POETICAL.

THE CITY OF GOD.

Devoud the limits of our mortal vision, Weel homan right, Arise the splendors of the land Elyslan Beaming in light.

Its gates of pearl are even now unfolding Where angels stand; The eye of faith is dazzled in beholding That blessed land.

Its walls of jasper and its trees of healing, Shade waters clear, While songs of praise, in joyous echoes stealing, Entrance the ear.

They have no need of sun, no moonbeam shining No night is there ; They who for heavenly gales were vainly pining,

Palm-branches bear. From golden censers incense sweet ascending Is borne on wings, While round about the throne, the rainbow bending,

New promise brings. But ere wereach the blessed land immortal, Our feet must stray

Through devious paths, and death's dark chilling

Our bark must toes upon the raging billows, The storm-winds high ; Our steps must linger 'neath the shade of willows, Where treasures lie

O'er mountain-tops, with fainting hearts, and weary We yet must climb, Then in the valleys, desolate and dreary,

We know not where, or how the way is turning, Through forests drear, Or on the deserts plains, where sands are burning, Barren and sere.

It may be seen the vell will be uplifted Which spans our way; The darkest cloud may usher in, when rifted The blaze of day; Or we may linger till the night-dews falling.

Our spirits chill; Weary, perplexed, and on our Father calling For guidance still.

"We see the end," in all its radiant beauty "But not the path ;" We may be led to brave, in call of duty, The lightning's scath;

Tried in the furnace, whose hot fires are glowing, While foes assail: Or drinking cups, with bitterness o'erflowing, Till spirits quail.

Yet far beyond this maze of endless winding, Where now we roam. In blaze of glory that is well nigh blinding, We see our home.

And casting down our crowns in adoration Before our God, We shall forget the "path" of tribulation Our feet have trod.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

RELIEF FOR THE SORELY AFFICTED.

It was the misfortune of the undersigned to have suffered, as few have every suffered before, for six long and gloomy years, from an affection of his feet and legs, superinduced by overwork, during the first year of the late war. During all that time, he was compelled to drag his emaciated frame about, on crutches. In vain he invoked the best medical talent of the country; and visited the most celebrated medicinal Springs. Worn down and exhausted, he gave up all hope of recovery. At this stage of his case, having been governed by his medical friends from the beginning, he determined to adopt a method of treatment, the result of his own reflection. It is enough to say, that this method is not so much new, as it is, the more skillful application of what has been long known, and attempted by the Physicians.

After some weeks of the most unwaried and persevering efforts, he was rewarded with the most gratifying results. Indeed, his rapid improvement and recovery, was almost magical—so much so, that in looking back
