The reading public, especially of the West and South, have become familiar with the writings of the author of this very pleasant volume. His characteristics are great clearness and simplicity of style, close observation of nature and character, and a certain dry humor of description, which is especial y captivating. His sketch of "Tom Owen, the Bee Hunter," is an excellent illustration of his felicity in this regard; and his picture of "Wild Turkey Shooting," is another "case in point." The fact is the writer is an artist, and that in writing, as in painting, a picture is always before him.

METROPOLITAN FEMALE SMINARY. The subscriber proposes to open. onday in January next, in the City of Raleigh, a High School for young ladies, under the above title For this purpose, he has purchased the property formed owned, and employed for school purposes, by the late Rev. advantages of the city, and sufficiently retired to be free He has purchased also an unimproved lot, in the same vicinity, one of the most eligible and beautiful sites in in stating that it is the bestwhich I have seen in the the city, upon which he intends, as soon as circumstances market. Hence the prime object will not be to make the school as eheap as possible, but to render the instruction as efficient as possible. The subscriber flatters himself that the experience he has had in teaching young ladies and the satisfaction he has been enabled to give, will be a sufficient guarantee, to all who may be disposed to patienize his school, that their daughters will be properly cared for, and faithfully instructed. Bebeerine in Edinburgh, makes the following observations in a letter to Dr. Maclagan, in Janu ry "You know that Piorry and others have somewhat frightened us accouchers from employing Quinine durng pregnancy; and alleging, as they do, equences may ensue from the use of it. Nor is Arsenic a medicine which one would choose to exhibit to a pregnant female. Though thus deprived of the advantages to be derived from the use of these two potent remedies in Periodic Neuralgias, latterly I have used the Sulphate of Bebeerine in instances of this kind, and as it has appeared both to me and my patients, with most perfect success. I prescribed it about a couple months ago to a lady who had one of the most ser attacks of forehead and face Neuralgia that I remember to have seen. It came on towards noon, and kept her n blindness and agony for some time. The ordinary medical attendant on the family had lecched her, of without relief. I advised the Bebeerine to be given in two grain pills repeatedly during the interval between the paroxysms. As the medicine seemed to have no effect, gradually increased it, till on the third day she took about half a drachm of the Sulphate during the fourteen or sixteen hours' intermission. To tell you the truth I was beginning to despair of sceing the sufferings my patient in any way relieved by it, and would have changed it for some other remedy next day, but such was not required; as, after the large dose I mentioned, the usual fit was greatly less in severity, and in a day or two entirely disappeared. Of her own necord, my patient fell back upon the Be becrine pills some time afterwards, when the Neuralgia was again threatened and it again speedily disappeared.
"Last year I saw a similar case of periodic Tic in the face of a lady far advanced in pregnancy. It yielded rapidly when the patient was using the Sulphate of Beberine alone. I havea lady at present under my care who has been suffering from distressing pains in the face, shoulder, and other parts of the body. Before I saw her she had been put on the use of Guiacum, Colchicum, etc., under the supposition that the pains were rheumatic. They occur with a kind of irregular periodicity. The. patient at the same time suffers from monorrhagia, inine, Arsenic, etc., have fulled to relieve her. Latterly placed her upon the use of the Sulphate of Bebeering and at my last visit she stoutly declared that she had derived far more benefit from this medicine than from No. 120 Arch-Street, one door below Sieth, Philadelphia. any others I had previously prescribed for her. "I have a patient from India, where she had suffered from Ague, and whose stomach seems always to rebe against Quinine. Since coming to Edinburgh she has had repeatedly a recurrence of Aguish symptoms, and has taken Bebeerine for them without feeling those symptoms of gastric irritation and headache which Quining seems to inflict upon her. "In other cases where I have employed the Bebeerine, either as antiperiodic or as a tonic, it has caused far less of those irritatingand stimulant effects which we see produced by the use of Quinine. Testimonials from North-Carolina Physicians are in the agents hands, certifying to the virtue and success of Bebeerine in Neuralgia and other diseases.
