For about twenty years I had been suffering from Dyspessia. Every year the symptoms became warse, nor could lobrin permanent relief from any course of medical treatment whatever. About jouriers years since, in honsequence of frequent exposure to the weather, in the discharge of my pestoral duties, I became subject to a severe Chronic Rhopma tism, which for year after year, cutsed me indescribable anguish. Farther! In the winter of 46 and 46 in consequence of preaching a great deal ir my own and various other churches in this region, I was attacked by the Branchitis, which soon became so severe as to require an immediate suspension of my pastoral labors. My nervous system was less thoroughly prestrated, and as my Bronchitis became worse, so also did my Dyspepsia and Rheumatic affection—thus eliming that these disorders were connected with each other through the medium of the Nervous System. In the whole plarmace pois there seemed to be no remedial agent which child reach and recuperate my Nervous System; every thing that I had tried for this purpose had completely failed. At last was led by my friends to examine your surreasines, and though with no very senguine hopes of their efficiency.) I determined to try the effect of the application of the Galvanic Balla.
