

Blair's Register.

Authentic from Havana. Arrival of the Saranac at Norfolk.

The United States Steamer Saranac has arrived at this anchorage, having sailed from Havana on the 5th inst.

On the 25th we arrived off Havana, and found the sloops-of-war Albany and Germanton.

The particulars as detailed by Capt. Randolph were these: A portion of the force organized in the United States for the invasion of Cuba succeeded in effecting a landing at Cienfuegos.

Upon our arrival in the port, Captain Tattall accompanied by Commander Randolph and the American Consul.

We sailed from Havana on the 26th, in company with the sloops for Key West.

Here we ascertained that the captured vessels were the brig Susan Loud and bark Georgiana.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

BENTON ON RITCHIE AND RITCHIE ON BENTON.

Having just finished the interesting little comedy of Meade upon Ritchie and Ritchie upon Meade, we, to-day, raise the curtain for the purpose of introducing to our readers the farce of Benton on Ritchie and Ritchie on Benton.

Do not think that Professor Gliddon was present to interpret the hieroglyphics on the bandages, or to determine the sex of the curiosity.

The committee had also reported two smaller bills which were dangling at the tail of this compromise.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

Colonel Benton's speech of yesterday has disappointed those who heard it. Such at least is the opinion of all who have spoken to us about it.

SCENE IN THE SENATE. CLAY AND BENTON.

WASHINGTON, June 13, 1850. Mr. Clay presented the proceedings and resolutions of a public meeting in St. Louis in favor of the compromise.

Mr. Benton replied. The resolutions were passed at a meeting at which only the friends of the object were invited to be present.

The compromise bill was then taken up. Mr. Seward spoke in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Clay warmly responded, and denied that this bill was the cause of delay in the public business.

Mr. Benton replied to Mr. Clay, and defended the minority on the charge of delaying the public business.

Mr. Clay replied, reading a letter from Mr. Reed to a member of the House.

Mr. Benton then in a most violent manner denounced the letter of Mr. Reed.

Mr. Clay said that he repelled with scorn and indignation the calumny, and threw it back to the Senator to be placed by him in his basket of other calumnies.

Mr. Benton you may throw it back, but you get it first.

Mr. Clay made a rejoinder which was not heard distinctly.

And the committee rose and the Senate adjourned.

The Nashville Banner, for the special use of the Lawyers and Chief Justices in the Convention now sitting in that city.

No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, enter into any agreement or compact with another State.

The Nashville Convention has at length adjourned, and the Union is not the least damaged.

What these blunders are, the Editor next proceeds to tell us. British merchants have been detaching goods, it seems, to a market already overstocked with importations from United States ports.

THE NICARAGUA TREATY. It gives us pleasure to state to our readers that authentic information has reached this Government of the full approval by the British Government of the Treaty happily concluded in this city between Mr. Secretary Clayton and Sir Henry Bulwer.

RALEIGH REGISTER.

Ours are the plans of fair delightful peace, Unwar'd by party rage to live like brothers.

RALEIGH, N. C. Wednesday, June 19, 1850.

FOR GOVERNOR, CHARLES MANLY, OF WAKE. Election, Thursday, August 1st.

GOV. MANLY'S APPOINTMENTS. Gov. Manly proposes to meet and address his fellow-citizens, at the following places and times:

- Wentworth, Rockingham Co. Saturday, June 29. Germantown, Monday, July 1. Salem, Wednesday, " 3. Rockford, Friday, " 5. Jefferson, Monday, " 8. Watauga C. H. Wednesday, " 10. Wilkesboro' Friday, " 12. Lenoir, Monday, " 15. Morganton, Wednesday, " 17. Marion, Friday, " 19. Asheville, Monday, " 22. Waynesville, Wednesday, " 24. Scott's Creek, Thursday, " 25. Franklin, Saturday, " 27. Murphy, Tuesday, " 30.

THE WHIG CONVENTION. We had not the time last week to refer with the particularity we desired to the Resolutions passed by this body.

It is true there were differences of opinion amongst our friends, upon some points, but they were such as were fully reconciled after a free and patriotic interchange of sentiment and candid fair discussion.

Mr. Benton then in a most violent manner denounced the letter of Mr. Reed. He said that he held Mr. Clay responsible as the publisher of that letter.

Mr. Clay said that he repelled with scorn and indignation the calumny, and threw it back to the Senator to be placed by him in his basket of other calumnies.

Mr. Benton you may throw it back, but you get it first.

Mr. Clay made a rejoinder which was not heard distinctly.

And the committee rose and the Senate adjourned.

The Nashville Banner, for the special use of the Lawyers and Chief Justices in the Convention now sitting in that city.

No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, enter into any agreement or compact with another State.

The Nashville Convention has at length adjourned, and the Union is not the least damaged.

What these blunders are, the Editor next proceeds to tell us. British merchants have been detaching goods, it seems, to a market already overstocked with importations from United States ports.

wives and children, especially when that caucus or cabal is to assemble afar off, and be led by men whose motto has been and ever will be, ADULTERATE!

Mr. Benton replied. The resolutions were passed at a meeting at which only the friends of the object were invited to be present.

The compromise bill was then taken up. Mr. Seward spoke in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Clay warmly responded, and denied that this bill was the cause of delay in the public business.

Mr. Benton replied to Mr. Clay, and defended the minority on the charge of delaying the public business.

Mr. Clay replied, reading a letter from Mr. Reed to a member of the House.

Mr. Benton then in a most violent manner denounced the letter of Mr. Reed.

Mr. Clay said that he repelled with scorn and indignation the calumny, and threw it back to the Senator to be placed by him in his basket of other calumnies.

Mr. Benton you may throw it back, but you get it first.

Mr. Clay made a rejoinder which was not heard distinctly.

And the committee rose and the Senate adjourned.

The Nashville Banner, for the special use of the Lawyers and Chief Justices in the Convention now sitting in that city.

No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, enter into any agreement or compact with another State.

The Nashville Convention has at length adjourned, and the Union is not the least damaged.

What these blunders are, the Editor next proceeds to tell us. British merchants have been detaching goods, it seems, to a market already overstocked with importations from United States ports.

THE NICARAGUA TREATY. It gives us pleasure to state to our readers that authentic information has reached this Government of the full approval by the British Government of the Treaty happily concluded in this city between Mr. Secretary Clayton and Sir Henry Bulwer.

quiet once more! It is evident that the Whigs of North Carolina will be true to the Country, and stand by those who are resolved not to suffer our most delicate relations and sacred rights to be made food for the voracious appetites of unprincipled men.

Mr. Benton replied. The resolutions were passed at a meeting at which only the friends of the object were invited to be present.

The compromise bill was then taken up. Mr. Seward spoke in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Clay warmly responded, and denied that this bill was the cause of delay in the public business.

Mr. Benton replied to Mr. Clay, and defended the minority on the charge of delaying the public business.

Mr. Clay replied, reading a letter from Mr. Reed to a member of the House.

Mr. Benton then in a most violent manner denounced the letter of Mr. Reed.

Mr. Clay said that he repelled with scorn and indignation the calumny, and threw it back to the Senator to be placed by him in his basket of other calumnies.

Mr. Benton you may throw it back, but you get it first.

Mr. Clay made a rejoinder which was not heard distinctly.

And the committee rose and the Senate adjourned.

The Nashville Banner, for the special use of the Lawyers and Chief Justices in the Convention now sitting in that city.

No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, enter into any agreement or compact with another State.

The Nashville Convention has at length adjourned, and the Union is not the least damaged.

What these blunders are, the Editor next proceeds to tell us. British merchants have been detaching goods, it seems, to a market already overstocked with importations from United States ports.

THE NICARAGUA TREATY. It gives us pleasure to state to our readers that authentic information has reached this Government of the full approval by the British Government of the Treaty happily concluded in this city between Mr. Secretary Clayton and Sir Henry Bulwer.

SPEECHES IN CONVENTION.

We promised in our last to write out, if possible, our notes of some of the Speeches delivered during the late great Whig Convention.

On assuming the duties of the Chair, the President, Jas. T. MOREHEAD, Esq., addressed the Convention nearly as follows:

GENTLEMEN:—The invitation to preside over this Convention during its deliberations is as gratified as it is flattering.

You have been selected by the Whigs of the State to assemble on this time and place to consider some suitable person in whose hands the Whig Banner may be placed during the coming year.

Yes, concession is the word! Patriotism knows no faction—love of Country is not controlled by sects.

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"

On Tuesday forenoon, the pending question being, "Should the Report of the Committee of Eighteen be adopted?"