FROM SARA NEWTON'S SCRATCH PAD

EACH YEAR DURING THE LAST OF JANUARY THE citizens of the United States are asked to contribute to the March of Dimes, a march against the perils of infantile paralysis and a source of hope for those who have already known the ravages of that disease. Sometime within the next two weeks the local chapter of the Infantile Paralysis fund will give you an opportunity to help in this fight, and the school children of the county have volunteered their service.

The moving picture theatres will assist in this drive January 25-31 and a short film issued to them in connection with the March of Dimes is entitled "The Miracle of Hickory" featuring Greer Garson. As all we North Carolinians and many others in the United States know, the film will be the story of the valiant and miraculous treatment of infantile paralysis at the emergency hospital founded in Hickory, N. C., during the North Carolina epidemic last June.

The people of this section do not need to see the story of the miracle of Hickory to make them anxious to contribute to the polio fund, but it should be interesting because of our familiarity with the subject. We have already learned from the epidemic last year that lack of adequate funds to meet such a situation as arose last year can result in near panic. Hickory rose to meet the emergency, and numerous chapters in North Carolina contributed money for the hospital's support from their own polio funds. Last summer Cleveland county sent $1,421.75 to the Hickory hospital.

The duty of the Infantile Paralysis fund is not merely to assist in handling epidemics of polio. This organization is always willing to help those who are crippled by infantile paralysis and need special attention or treatment. It works closely with the county welfare department and the vocational rehabilitation department in locating worthy cases and in arranging for the necessary funds for treatment.

If you could only hear all of the stories of the people in Cleveland county who have been helped by this fund. There was the child in the hospital with infantile paralysis several summers ago, before there was a Hickory hospital. The fund paid a specialist to come see him and make sure that all that was possible was being done for him. There was the young woman who had been a hopeless cripple for ten years. It was believed that she could never walk again. The Infantile Paralysis fund joined other organizations in paying for two operations, and she is now able not only to walk, but to do her own housekeeping. There are the numerous splints and braces which have enabled little limbs to grow straight little boys and girls to walk again.

If you have contributed to the March of Dimes each year, this is the work which you have accomplished.

This year John Anthony, Dr. Ben Kendall, and Mrs. John F. Schenck will be in charge of the campaign, and the school children of the city will be active in the march. The President's Birthday Balls have been discontinued during wartime, and the only appeal made will be for your aid in the March of Dimes.

When you are asked to contribute don't think, "What, more money?" Recall that cold dread that pressed upon you last summer when you knew that YOUR child might be struck by polio.

Remember also that the minimum cost for giving a polio victim hospitalization at Hickory is $12 a day, and in other places the costs run as high as $30 a day. The new hospital to be constructed at Charlotte will handle these cases with efficiency and at a nominal cost based on the Hickory plan.

Remember, too, that the costs have not ceased simply because the epidemic has diminished. Approximately $12,000 a day is still being spent by the polio fund for the treatment of cases of infantile paralysis.

Those who can give more than one dime should give more. It takes contributions of dollars to pay the costs of the polio destruction of human health.

Never forget the work that is being done by the fund all year. There are no fanfares and trumpets, no streamers in newspapers, when the fund makes it possible for a boy or girl to have the necessary braces, splints, or treatment, but the fund is still at work. You who are strong and healthy may help others by the March of your Dimes.

When you are asked this year for your contribution, when you are offered a chance to help in this fight, remember these things and let your heart tell you how MANY dimes to give.

Bill Merritt, a patient at Shelby hospital for the past few weeks, continues to show slight improvement.

Mrs. F. R. Corinne of Ardmore, Okla., arrived Saturday to spend about a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dellinger, and other relatives.
