THE UNION'S PILOT-HENRY CLAY. BY C. D. STUAST.

Firm as the rock 'gainst which the surf W th sullen : hunder breaks in vain, There stands he, on the Union ship, Our pilot o'er the stormy main.

Wild mar the waves by discord lashed To mount ain height, with crests of foam, The swaying masts, with bellying sails, Bode fiercer tempests yet to come.

The storm grows furious-black the sky-Reefs, breakers, shoals are on the lea. God help the ship and moriners ! Can they ride out such stormy sea!

All is not lost ! a chance is left, Still freedom's star breaks through the night; The Constitution compass points. Through Discord's darkness to the light.

On all the skore what millions wait. Watching the stout ship breast the storm : She shuns the re-f!-the shoals !- what shouls Ge up to hail her brightening form.

Ho ! soft she rides at length-and shall-In Freedom's waters, calm and clear: Our Union ship with pilot heave. And treight of Hope and Glory dear.

From the Patent Office Report. A GENERAL VIEW OF AMERICAN AGRICULTURE.

CHAPTER L

THE POSITION OF AMERICAN FARMERS. SECTION I. Every one that eats bread, or wears coth made of wool, cotton, or flax, has a direct personal interest in the results of Tillage and Farm Economy. Hunger and nakedness are wants of the most pressing character, and providence has placed them alike in every human being. In civifized communities all are equally dependent on successful agriculture for the means of subsistence. Let the soil be permanently exhausted, or fail but for a year to reward the labor of the husbandman, and no language can adequately describe the intensity of the universal suffering that must ensue. Hence this branch of the national industry has peculiar and paramount claims to the earnest attention and the fostering care of all governments which are regardful of the public safety, and sustained by common

American agriculture offers for consider. stion several interesting and auching for. tures. Prominent among these is the fact, that nearly three fourths of the labor and capital of the country are employed in this single pursuit. Agriculturists are themselves a large majority of the voters, tax payers, and consumers of all domestic and foreign

Under their republican system, they are mainly responsible for the good government of each State, and of the Union. If their public servants, whether in Congress or State Legislatures, fail to promote improve ments in agriculture as recommended by President Washington, the fault is not in their representatives, but in those who neglect to ask for such aid as government may

American farmers enjoy advantages superior to those of other nations, for improving both themseives as a class, and ther landed estates, upon the highest capabilities of man, and of the earth which he cultivates This republic proffers to rural art and rura! mience more than one thousand millions of acres of available farming lands; of which as little or as much may be subdued and improved as wisdom shall dictate. There is neither compulsion nor restraint in either With this entire freedom of action is associated a degree of security for life, liberty, property, toleration of religion and exemption from onerous laxes, without a parallel in the history of the world.

In extent of sea-coast, facilities for river, lake and canal navigation, for variety of climate, soil, vegetable and animal products, for indefinite and almost unlimited commercial, manufacturing, mineral and hydraulic resources, no other country equals this. There is some danger, however, that we shall prove unworthy of so great blessings-that we may forget the source whence they come-abuse the peculiar advantages and the exalted privileges which we possess, and blindly cling to the barbarous practice of impoverishing the soil, to the incalcula- Nash Co. ble injury of coming generations. Instead of exhausting millions of acres without any Mequate recompense, instead of looking longingly to the wilderness of forest and prairie at the West, we should search closely into the lands already under the plough, and learn what can be done to add two or three or four fold to their present productiveness. The time has at last arrived when it is indispensable to the continued prosperity of all the older States, that the principles both of renovating and exhausting cultivated fields be thoroughly and-universally un-

Section II -A few facts about soil, plants. end animals .- Soils contain, as a general thing, not more than one part in a thousand of the atoms, in an available condition, which nature consumes in forming a crop of any kind. This statement expresses a fact of great practical importance; for the husbanding of these fertilizing atoms is the first step lowards accesting the impoverishment of the instructed in the various departments of the Law earth. It is the matter in the soil, which and care will be taken to prepare them for the pracmakes crops in one arrangement of its at- nice in the several Courts in this State. oms, and forms manure in another condition of the same atoms, that the farmer should learn to preserve from waste and loss.

Soils of different degrees of productive. hess, where their mechanical texture and Physical properties are alike, always contain unlike quantities of the food of crops. It seems to make little difference how small the amount of the lacking ingredient in he composition of cultivated plants. Its November 26, 1849 absence is fatal to the further growth of the crop, after its appropriate aliment fails in the soil. It is easy to discover the wisdom of this universal law. Suppose Nature should organize grass, grain, and other plants er orders of animals, as well without bone earth (phosphate of lime) as with that mineral, would it be possible for such grass and grain to yield to the blood of domestic animals, and to that of man himself, that solid earthy matter which imparts strength to human bones, and to those of oxen, horses, sheep, and swine? Certainly not. Although iron is always present in the food and blood of animals, no farmer ever killed a calf, a pig, or an ox, which had iron for the frame of its system. No anatomist ever saw a bone in the body of a person formed of other earthy atoms than such as Providence had fitted for this peculiar function in the animal economy.

To prevent consequenres so disastrous and so obvious, nature refuses to organize plants without the presence in the soil, in an available form, of those peculiar atoms adapted alike to the wants of vegetable and annual vitality. This wise the horses entered will be allotted amongst the subprovision should be carefully studied by ev. scribers in each class, and on the 20th day of Sepery one who desires to enjoy sound health, and a long and happy life. Most of "the ills that flesh is heir to," as well as most of the maladies of plants, have their origin in the violation of nature's laws.

Every product of agricultural labor is either a vegetable or an animal substance; and in its production not an atom of new matter is called into existence. In the language of science, all matter which is neither vegetable nor animal, including air and wa- teraburg. ids, like sand, clay and lime; or liquids like water; or gases, like common air. The farmer deals largely with atoms in each of these forms; hence he should be familiar with the several sciences which treat of natural phenomena as witnessed in the mineral, vegetable, and animal kingdoms. He &c. &c. should know that plants alone can subsist on mineral, or disorganized fool-that if there were no plants in the ocean nor on land, neither marine nor land animals could have a being. In the absence of all vegetation, it is obvious that all animals must be Sarah Shallington rs. Wm. E. J. Shallington and carnivorous, or cease to consume organized aliment. From the above reasoning it is plain that vezetable life is older on this planet than animal life; and that plants may have flour. ished thousands of years before the lowest type of a being which depended wholly on organized food for subsistence was created. It will also be seen that the line of demarcation between animals and plants is well defined, by the fact that the latter can organize the elements of all vegetable and animal substances into these compound bodies, said Court at Office in Nashville, the 3d Monday in which the former cannot do. HIS Institution is situated about two and a hal miles from thevillage of Leneur, Caldwell Count North Carolina. It has been in operation about five years, and is now in a more flourishing state than at any former period, the number of pupils having gradually increased. The location is very fine, and has proved it-ell remarkably healthy, not a solitary instance of sickness having occurred among the Rector's own Children, or the pupils boarding in his family. since the commencement of the School. There is probably not another place in the State where boys are more pleasan ly situated ; more effectually guarded against the temptations that beset the young; or where they can be more thoroughly educated at so little expense. They are prepared, if desired, for any College in the United States, or fitted to enter upon any protession, at the exceedingly moderate cost of $125 per annum. To the traveler and to the family Circle it is in valuable, as a few drops diluted in sugar and water presents a safe and agreeable remedy to the invalid who requires immediate relief, as well as to the convule-cing patient who needs a gentle tonic. In a southern climate, where the relaxation of the system so generally induces thirst for stimulants, it will always be found an excellent substitute for thos tempting beverages which debilitate the stomach and cause a morbid condition of its powers. In dyspepsia, in relaxation of the bowels, in nausea and sea-sickness, it is an active and safe as well as a pleasant and refreshing remedy, and is prescribed by the most eminent of the medical faculty. Barry's Tricopherous is an article that we take leasure in awarding the highest commendations .-We do not do it upon the recommendation, of others, but from our own personal knowledge of its effects upon the bair; while it tends to keep it healthy soft and glossy, it also removes danruff, prevents grey hair and invigorates its growth in a manner unequalled by any other composition known to us. A person only needs to use one battle to be convinced of his truth.
