If Today Is Your Birthday

By STELLA

WEDNESDAY, JULY 13—Born today, your dynamic activity is perhaps your most outstanding characteristic. You have a tremendous amount of energy and you will put it into any job at hand, be it a job of brain or muscle. Once you undertake something, it is practically a foregone conclusion that it will be successfully finished. Such is your reputation for finishing up a project correctly and efficiently that it is likely you will be given many a tough job to handle during your lifetime. You are interested in science and philosophy. During your spare time you will devote most of your interests and energies to either or both of these fields. You are fond of your own family. Although you may not be overly demonstrative, you will make a loyal marriage partner and a fond parent. You women, especially, are fond of a certain amount of social life, especially that which centers around your own home. You are fond of fine clothes and jewels and have excellent general taste. You women might be attracted to the stage at some period in your life, also.
