spoils of Mexico, and the body they very fully sustain the conclusions here arrived of New-York; and Dr. Arnold, of Savannah, Ga. $1 63' each, for the white population in these counties. A direct line from Raleigh to Salisbury would doubtless be more expensive: indeed I do not believe that a Road in a direct line could be constructed for any thing like three millions

I am fully aware that I lay myself open to critcism, in venturing a guess at the cost of such a work, which cost can only be arrived at properly and correctly, after the most diligent surveys, by competent Engineers, but I am in the situation of the clown who asserted that he should certainly burst, if not permitted to give his opinion on an important question. I feel such deep solicitude for the success of the work, that I must be permitted to say that I have not a doubt but that the Road can be constructed upon the the route first named, for a sum not exceeding $12,000 per mile, including the necessary machinery to put
