VALUABLE MEDICINES.

AUSTIN & BURNS,

HAVE just received, from New-York and Philadelphia, and now offer for sale, (as agents) the following Valuable Medicines:

Rogers' Vegetable Pulmonic Detergent.

PERSONS afflicted with Coughs, Colds and Pulmonary Affections in their various stages, are reminded that a more safe and effectual remedy cannot be found than Rogers' Pulmonic Detergent. It has now been tested by 15 years experience, and hundreds can be appealed to in various parts of the country, who will bear testimony to the speedy and permanent relief afforded them by the use of it.

Also, Rogers' Vegetable Renovating Pulmonary Syrup, prepared from the same materials as the Detergent, with such additions as a long course of experience and observation of Pulmonary Affections have proved to be better adapted to more protracted and confirmed cases of Consumption.

The following certificates are from gentlemen of respectability:

"At the request of Dr. Rogers, I cheerfully state that a female domestic living in my family and laboring under the effects of a most severe cold, was speedily relieved by the use of a medicine prepared by him, and now under the name of Vegetable Pulmonic Detergent, and that I have myself used it to much advantage, when suffering under a violent affection of the Lungs and recommend it as an effectual medicine in such cases."
WILLIAM HONEY, 47 Charlton st.

Few men in the community have a greater contempt for nostrums in general than myself. Patent medicine and catch-penny with me have been synonymous. I am constrained, however, to relinquish these sentiments as respects Dr. Rogers' Vegetable Detergent, the effects of which I have recently witnessed. A young lady in my family, by using two papers, I have reason to believe, is effectually cured of a alarming pulmonary complaint, which, in all its symptoms, gave evidence of immediate consumption. I communicate this with a view of usefulness, and sincerely hope that such persons as have complaints similar to the above, will make a trial of the medicine.
GIDEON LEE.

For the Salt Rheum.

DR. ROGERS' LINIMENTUM, for the Salt Rheum, one of the most effectual remedies extant.

The following are some of the many respectable certificates.

NEW-YORK, JULY, 1828.
Dear Sir.—I had almost despaired of ever being relieved from that afflicting and troublesome complaint, the Salt Rheum, after applying perhaps twenty different prescriptions, until I used with effect your Liniment, which has destroyed every vestige of the complaint which for several years (at seasons) rendered my hands nearly useless. Since which time, I have with much pleasure recommended its application to a great number, and in five cases out of six, have had the satisfaction of witnessing a complete cure, and in every instance, a great mitigation of its virulence.
GEO. W. ARNOLD.

DR. GEO. ROGERS, No. 315 Broadway, N. Y.
Dear Sir.—Having been severely afflicted for a number of years with the Salt Rheum on my hands, arms, &c. and resorted to every remedy within my knowledge without effecting a cure, or in fact giving me any relief, until I fortunately obtained some of your Liniment for the Salt Rheum, which after a few applications has entirely cured me. I have witnessed the same effect on several of my friends, to whom I gave some of the Liniment. It has performed a cure, I believe, in every instance where it has been applied.
WM. D. H. BALDWIN.

DR. GEO. ROGERS.
Odontalgic Elixir, or Tooth ache Specific.
Many empirical remedies for the "Odontalgic Elixir" have been previously presented to the public, some of which are very good; but all have been found to fail in more than half the instances in which they have been tried. The "Elixir" now offered may be relied upon as altogether superior to any remedy before invented; it will cure the most obstinate cases of that dreadful pain, with expedition and safety.

Also, SWAIM'S PANICEA, for the cure of Scrofula, Syphilitic and Mercurial Diseases, Rheumatism, White Swellings, Diseases of the Liver and Skin, general debility, &c.

Also, POTTER'S Vegetable Cathartic, used for the cure of similar diseases.

Also, Anderson's Cough Drops and Pectoral Pills, for Asthma and Consumptions.

Also, Thompson's celebrated Eye Water, for sore or weak Eyes.

NOTICE.

WHEREAS on the 23d day of July, 1829, I purchased of Gustavus Boswell two negroes, for which property I gave, on the date aforesaid, two notes, with James B. Gincy and Henderson Forsythe securities to each—one for two hundred dollars, due 1st of October, 1829, and the other for two hundred and seventy-eight dollars and twelve and a half cents, due 1st day of March, 1830; it being doubtful whether the said Gustavus Boswell's title for said negroes to me is a good one, and said Boswell not being in circumstances which will enable him in case thereof to indemnify me, should said property be recovered of me.—This I therefore forewarn all persons from trading for said notes, as I do not intend paying them until indemnified from all other claimants to the property aforesaid.

Desultory Selections.

The editor of the National Gazette recommends the two following articles, abstracted from a late London paper to be placed by the side of some of Capt. Hall's opinions:

"At Union Hall yesterday, a woman with a child in her arms came to complain that her husband, who was in the receipt of 30s. per week, frequently beat her, and would not allow her sufficient to maintain her family. Mr. Swabey.—What have you to say to this treatment? Defendant.—Please your worship, every word my wife has uttered is false, I am sorry to say that she is given to dram drinking to a ruinous excess. She had got acquainted with a number of other women, wives of hard working men and they go about from gin-shop to gin shop till their husbands are almost beggared; and so because I will not give her money, and buy all the articles of food myself, she has trumped up this story against me. She is one of the committee of gin-tasters. What is that? Defendant.—The committee of gin tasters; it is composed of twelve women, who go round every night to twelve gin-shops to taste spirits and then make a report where the best "dram" is to be bought; a chimney sweeper's wife is at the head of the committee. My wife is one of the set; and unless something can be done, I must go to the parish for she pawns every article she can get. The case was then dismissed, and the complainant severely reprimanded, with a promise from the magistrate that she should be sent to the treadmill if found drunk."

"On Saturday, at Barnet Fair, a commotion was created in the market by one of those occurrences which disgrace the laboring classes of the country—the sale of a wife by her husband. The vender was a cobbler, with one leg, named Hugh Richmond. His wife was a good looking woman, apparently about 19. After several biddings she was knocked down at five shillings; but not liking the purchaser, she was put up again, and finally disposed of for 3s. 6d. and a quart of ale. The purchaser was then moving off with his prize, but the moral crowd, taking up the cause of decency, began to pelt them with mud, on which the man slunk away, leaving the woman to shift for herself, and she was glad to take refuge in one of the show-booths."

There is nothing more wonderful, nothing that sets in a higher light the power of man's intellect and industry, than the production of a daily morning newspaper at the hour of breakfast. Custom makes it a thing too familiar to many to be wondered at; they who do not think of reason (and it is astonishing how many among mankind are of this stamp) may judge lightly of it, but not those who are accustomed to reflect. In the 'Times,' for example, are renewed every day the pages of a closely printed volume. Intelligence from all parts of the world, the virtues, the crimes, the luxuries, and the miseries of society in the last twenty-four hours, are displayed there, one universal mass concentrated, as it were, into one focus. There is in such a perfect map of society, on which may be found laid down, every line which tinges the motley civilization of the country and age.—Were a man banished to a solitary Island in the Atlantic, with such a newspaper reaching him, he would not lose the knowledge of the affairs and business, manners and politics, of his native land, but would progress with them. A newspaper of this species brings the individuals of a country, no matter how scattered, into one centre; it combines and keeps fixed in the land of their birth the affections of wandering thousands; it carries over the world the glory and greatness of the country whence it emanates, in its very form and outline it is, in short the representative of national knowledge. The wet morning newspaper is the great glory of a London breakfast table, and its reading, seasoned with highly flavored bohea, is one of those things, which gives the sooty atmosphere of the metropolis an advantage which the freshness of a country morning can scarcely outrival. The advertisements are indispensable to sellers and purchasers, and matchmaking advertisements afford amusement. Newspapers are of older date than Charles the I. though it appears Cromwell made the most effectual use of them. His penetrating mind saw how well they might be made to turn to account in his service and disdained not their aid.

London Magazine.

Hard drinking.—An Irishman being requested to define hard drinking, said "It was sitting on a rock and sipping cold water."

Anecdote.—Sir Colquhoun Grant being in command of a regiment at Clonmel, he gave offence in some way to an honest shopkeeper named Mulcahy, who struck him on the parade in presence of his whole corps.—The officers rushed forward to seize the delinquent, but Sir Colquhoun interposed, declaring that he had been the aggressor and as the gentleman thought proper to resent his conduct in so gross a manner it remained for him to seek the usual reparation "Oh!" exclaimed Mulcahy, "if its for fighting you are, I'll fight you; but it shall neither be with sword nor pistol nor any thing else but my two fists"—(and five big mutton fists they were, sure enough.) "Well then," replied the gallant officer, "with all my heart. By insulting you, I have put myself on a level with you, and of course cannot refuse to meet you on your own terms. Come along, Sir? The men were dismissed; and Col Grant accompanied by his adversary and some mutual friends, repaired to the mess room, where he speedily closed up Mr. Mulcahy's peepers, and sent him home perfectly satisfied.—That was the proudest day of Mulcahy's life, and many a time has he boasted of the black eye he got from a K. C. B. at if it were an honour extraordinary emblazoned upon his escutcheon. "Evince that morning," would he say, "let me see Sir Colquhoun Grant where I might in town or country—among Lords or Ladies—dressed in plain clothes, or dizened out in gold and scarlet, he would give me his hand and say, "how are you Billy!"

True Liberty.—The true value of liberty can only be conceived by minds that are free. Slaves remain indolently contented in captivity. Men who have been long tossed upon the troubled ocean of life, and have learned, by severe experience to entertain just notions of the world and its concerns, to examine every object with unclouded and impartial eye and walk erect in the strict and thorny path of virtue, once to find their happiness in the reflection of an honest mind, alone are FREE.

Map of the United States.—Mr Abraham Bradley, late Assistant Postmaster General, has issued proposals to publish a Map of the United States, in which, in addition to many other improvements, all the post roads and post offices will be accurately delineated and distinguished. A perfect acquaintance with these acquired of thirty years will ensure the accuracy of the map. Such surveys of the public lands as have been made by authority of the Government will also be laid down upon it. It will be the largest map of the U. States ever published, embracing the West Indies; and will measure five feet two inches in length, and four feet in width. The price will be eight dollars, mounted and varnished, or seven, not varnished. It is obvious that it will be extremely useful to every man of business, as well as to the students of geography.
N. Y. Spectator.

Excellent Things.—A good book and a good woman are excellent things for those who know justly how to appreciate their value. There are men, however, who judge of both from the beauty of the covering.
