THE MAGNETIC TELEGRAPH

BY JAMES G. LYONS, LL. D. Along the smooth and slender wires The sleepless heralds run, Fast as the clear and living rays Go streaming from the sun. No peals or flashes, heard or seen, Their wondrous flight betray; And yet their words are plainly felt In cities far away.

Nor summer's heat, nor winter's bail, Can check their rapid course; They meet unmoved the fierce wind's rage— The rough wave's sweeping force: In the long night of rain and wrath. As in the blaze of day, They rush, with news of weal or woe, To thousands far away.

But, faster still than tidings borne On that electric cord, Rise the pure thoughts of him who loves The christian's life and Lord,— Of him who, taught, in smiles and tears, With fervent lips to pray, Maintains high converse here on earth With bright worlds far away.

Ay! though nor outward wish is breathed, Nor outward answer given, The sighing of that humble heart Is known and felt in heaven;

Those long, frail wires may bend and break. Those viewless heralds stray, But Faith's least word shall reach the throne Of God, though far away.

THE FAWN OF PASCAGOULA; OR, THE CHUMPA GIRL OF MOBILE.

Shall I tell you a story of real life, as romantic and affecting as any in fiction ? Well, listen! Every citizen of Mobile is familiar with the sight of the Indian girls who are seen in our streets in the winter. With burdens for sale. These Indian girls, it is well known, be-

Though they thus as he thought, harmless firtation. exhibit an unconquerable attachment to their native soil, they have yet refused to adopt the habits, language, or pursuits of the whites, by whom they are surrounded, and are perversely indifferent to all the inducements species of savage, gipsey, life-the men sustaining themselves by hunting, and the women by vending whortleberries and other wild fruit in the summer, and bundles of pine in the winter. With these simple produc tions they visit Mobile semi-annually, and for the time reside in the vicinity, in small huts or camps, constructed of bark, hoards, and the limbs of trees. This has been their usage from time immemorial, and yet continues. These Indians are generally a miserable and ignorant race, but with all their degredation, they possess some of the virtues in a singular degree. The women are proverbially chaste and modest, and of all the young girls that annually visit our city, none have been known to depart from the paths of rectitude. A strong interest, therefore, woods, who resist all the blandishments of feeling. their station, and pass unharmed through blanket-considerable graces of manner and appearance. As they invariably refuse to words which they employ in their intercourse with our inhabitants. Still they are not reserved in their movements, where they wish to make a bargain, and enter the different houses of the city, stores, dwellings, and offices, without hesitation, ceremony or announcement. Who has not been startled many a morning, by the low voice, at the chamber door, exclaiming-"Chumpa!" sentiments of the sex. They have bright fiexible forms, beautiful small hands and tacles of dress, rings, beads, and other per-
