POETRY.

THE SPRING OF LIFE IS PAST. The following lines, from the Louisville Jour al are above all praise-surpassingly beauti-

The spring of life is past, With its budding hopes and fears, And the autumn time is coming With its weight of weary years-Our joyousness is fading, Our hearts are disused with care, And youth's fresh dreams of gladness All perish darkly there.

While bliss was blooming near us In the heart's first burst, of spring, While many hopes could cheer us. Life seemed a glurious thing ! Like the foam upon the river, When the breeze goes rippling o'er. These hopes have fled forever, To come to us no more.

Tis sid-yet sweet-to listen--To the soft wind's gentle swell, And think we hear the music Our childhood knew so well : To gaze out on the even, And the boundless fields of air. And we will feel again our boyhood's wish. To roam like angels, there.

There are many dreams of gladness That cling around the past-And from that toub of feeling, Old thoughts come thronging fast ; The forms we loved so dearly, S in the happy days now gene, The beautiful and the love y, So fair to look upon,

Those bright and gentle maidens Who seemed so formed for bluss. Too glorious and too heavenly For such a world as this ; Whose soft, dark eyes seemed swimming In a sea of liquid light, And whose locks of gold were streaming O'er brows so sunny bright.

Whose smiles were like the sunshine In the spring time of the year-Like the changeful gleams of April, They followed every tear ; They have passed-like hope-away-All their loveliness has fled-Oh! many a heart is mourning.

The importance of insulating patients laboring under infectious, discases from the healthy portion of the community, is forcibly shown by the statistics of the small pox. in Boston. The deaths by small pox in that city during the 11' years' ending in 1838. were 43, and for the 11 years ending in '46, 511. During the first 11 years, small pox patients were sent to quarantine ; but at the commencement of the latter period, the law requiring this course was repealed and the sick treated at their own homes.

VOLUME LL.

The culture of the grape is becoming quite a prominent item in the agriculture of the west. There are 743 acres of vineyards around the city of Cincinnati, capable of producing, when in full bearing, 148,600 gallons of wine annually. In Clark county, In diana, there are 150 to 200 acres of vines, producing 200 gallons of wine per acre, which is sold at the press at from 70 to 80 cents per gallon.

Prof. Agassiz, who has recently been lecturing at Charleston, S. C., and other places south, denies the common succestry of the human race, and maintains that the different races are descended from different stocks. This theory, however, he reconciles, or endeavors to reconcile, with the Bible accounts during the past season, the Hotel has undergone of the creation and progress of mankind.

The shop Occula, only seventy tons burthen, drawing only six feet of water, and intended for inland navigation in California, is about to sail from Boston for San Francisco via the Straits of Magellan. The passengers, officers, and crew should not neglect to make their wills before they start, bone during his sojourn in Baltimore as they are rather more likely to bring up in eternity than in San Francisco bay. In the Police Court at Boston, on Mon. day, a little boy, six years and a half old, whose nose barely reached the prisoner's rail on the stand, was brought up on a charge of throwing a brick which struck a woman in the street. The child was bound over for trial in the Municipal Court. What a farce !

The steamship Georgia, which started from this port with 650 passengers on board, and was then overcrowded, took 450 more passengers on board at Havana, and sailed thence for Chagres with eleven hundred. Some of them must have slept in the tops, we fancy.

That they are with the dead.

Like the brightest buds of summer They have fallen from the stem-Yet. Oh ! it is a lovely death, To fade from earth like them !

And yet the thought is saddening, To muse on such as they-And feel that all the beautiful Are passing fast away ; That the fair ones whom we love, Like the tendrils of the vine, Grow closely to each loving heart, Then perish on their shrine !

And we can but think of these In the soft and gentle spring, When the trees are waving over us, And flowers are blossouting ; For we know that winter's coming With his cold and stormy sky-And the giorious beauty round us, I budding, but to DIE !

MISCELLANEOUS.

From "Noah's Sunday times." SIFIINGS From Foreign and Dnmestic Papers, with Editorial Sprinklings. We learn by a letter dated at Naples Feb. 8th, that the city was in danger of being partly blown up. His supjent Neapohian majesty had, it seems, slowed 15 000 tens of coal in the vaults which run under the royal palaces, the arsenal, and the adjacent districts, and in this coal the fire damp broke out. The king and royal family fled from the palace, there was an explosion which shattered the beams of several rooms, and still the mischief went on increasing. English engineers were consulted, who recommended throwing carbonic acid gas into the taults, a plan which has proved entirely successiul in England. To this the Neapolitan wiscacres would not listen, but attempted to put out the flame with sand! At the last accounts, 500 gally slaves were at work getting out the coal, and every moment was increasing the difficulty and peril. It seems that the king was warped of the danger, three months since, but he only laughed and forbade that the coal should be touched.

A murder committed in Nottinghamshire, England, 23 years ago, has recently come to light through the death-bed confesnon of the murderer, a cotter named Baguly. The victim was a pedlar. The wife of Baguly was cognizant of the fact, and used to stop him when he attemted to a Suse her by saying-"Be quiet, John, I have your coal of arms up stairs," alluding to the bloody clothes in which the homicide was committed. It was stated in evidence that "nocturnal noises" hat been heard periodmitted every year since the pedlar disap- ties, that he is prepared to manufacture peared. The whole case is a most extraordinary one.

The exhibition of all nations, to be held in London, in 1851, will unquestionably be the most magnificent illustration of the progrees of art and science that the world has ever seen. The roofed portion of the building where the exhibition is to take place is to cover seven hundred thousand square Edgetools, an assortment of Axes, Drawing-knives, feet, and the entire edifice including the Hatchets, Hammers, Files of various descriptions. open spaces, nine hundred thousand square feet. In the Hotel Dieu, at Paris, the lower room is under the care of the Sisters of Charity, where are kept ready for the use of the indigent sick 500 sheets, 14,000 shirts, 28,-000 napkins and pillowcases, and other large quantities of linen.
