Loy Crowder Attends
Vocational Meet
In Missouri

Loy Crowder, past president of the Future Farmers Association of North Carolina, has just returned from Kansas City, Mo., where he attended the national convention held there last week.

Loy reported a very interesting trip. He met boys from all the states and provinces belonging to the United States, attended the business sessions, and listened to the changes in the organization recommended by national committees.

Nominates Officers
He had the honor of being appointed by the national president to serve on the committee to nominate new officers for the organization.

Speaking of his trip out there, he said he saw many interesting things but that there was no state in his opinion superior to North Carolina.

One especially interesting thing he learned was the movement to organize Future Farmers chapters for the alumni or the boys who have graduated from high school but are still living in the community. E. L. Dillingham, his teacher, was favorably impressed with the plan and plans to organize the Wolkville alumni if there is sufficient interest.

Steve Cathey, Bethel high school, Haywood county, won first prize in the national beef judging contest and also ranked high in selling all livestock.

Vein Trouble
The "engineer mind" quite often is an earnest trial. By the engineer mind, we mean that type of mentality which likes to organize thinking in well ordered sequences of cause and effect, and which is ever impatient to get at the heart of the problem.

Medicine has a great respect for the engineer mind and it, too, is ever impatient to get to the heart of the matter.

One of which is by way of introduction to the problem of phlebitis, a condition, according to the "phlebitis," means an inflammation of the veins. But here we have run into difficulty, for the disease is not always of an inflammatory nature, an infection is not its primary cause.

The nature of the condition and its cause or causes have a vital bearing on its treatment. Until these well established we must persevere and stand by our therapy. They have an important bearing on prevention, which medicine is becoming ever more concerned with.

From factory representatives we learned that capacity at the Lansing plant has been increased as a result of an expansion program that saw the expenditure of $6,500,000 during the changeover period.

North Sea Storm Causes Tragedy
LONDON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The fall of one of the worst storms in years lashed itself out in the north sea, northern Ireland and Scotland today, leaving a wake of death and destruction.

Strong northwesterly winds still were blowing in many sections. Fourteen sailors were believed drowned when the Latvian steamer Helena Faulbaum, founded 15 minutes after she had gone on the rocks off the island of Hull, west of Scotland. The four survivors were brought in safety from the island.

The Gothenburg Steamer Bona, with a crew of 12, was reported in distress off Karlskrona, in the Baltic Sea. Hope for the safety of the Elbe Lightship Elbe and her crew of 15 was abandoned at Cuxhaven, Germany, after tug had failed to reach the spot where the craft capsized and foundered.

Phil Hodges, chairman of the absentee voting committee of the North Carolina Democratic club of Washington, said the club expected to send nearly 5,000 absentee votes to the state.

The club keeps its headquarters open until late at night to aid North Carolinians in sending their votes, properly notarized, to their home precincts.

Edney Attacks The Roosevelt Program
CHARLOTTE, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Calvin R. Edney, Republican candidate for congress from the 10th district, addressing a party rally here last night, attacked the Roosevelt administration and termed Major A. L. Bulwinkle, the Democratic incumbent and nominee, a "rubber stamp for the New Deal."

Edney said, "under the New Deal the United States is in the greatest danger in which it has been in its history, and I do not expect the period of the Civil War."

New Stage Curtains For High School
A beautiful cyclorama or set of stage curtains for the local high school building is being admired by the pupils daily as they go to school.

The set was purchased last year by the graduating class at a cost of $125, but due to some delay on the part of the manufacturers it was not installed until this week.

FARM HAND SOUGHT IN WOMAN'S BRUTAL DEATH

James Williams, a farm hand, was sought far and wide for questioning about the grotesque slaying of Mrs. Elsie Lichtenwalter (lower right) in the family farm house near Joliet, Ill. Her husband, Floyd Lichtenwalter (upper right), told officers he was bound and gagged and locked in an upstairs closet by Williams. When he finally liberated himself, he said, he found the nude body of his wife riddled with bullets. Deputy Sheriffs Gordon Breen (left) and Leahm Kelly are shown examining the closet. KEEVER ATTENDS
OLDSMOBILE SHOW

The 1937 Oldsmobile, two new, distinctive and entirely different automobiles, were shown yesterday to Oldsmobile dealers in the Carolinas, according to Geo. C. Keever, Oldsmobile dealer in Shelby, who returned today from Charlotte, where he attended a meeting of Oldsmobile dealers.

"Oldsmobile again sets the pace in 1937," he said. "Not only are both the six and eight different from anything else on the road, but they are entirely different from each other and again set the styles for the coming year."

"The design advance is but one of the many improvements. The cars are bigger in every way, with longer wheelbase, bigger engines and roomier bodies. Many new safety features have been added. Comfort has been increased in a dozen ways. Economy of operation has been gained by improvements in carburetion and slower engine speeds."

"The engines themselves, although based on the same fundamental engineering principle which has resulted in such great owner satisfaction, are larger than ever before and give greater performance and economy as well as insuring longer life and increased dependability."

"From factory representatives we learned that capacity at the Lansing plant has been increased as a result of an expansion program that saw the expenditure of $6,500,000 during the changeover period."

"It is no exaggeration to say that the public may look to Oldsmobile to set the pace again in 1937."

TALK TO PARENTS

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Intentional blindness is sometimes essential in a patient. No one should see everything that goes on.

The Smith youngsters are convinced that their mother has eyes in the back of her head. Nothing that they do passes unnoticed. Other children get away with all kinds of crimes and brag about them afterwards, but not the Smith children.

The parent who is always about and who never misses a trick, may congratulate himself on his omniscience, but is, in the end, a nuisance both to himself and the children. He may be omniscient as he likes, so long as no one knows it. If the children are conscious that he knows of all their misdeeds he must, for the sake of consistency punish or reprove them every time. The result is constant nagging, which exhausts everyone, and in the end undermines authority.

It does not hurt a child to get away with an occasional piece of mischief, so long as he thinks he is undetected. For generations small boys used to play hookey from school and steal an early swim. No parent in his senses would permit his child to do such a thing. To let him cut school and risk pneumonia both, would seem criminal negligence. But no doubt many a parent, remembering his own youth, guessed at the offense and held his tongue. The small boy came through unharmed by either his truancy or the cold water, and achieved a refreshing sense of freedom and independence from the escapade.

Today truant officers, parents, and interfering neighbors are so ubiquitous that a child must feel like a gold fish. The result is often a lack of enterprise and a sense of dependence on home and family.

Undoubtedly in the crowded modern world, all adults should wear blinders, but the children should not know about them.

CAROLINIANS IN CAPITOL TO VOTE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Hundreds of North Carolinians in Washington are sending absentee ballots for next Tuesday's general election to the state through various channels here.

Three organizations are operating in Washington to aid the Tar Heel natives here to cast their votes in the state election. North Carolina Democrats have organized a club for the purpose, and the facilities of the Democratic and Republican absentee voters bureaus here are available also to the North State voters.

The State Democratic club, recently organized, estimated today more than 1,250 Democratic absentee votes already have been sent from the capital to the state through its facilities while the Democratic absentee voters bureau said it had transmitted 549.

D. B. Groff, in charge of the Republican bureau, said more than 200 Republican absentee votes already had been sent to North Carolina for tabulation in the November voting.

Phil Hodges, chairman of the absentee voting committee of the North Carolina Democratic club of Washington, said the club expected to send nearly 5,000 absentee votes to the state.

The club keeps its headquarters open until late at night to aid North Carolinians in sending their votes, properly notarized, to their home precincts.

Football Deaths
About The Same

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Football in 1936 is taking approximately the same toll of life that it did a year ago and once more most of the deaths are attributable to sand-lot and high school games.

The records so far this season show 18 deaths which have been reported from the gridiron and 23 fatalities among football players since January 1. At the same stage of the 1935 season the toll stood at 17.

DIXON PLANS TO MAKE TALKIE OF OLD MOVIE
WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Thomas Dixon, author of "The Clansman," from which the silent picture "Birth of a Nation" was filmed, said today plans were under way to produce the picture as a talkie.

Dixon said the silent picture was produced at a cost of $65,000 under the direction of David Ward Griffith. He estimated the cost to produce it as a talkie would be between $650,000 and $1,000,000.

Queer Chances In Coming Election

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Election oddities? The nation's full of them? And they're not all chuckles, either.

Take Delaware, for instance, where a factional fight among Republicans has developed this topsy-turvy situation:

Voters will find two sets of Republican electors on their ballots Nov. 3, and one set pledged to President Roosevelt. In effect, the Republicans are running a second team against themselves. Thus the vote will be split.

Prescott, Mass., with seven votes, all Republican, is participating in its last national election. By this time in 1940 the town will be under water, part of a huge reservoir being set up in the Berkshire hills. It remains an incorporated town right up to the moment it disappears beneath the waves.

There's a great political future in being a conductor on the Northwestern railroad in Wisconsin . . . Thomas J. O'Malley left the railroad to become lieutenant governor in 1932, was re-elected in 1934, and died in office last spring . . . To replace him the Democrats nominated Edward H. Gervais . . . that's right, a conductor on the Northwestern railroad.

Should a political miracle happen in Texas, and a Republican governor be elected, the state would swap the youngest governor for the oldest. The incumbent, James V. Alford, Democrat, is 38, the Republican candidate, C. C. Harris, 78 . . . Half the voters in Freedom, Wyo., cast their ballots in Idaho . . . the state line runs through the main street of the town.

RECOMMEND COUNTIES COLLECT ALL TAXES
RALEIGH, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Board of assessment officials said today they would recommend to the governor and 1937 legislature that changes be made in the revenue act providing that local government officials collect taxes. Board representatives are sounding out county officials on the proposal.

STATE WITNESS GETS SELF INTO TROUBLE

GREENSBORO, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Johnnie Gold came into court as a state's witness to testify against Vernon White in a robbery case. He went out under a fine of $10 and costs for contempt court. Judge Thomas J. Shaw said Gold was intoxicated.

PUT your finger on any spot on the globe, and the chances are pretty good that The A.P.'s Jim Mills has been there, covering a story for The Associated Press.

Jim Mills is a veteran of The Associated Press Foreign Service—Moscow to Addis Ababa, London to Bombay, Berlin to Shanghai—the world has been his beat. The golden names, the brass hats, the humble people and the proud—Jim Mills has known them all, in peace and in terror. Crowned heads and premiers have confided state secrets to him, and that humblest of men, Mahatma Gandhi, trusts him as a friend.

Wherever big news breaks, there you may find Jim Mills, gentle in manner, quiet spoken, but patiently and endlessly inquisitive.

Jim Mills never wrote a book, he never made a lecture tour, never was a radio star, never did anything to make a big and glamorous name for Jim Mills. He just asks questions because he wants to know and write the answers.

That is why James A. Mills, of The Associated Press Foreign Service, is one of the world's greatest reporters.
