TOBACCO A CURE FOR CHOLERA. Dr John W. Moore states in a Mobile paper that he cured one hundred or more ex. treme cases of cholera, not losing one, by the use of tobacco. He administered it in a form of an enema, of the strength of one drachm to a pint. He first tried it upon a negro whose pulse was gone, his tongue was cold, and his muscles so rigid that he rested only on his head and heels. In five minutes he was relieved, and the cure perfected by drinking a decoction of senna. In his own case, Dr Moore took in his stomach a spoonful of the tobacco decoction, with perfect relief from cramp and diarrhoa .the request of some of the citizens, I hereby He has no doubt but that cholera may be

DEFALCATION AND FRAUD. A despatch from the New York Herald,

The defalcation of Major Scott late Navy Agent of the Washington Navy Yard, is set down at about $50,000. He had held the office for about fourteen years. Speculation s assigned as the proximate cause.

It is said that charges exist against a high officer in the War Department, which are being examined into, relative to frauds upon the Government in the way of forged land warrants and other claims of dead soldiers that had no existence.

A Lesson taught by an Insect .- I was one day watching and admiring a quantity of wild flowers on a bank, when I saw a bee flying from blossom to blossom, paus ing a moment upon each, diving down into the cup or into the bell, and flying the Consul receiving his passports and around with its load; and I said to myself all flowers have their honey, but he must search who would find it.

This taught me a lesson. If we look only at the surface, we lose the most precions of the gifts of Heaven. The gold all whom he meets on the roads. He has lies down deep in the mine; the diamond veils its well of light till it is cut; and the mind of man, if it would discover the richness or the brightness of any thing throughont the universe, must dig deep and labor hard .- James.

> A RARE CHANCE FOR THE ANTI-QUARIAN.

JAMES VINCENT, of Galesburg, Knox county, Illinoise, writes to us, April 18th as "I have by me a copy of the Bible printed in the old English Black Letter, translated by John Tindale, bearing date A. D. 1549.

"It is not known that there are more than three copies preserved, perfect or imperfect; and from the Bibliographer's Manual of Enboth and the Bodleian libraries and in the British Museum. It is not kown that there is one in the United States,"

Mr. Vincent has recently brought his copy from Europe, and urged by necessity, he is willing to part with it. It is in a good state of preservation from 1st Genesis, to Chapter 9th of Hebrews, and its value he rates at $200.

dred and fifty laskes on the bare back, to would be found that the last cannon fired against Annexation would be fired by the French Canadians of Lower Canada. It Brinkley kept his bed several days, and had been said that the present Government were powerless; but he must say that if they appeared to fold their arms and look silently on such was not the case; for the course they had pursued was adopted in order to save the effusion of blood. They had made a cail on the country, and the Government the hand of Douglass. The second shot had at their command 15,000 in one part, him in the side, and this victim fell down 30,000 in another, and so on all over Lower Canada, both of the French and Irish; and although these men were ready at the call of Government, yet they had not, on their part, broken a pane of glass, notwithstanding the acts committed by the opposite party. Some of their friends thought it would be necessary to call for their assistance; but the Governor General was opposed to this, because they had the British-the gallant British-Army to defend the country, the men composing which were always found to obey the commands of their superior officers. Was the Government then to blame in keeping back, when the cause of their doing so was to avoid bloodshed? 12

A COAL OF FIRE.

It was formerly the practice of physicians when a man had the apoplexy and was thus rendered insensible, to apply to his head some coals of fire with a view of rousing up the powers of life and restoring the man to a consciousness of his condition. It is thought to be in allusion to this custom, that the apostle Paul says "If thine enemy hunger feed him, if he thirst give him drink; for in so doing thou shall heep coals of fire on his head."thus then shalt awaken him to a sense of his meanness. Do not the statictics of the last census show that North Carolina was almost in an apoplectic sleep on the subject of education? It is to be hoped that she is not 'alt-gether as low in the scale of moral education as she is in that of intellectual, yet who before the census of 1840 believed that so many were unable to read and write? And as it is probable that no decided change for the better has been made, we therefore place it as a burning coul upon the heads of all who have any influence in this matter-and who has not-one in every four of our people, our full grown men and women, is unabla to read and write! Let it burn-if sensibility be not entirely extinct—let it burn till our State be aroused from her stupor.

SECRETS OF THE INQUISITION.

The correspondent of the London Daily News describes a visit he had to the many small, dark and damp dungeous of the inquisition at Rome, which have lately been thrown open to the public. It is out of the glish Literature, by William Thomas Lown-des, I find that there are copies in the Lam-beaten track behind St. Pater's. The correspondet says:--

The officer in charge led me down to where the men were digging in the vaults below; they had cleared a downward flight of steps, which was choked up with old rubbish, and had come to a series of dungeons under the vaults deeper still, and which immediately brought to my mind the prisons of the Doge under the canal of the Bridge of Sighs at Venice, only that here there was a surpassing horror. I saw em-bedded in masonry, unsymmetrically arranged five skeletons in various recesses, and on the ground floor in the immediate vicini Would it not be worth while for the deal- ty of the very mysterious shaft above men

The following anecdote furnishes a good illustration of the 'rote' style of teaching which prevails often in schools:

A school teacher preparing for an examination of his school, selected a class of pupils and wrote down the questions he would put to them on examination day .-The day came, the hopefuls all but one.— The pupils took their places as had been ed, and labor diversified, the better for the arranged, all went glibly on till the ques-South socially and politically,—[Columbia tion for the the absentee, when the teacher asked, in whom do you believe?
