A KING'S LAMENT

(Spartanburg Herald)

Last Sunday in St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburg Rev. Charles Warr said to assembled knights of the Order of the Thistle, of which he is dean: "Our thoughts are with the King in what must inevitably be for him a time of acute personal distress. In the face of such a decision as His Majesty must soon be called upon to make-a decision which involves not only himself but the empire, comprising one-quarter of the world's inhabitants-we must recognize with sympathy and respect his ultimate loneliness at this critical hour."

King Edward today, and he has been for several weeks, is one of the world's loneliest men. He is not permitted to speak his mind to the British people.
