A Missing Vessel—Thrilling Narrative.

Under the caption of "The Steamship Pacific—is she lost?" the Boston Anglo-Saxon publishes the following remarkable story...

The town of Liverpool, in Nova Scotia, situated about sixty miles from Halifax, is a place of some magnitude...

DEPARTURE OF THE LIVERPOOL PACKET. The Liverpool Packet, commanded by Captain Bass, which plied weekly between the two places...

A few hours after her departure there sprung up one of those terrific northwesterly winds known on the coast of Nova Scotia...

THE post at length arrived, but brought no tidings of the Liverpool Packet, another post and another came in, and yet no news of the missing vessel...

Three months at length passed away, and the Packet was given up for lost. Those who had friends on board offered up for the rescue of the souls of the departed...

Sixteen weeks had now elapsed, when one fine morning in the Spring, some men were placed at the Fort doing a strange brig planked at the harbor...

"A man," exclaimed one who had a certain indefinable hope, as that hope sank with him, "an emigrant ship after all, and a deep sigh came from his bosom..."

"An emigrant ship!" said another, who once any captain of an emigrant ship knew so well his way into this harbor...

"Not a word," said the incredulous, he said, "Give me the trumpet, I will speak the lie; in a few moments she will be near enough..."

"Not a word," said the incredulous, he said, "Give me the trumpet, I will speak the lie; in a few moments she will be near enough..."

A Wife in Ecstasy and a Husband in Fidgets.

The deed is accomplished. My wife has found a plan, and now farewell the tranquill mind-farwell content and the evening papers and the big cigars that make ambition virtuous...

Now he ran his fingers along the keys, and I thought of a bay rattling a stick upon a picket fence. All of a sudden he stopped, and I thought something had happened...

It is not easy for a modern Englishman who can pass a day from his club in St. James's street to his shooting-box among the Grampians, and who finds in his shooting-box all the comforts and luxuries of his club...
