REPUBLICAN ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE OF NORTH CAROLINA.

This apparent purpose and the action of the late Convention, assembled in the City of Raleigh, on the 4th day of September, 1867, was the

UNION REPUBLICAN PARTY of the nation must be reformed to settle our present troubles and to restore the lately insurgent States to complete harmony with the General Government

It must be borne in mind that these States are to be restored not merely to being governed themselves, but to the exercise of equal powers in governing the whole country.

But, in as much as the people themselves, and not the States, are to be reformed, a political education is required that will give evidence of a popular renunciation and acceptance, in good faith, and not merely a temporary acquiescence from expediency, in order to recover the power to reconstruct the late insurgent States.

The principles sought to be established upon the sound basis of popular sentiment, as preliminary to reconstruction, may be fully summed up in two propositions:

1. A faithful and willing adherence to and support of the Union and of the government of the United States and a quiet submission to its authority under the Constitution.

2. Civil and political equality among all citizens, irrespective of race or color, and the protection of white and colored alike in all their rights, privileges and immunities of citizenship.

These are the principles of the UNION REPUBLICAN PARTY, and are the only test of a true, national republicanism. Our restoration to the rights and powers appertaining to our State in the Union depends and is dependent on the establishment of these principles as the prevailing sentiment of the people.

The government has refrained from execution for treason, from banishment and from confiscation of property. It has not exacted, nor does it intend to exact, a voluntary confession of guilt, nor has it exacted a voluntary confession of guilt, nor has it exacted a voluntary confession of guilt.

They have charged that party with the design, to divide the State into two sections, to divide the election to be parcelled out among the colored citizens; 2d. To perpetuate the disfranchisement of the whites from the ballot box, while the whole of the colored men are enfranchised, and thus secure the political supremacy of the colored race in the Southern States; 3d. To continue the official disabilities now imposed on native citizens of the State, and thus, in effect, place our government in the hands of strangers who have lately settled among us for the purpose of becoming rulers.

That these apprehensions might be quieted by having the position of the party upon these and other points distinctly and unequivocally set forth and promulgated in North Carolina, it was deemed expedient and proper that a Convention of Republicans should be called to meet in the City of Raleigh, on the 4th day of September, 1867.

The Convention was accordingly assembled; but its action was not such as was hoped for, and expected. It was, confessedly, unfortunate that after the courtesy shown to recent settlers from the North, by making a prominent politician from the State of Ohio, (Gen. Helm), the temporary Chairman of the Convention, they should be so manipulated, and by appeals to the colored delegates on the ground of military services, secured the election of one of the most prominent and able of the disunionists of the South, (Gen. Doxey), and have placed in his stead, a prominent President, a stranger from the State of New Hampshire, (Gen. C. Abbott), a gentleman previously unheard of by the masses of our people, or known to us from the history of our State.

It is still more to be regretted that the colored speakers from Wilmington and its vicinity, accompanied by a gentleman from New York, (Col. Beck), in advocating an election of Gen. Abbott, should have used language suggestive of purposes calculated to increase previously existing apprehensions. They paraded the military prestige of their candidate in fighting against slavery, while they reproached the native citizens of the State with struggling to legitimate it, and charged Southern Union men with setting either from cowardice or from a hope to save their property.

of their own race, and of one officer, lately in the federal service, (Gen. Latham), who met only reproach and insult for raising his voice in advocacy of moderation and prudence.

But an effort was, nevertheless, made to quiet the public mind by committing the party in this State, distinctly and authoritatively, upon three points, to-wit: 1st. Against the purpose or desire of confiscating private property for political offenses in the present condition of affairs; 2d. In favor of providing for the extension of the franchise to every white and colored male adult; 3d. In favor of the extension of the franchise to every male adult citizen within such limits as Congress may hereafter see fit to prescribe.

PROSPECTUS OF THE WESTERN CHRONICLE, Lincoln, North Carolina.

To the People of Western North Carolina: The loyal Union party of Western North Carolina have long felt the need of a thoroughly loyal Republican paper, to advocate their claims, and contend for that freedom of speech so long denied us by the enemies of the Union, who, when their cause failed, secretly hoped that their lives would be spared, now encouraged by the "policy" of Andrew Johnson, use every means in their power, by falsehood and misrepresentation, to make our friends in Congress believe that no loyal citizen of the West exists in the Union.

Let the people meet in their respective counties and districts, by their own spontaneous action, and put forward their own candidates—men true to the Union and trustworthy as Republicans.
