Randolph.

The bill to emancipate James G. Horsles, a slave, passed its second reading.

Pending the consideration of this bill. Mr. Thomas, of Jackson, said,

During the present session the emate have already passed in favor of maneiga-ing two slaves upon proof being furnished that hey were qualified to take care of themselves and in their sphere of action become useful members of society, and also had referred meri-torious services. In these cases the senate de-cided not to incumber the emancipates with a resolution which would certianly deprive the individuals of the principal advantages which would result from commencipation, that of knowing, that for conducting themselves as useful members of society, being able to furnish recommendations from gontlemen of the highest standing in their favor, why should we refuse to comme sipate any slave under these conditions? Wanter the people of any county in the S injury can the people of any county in the State suffer from having useful barbers and mechanics? Already the Senate bave decided in favor of omancipating two slaves, barbers, without the restrictions proposed, for the benefit of the Westers Rallroad, and the West will too object in having a post carpenter, to accompany the barbers. The effect of passing bills like this present upon proof of meritorious services is, to encircle every slaveholder and family with the protection of their own servants which a desire to gain their liberty will inspire.

The special orders,—the several bank charters, and the bill to obarter the Enyetteville and Greensbore, Rallroad—were postponed.
