THE SENTINEL

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1877.

AN OLD-MAN DROPPES WITH HIS RICHES AND GOES TO RICHMOND.

Richard W. Proffenberg, a man by the name of H. W. Burton, about sixty years old, accompanied by a young and handsome girl about twenty, stepped as one of the boats in this city. Her companion, the man, there was nothing about the department of either of the couple to arouse the suspicions of the most suspicious hotel clerk or proprietor. They occupied the main room and parlor of their means in the dining room. The old man represented to the hotel clerk that he was from Washington, and had recently married a young wife, and that they were on a winter trip. Having means to pay for all they called for, the parties had no difficulty in securing the best of everything the hotel afforded. Nothing transpired to arouse the suspicion of the landlord of the hotel or cause him to doubt the Proffenberg's story until detective Jack Wren, who was from the city's brother in Washington, requested him to apprehend the old man and his companion until he could come up with the necessary papers to place him in the hands of the Washington authorities. Detective Wren had an interview with Proffenberg and exhibited his papers. The old man, as soon as he saw that he was in the hands of a policeman, at once yielded and acknowledged that he was not married to the girl, that he had a wife in Washington, and that he had a large sum of money in the hands of a broker in New York. He stated that his wife's health was delicate and their medical adviser had recommended a trip to the only means likely to restore her and they were leaving in a private boat that day. The pair were taken in charge Sunday night and carried back to Washington, where the old man will have not only a criminal action to answer for, but to face his outraged spouse and his wife's big brother.

SUPERSTITION AND THE BROOKLYN THEATER.

Dramatic News. The ill-fated Brooklyn theater was constructed on the site of St. John's church, which had been surrounded with a cemetery. Mrs. Conway felt nervous about the place from the first day it was proposed. She was superstitious and feared the desecration of hallowed ground. From the fact that the place failed to pay, she lived on the floor above the main entrance, and often her superstitious dread of the place was so great that she would go and pass the night at some hotel. What added to her terror and dislike was the fact that she began sinking money from the first, and little by little her small fortune passed away from her. Then her husband died, and among his last words was a recommendation to leave the fatal place. Two years later Mrs. Conway herself was stricken with sickness. When first placed on her bed she said she would die unless removed to some other place. But she was persuaded to remain. In her hallucination she fancied she heard bones of the dead beneath the theater tiles in their boxes.

NEW-YEAR'S PLEDGES.

One hundred and twenty-eight pledges against drinking during 1877 were made as the old year quietly slid away. One hundred and twenty-eight pledges sought their way home quiet and unobtrusively. Three reached the haven of peace and prosperity, and were sober and reflective during the whole of yesterday. One hundred and twenty-five snuffed snow in the air, and said it was a shame that their pledges should preclude them from such an unlooked-for contingency. They would not stand it, and on yesterday three remaining pledges sang the festive chorus, "Snow! Snow! Snow! Snow!"

PRETENTIOUS PESTS OF THE PERIOD.

New York Times. Our expenditure must be made more productive; the dignity of labor must have more recognition, and the gentility of various occupations of work rather less. The country yields enough for all, and we must learn to make all our share of its abundant wealth. The able-bodied team who live on the earnings of honest toil is no more of a social pest than some more pretentious members of society, who live by various ingenious devices, for levying toll on capital and labor. A good many such have found their natural level of late; in our progress toward sound business methods, many more gamblers, speculators, and superficial middlemen must fall by the way.

THE NIGHT-GOWNS THEY WEAR.

Springfield Republican. One of the luxuries of a bridal trousseau made at one of our furnishing establishments, is a night robe made in the form, and with all the elaborateness of a morning gown. The material is the sheers linen lawn, cut in the princess form and bordered with a straight-cut flounce, trimmed with the German lace. The sleeves are crescent shaped, and on the upper side are made open by diagonal insertions of lace and wrought muslin. Upon the body, from the shoulder to the waist-line, is a simple arrangement of insertions and lacy simulating collars. About the neck is a standing collar formed of a full ruffle of lace, a broad insertion and a lace edge. In such diaphanous attire one might well be taken for Venus retted by the morning mist.

ANOTHER INSOLENT.

At Clinton, Ill., there is considerable excitement over the discovery that the Hon. M. Donahue, the Hayes elector from that congressional district, is an insolent, and has never taken out his naturalization papers, and has made no other explanation, and is now making a late move to make any fuss about it, as he has cast his vote.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

H. W. Burton has retired from the Norfolk Ledger as its local editor.

A CANVAS BACK DUCK WAS SHOT AND KILLED IN THE STREETS OF ALEXANDRIA ON SATURDAY.

Christmas trees, were more numerous in all parts of Virginia last year than ever before. A couple, aged respectively 7 and 15 years, were killed in Norfolk during the past month. The Richmond and Petersburg railroad has given a number of cords of wood to the poor of Manchester. The Chatham Tribune and Courier have been consolidated and will be known hereafter as the Pittsylvania Tribune. The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad company will soon build a dining house at their Byrd street depot, Richmond. The merchants of Petersburg have reaped a rich harvest during Christmas time, and start the new year with anticipations of a more than ordinarily bright future.

IN HIS ANNUAL REPORT, DR. R. F. BALDWIN, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE INSANE ASYLUM AT STAUNTON, STATES THAT ON LOOKING INTO THE HISTORY OF THE APPLICATIONS FOR ADMISSION INTO THE ASYLUM HE FINDS THAT A LARGE MAJORITY OF THE APPLICANTS HAD BEEN PERMITTED TO REMAIN CONFINED AT HOME UNTIL BEYOND THE CURABLE STAGE.

A great many horses and cattle are dying in the counties adjacent to Lynchburg. The disease is supposed to be dry murrain, caused from stant in the corn, and also from an unusual corn being fed to the stock. Animals which attacked with this disease have the appearance of having the blind-staggers, and death soon follows. George Stuart (white) and Rowena McPherson (colored), both of Richmond, were married in Washington Saturday. This couple applied to the Hastings court of this city and Manchester for a marriage license a few days ago, and were refused by the clerks of each of these courts. Whereupon they journeyed to the national capital and obtained their license without any difficulty. The ceremony was made on a boat, and a constitution of flesh.

HONEY IS NO NAME FOR IT.

Chief among the features of the day is the olive branch which the republicans are holding out to the seceding democrats. The democrats are full of "honey" for the olive branch of the republicans. WHEAT INCREASES DRUNKENNESS.

Quarterly Journal of Inebriety. It is a curious fact that great financial reverses and upheavals of society are felt like waves in the increase of intemperance in all the larger industrial nations. The Black Friday of Wall street, the fire of Chicago, and the present financial crisis, with its sudden revolutions, have and are still developing thousands of inebriates, all over the land. The better class of these unfortunate cases are the result of some sudden business reverses, and are usually accompanied by a loss of position and a fall in the social scale. The lower class and more numerous cases are the result of a fall in the price of the staple commodities, and are usually accompanied by a loss of position and a fall in the social scale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HILLSBORO RECORDED.

ESTABLISHED 1820. THE OLDEST PAPER IN NORTH CAROLINA. The RECORDED is published for the merchants of Raleigh as a medium of advertising. It has a large and increasing circulation in the counties of Orange, Alamance, Person and Granville, and especially in these sections of agricultural land, where it is closely connected by the interests of trade with the city of Raleigh. The merchants of Raleigh will find it ready to their advantage through this medium to build up a metropolitan wholesale trade, and center upon Raleigh the business that goes to other states. Newspapers still add to the growth of agricultural improvement, and the tendency to the adoption of labor-saving machinery, to reach the ears and eyes of a large and intelligent class of readers through the medium of the Recorder. For particulars address J. S. CAMERON, Editor and Proprietor, Hillsboro, N. C.
