UNIVERSAL FAME. BY J. K. PAULDING. It is amazing to observe how little mankind knows of each other, although the vanity of human nature whispers every distinguished person, that his fame is, or will one day be universal.

nothing but what you stole from us. You were ignorant barbarians, and so would have remained, if your wise men, as you call them, had not come to Egypt to learn their ABC.

"Nor I," said the Egyptian. "Gentlemen," said the Greek, "you may not boast as much as you will, but had it not been for Greek warriors, philosophers, poets and historians, you would all have remained barbarians."

pundits lost their senses! That whole universe is filled with his names. "We never heard of him before," cried they all.

will be difficult to make them believe that so sagacious a leader as Mr. Clay, or even such a pettifoggish politician as Mr. Tyler, would confine all his efforts to putting down the dwarf, while an army of giants is in the field.

ADVICE TO SUNDRY PEOPLE.

When you feel your passions rising, never confine or repress them. How many boilers have been burst by too close an imprisonment of their contents!

Always proclaim the faults of others. There should be no secrets in a republican government.

Never give up your opinion though you know you are wrong; it shows that you have no independence.

Whenever you attack your neighbor's character, do it behind his back, so as not to wound his feelings.

Make it a rule to keep company with rogues and rascals, and then if you should be prosecuted for an offence you have committed, and your comrades should be called as witnesses against you, nobody will believe them, and so you will get clear.

Never forgive an injury. The power of pardoning belongs to the Governor and Council.

When you have done an act of charity publish it to others; so that they may do so too. Besides every man can preach from his own notes.

Never pay your debts—it is unconstitutional; for payment impairs the obligation of a contract, and even the Legislature has no right to do that.

Temperance is a great virtue; therefore always be moderate in the use of ardent spirits. Six glasses of sling before breakfast are as good as a thousand.

When you are in church, go to sleep. Sunday is a day of rest.

If secret has been committed to you, keep, take especial care to keep it safe and it may be well for caution's sake to get one or two to help you. And as woman is called the "weaker vessel," she should have half a dozen to help her.

Never brush down a cobweb; it is part of a spider's dwelling house, and of course his castle, and therefore 'peis sacr.

A NEW SECT.

We observe in the Philadelphia papers, a notice of a new religious sect, called, "Bible Christians." The Mercury thus gives a summary of their creed.—This denomination abstain from all animal food and spirituous liquors, and live on vegetables and fruits.

They maintain the unity of God, the divinity of Jesus, and the salvation of man, attainable only by a life of obedience to the light manifested to his mind, and a grateful acknowledgment of his indebtedness to the great giver of all.

The congregation numbers about 70 members.

GREENSBORO FEMALE COLLEGE.

The interesting ceremony of laying the corner stone of the Greensboro Female College was performed, last Tuesday afternoon, by the Masonic fraternity, in presence of an immense concourse of people.

The procession started from the Lodge hall at 4 o'clock, arrayed in full regalia, and moved to the site of the College, which was then a bare field.

After prayer by the Rev. Mr. Webb, and a hymn sung by the united voices of the assembly, the proper officers of the Lodge proceeded, together with other ceremonies, to place the usual deposits in the corner stone, consisting of the various denominations of American coin; the names of the Trustees of the College; the names of the officers and members, and a copy of the by-laws, of the Lodge; and last—but not least—a number of the Greensboro Patriot.

The stone was then laid at the appointed spot in the foundation of the building, where it will no doubt repose for ages beneath the vast walls which will soon be erected over it.

The Rev. S. S. Bryant, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this (the Danville) district, then addressed the assembly in explanation of the origin and objects of the College. His remarks in explanation, and his views of the great work, were explicit and forcible, and his conclusion was very eloquent—even poetical.

It is the object of the contemplated institution to furnish a complete course of female education, adapted to the wants and the doctrine of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The building has been commenced, and the workmen are now engaged on the centre portion of it. It will be a very large structure—larger, we suppose, than any building in the State west of Raleigh. The main structure is to be of brick, 132 feet long by 53 wide, and three stories high. In addition to this, commodious offices are to be erected. And all to be finished in plain, but the most durable, style.

The situation is on a very commanding eminence at the western end of town, just outside of the corporation line. Ample grounds are set apart, and will be, no doubt, tastefully improved, around the college. Every thing is contemplated to be done which will contribute to the health, quietness and general comfort of the students.

A number of lots have been laid off in the western part of town, upon land belonging to the Trustees of the College, comprising some of the finest situations in town, which are now for sale.

The people have sense enough to see this; and it
