Funeral rites will be held at the home in Hampton Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery there. Surviving are seven brothers, Roland and Reuben Elam of Shelby, Boyd Elam of Spartanburg, Herman Elam of Hickory, Robert Elam of Tennessee, George Elam of Concord and Purnell Elam of Taylorsville. Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. Lester Mull, Boyd Elam, Reuben, Roland and Muld Elam will leave tonight to attend the funeral services tomorrow.

too much. It might even be argued, although we won't go into it now, that the Japanese would actually prefer to surrender before, not after, Russia comes in to settle old scores. The Germans certainly showed a preference for placing themselves in the hands of the western allies. But aside from all this the Japanese must have gotten from Potsdam some jolts more jarring than anything Russian might have done up to go. After all, Russian entry into the war will affect principally the speed of its conclusion, not its result.

The picture of Germany-to-come, and the Sino-British-American ultimatum, however, are matters directed against Japan's own heart. There a people, accustomed though they are to feudal oppression yet proud of their industry, can see themselves being reduced, as they would put it, to the economic standard of their "inferior" neighbors—which for them will be reduction indeed. They can see a Japan which is an empire only in the sense that some ineffective little man may be permitted to call himself "emperor" in his domain consisting of the Japanese home islands under strict foreign control—an abasement which might die death preferable for him and many another Japanese. They can see the end of the industrialization which made them "superior" in the Orient.

Above all they can see the advance of an enemy who is less "mad" than inexorable, a conqueror who does not ravage, but who has grimly-set jaws about the business in hand.

And they must know that the Sino-British-American ultimatum would not have been delivered from Potsdam during the conference with Stalin unless the situation had been thoroughly gone over with him; and that there remained between him and China no bone of contention which was not subject to amicable negotiation.

So dies Japanese hope for a Russo-Chinese situation which could endanger allied unity, as well as her hope for anything except a relentless peace.

volved his successor, Clement Attlee. He left Potsdam with the apparent good will of the Russian and British leadership.

Never a time waster, he mixed informally with quiet pressure for speedy action, but with a good humor that infected the others. Every effort was made to avoid any language about which there might be differences of interpretation between the Russians and English tongues.

Most of the Big Three meetings lasted about three hours. The foreign secretaries met earlier. The closing session last Thursday, ending in an atmosphere of good will, brought a suggestion from Mr. Truman that if there is another Big Three get-together, it be staged in Washington.

"God willing," Stalin smilingly replied.

SPAIN IRKED BY EXCLUSION FROM UNITED NATIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Madrid radio said today that the "peculiar" decision of the Potsdam conference to exclude Spain from the United Nations organization caused "perplexity" among Spaniards who wanted to "collaborate nobly with all other nations in their tasks."

The Big Three decision "affects us directly," the broadcast said, adding "unavoidably must assert ourselves on this matter."

The broadcast was directed to Latin America and recorded by the FCC.

Spain, it said, now "is creating the conditions for a material, spiritual and juridical development of a national and orderly community in the concert of nations."

No mention was made of statements in the Potsdam communiqué that the Spanish government of Gen. Francisco Franco had had a "close association with the aggressor states" and "was founded with the support of the Axis powers," but the broadcast asserted the Franco regime had "not embraced the German third Reich."

gram that is underwritten by a special tax levy not exceeding five cents on the $100 valuation as approved by voters. NOT FOR PROFIT

"No individual should expect to profit financially from a community hospital and there should be no attempt for any individual or group to gain control of it," Dr. O'Neill declared. "On the other hand good financial and professional direction are absolutely essential. This will mean in some instances the relinquishing on the part of the doctors some of what they have considered their rights and privileges. In should not expect the same freedom when he becomes a part of an organization that he had when he was on his own. If everyone connected with a hospital did just as he pleased and tried to be internist, obstetrician and surgeon, a state of chaos would exist and the poor patient, like the poor taxpayer, would always be the one who pays—something with his life."

"Any member of a hospital staff should have the interests of the institution at heart and place them before his own. It has always been a puzzle. It has always been a puzzle to realize if they are part of a good institution they cannot help but benefit in many ways. A good institution has infinitely greater drawing power than any individual, and as a part of that institution each staff member is bound to share in it. The proper care of sick folks is no longer the job of an individual, it required the combined efforts of many. This can be accomplished only in a well equipped and properly staffed hospital."

Dr. O'Neill, in a carefully prepared statement, outlined his ideas on hospital organization, emphasizing first of all that wise planning needs be put into the construction and equipment of a hospital. He expressed himself as encouraged that Cleveland county has decided to move ahead with a county hospitalization program from which he expects much that will be good not only for the county and its people but also for medicine generally in the state. He hopes the program will distinguish the county in that field as it is distinguished in so many others.

Prior to addressing the Rotarians, Dr. O'Neill visited Shelby hospital and in conference with Tom R. Bethune, administrator, who was in charge of the Rotary program, went over tentative plans for expansion of the unit here and for the new unit to be erected at Kings Mountain.

ENCOURAGES SPECIALIZATION Dr. O'Neill in his address said that in setting up hospital staffs the doctors of a community must exercise a spirit of complete cooperation, forgetting any jealousies or cliques in the interest of patient service. He said that particular attention needs to be given the provision of specialized services and younger doctors should be encouraged to take specialized training to that end. He feels that a good community hospital will provide outlets for the services of new doctors with special training.

Dr. O'Neill said that boards of trustees need to be composed of individuals willing to give the time and thought to the job of providing the best hospital service that none should be chosen for honor or business and financial prominence. He feels that small boards are more workable and he said the board should keep uppermost at all times the ideal of service to the patient. He said the most important individual in a hospital is the director and superintendent and that a "good one is worth his weight in gold."

In conclusion, Dr. O'Neill said that planning of a good hospital must be careful and prolonged and that actual construction should be in hands of a recognized hospital builder of proved ability.

The first flight of the Wright Brothers caused no excitement in the daily press or in scientific publications, "Gleanings in Bee Culture," a magazine devoted to the production of honey, was the first to carry an article about their achievement.

NO AREA OF JAPAN SAFE

Tokyo Denies War Prisoner Camps Protect Military Targets

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—(P)—Not a single area in Japan is safe from American bombs, the Domei news agency admitted today in denying the U. S. State department accusation that prisoner-of-war camps are placed to protect military installations.

Even if a camp "should be established on the summit of Mount Fuji, it eventually would be a target," Domei quoted "well-informed quarters" in a Tokyo broadcast monitored by the Federal communications commission.

An earlier Domei report that prisoners were killed in a B-29 raid on Kawasaki, heavily industrialized Tokyo suburb, brought the State department protest. Today, for the first time, Domei claimed the camp was in a wide-open safety zone to which residents had evacuated their families and was near a hospital.

The dispatch turned the U. S. charge and accused American pilots of bombing shrines, temples, schools, historic relics, hospitals, dwellings and fishing boats.

"OBJECTIVES" "It is rightly to be said that the Americans intentionally consider everything on the surface of Japanese soil—even women and children—as military objectives," Domei remarked.

"To them, Japanese paddy fields are anti-tank dugouts; potato fields are mine fields, and shrines and temples are fortresses. American airmen are thus taught.

"There is no end to cases where women and children in remote farming and fishing villages have been victims of indiscriminate bombings x x x Not to mention large numbers of civilians killed or injured by indiscriminate bombings of civilian quarters."

Domei dealt with the Big Three conference in another broadcast, warning occupied Asia that while the Potsdam communiqué made no mention of the war with Japan "we must not draw a hasty conclusion believing that there was no discussion whatsoever on the East Asia question."

He added that cost of the economic units developed on the Wolf Pit Farms in Richmond county and the Pembroke Farms in Robeson county have already been sold to farm tenants and sharecroppers, laborers and veterans of World War II who are eligible under the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act. TIMBER LANDS TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

RALEIGH, Aug. 4.—(P)—Regional headquarters of the Farm Security Administration has announced that 1,200 acres of timber and timber lands in Richmond county and about 3,100 acres of similar lands at Pembroke Farms in Robeson county will be sold at public auction on August 29-30.

Sale of property is in compliance with a mandate of congress liquidating resettlement projects started by the Resettlement Administration during 1935-1937.

A few small subsistence farm units will be offered for sale in addition to the timber lands, regional FSA Director J. B. Slack said.

His announcement also failed to clarify the status of a number of naval air units under Nimitz which previously have been based on Okinawa—the second marine air wing and fleet air wings one and 18.

Col. T. F. Ryan, deputy provost marshal, said an army medical report listed Manila as one of the world's worst centers of venereal diseases.

It would leave General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz, commanding U. S. forces, free to concentrate on the Japanese homeland or other objectives in a greatly reduced area.

Congress members, taking their cue from a suggestion by Gen. Doolittle, proposed that Gen. MacArthur be named supreme commander for the Pacific, as Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was in North Africa and Europe. Doolittle, commander of the Eighth Air Force, urged in a speech at Okinawa appointment of a single commander to hasten victory.

Senators Want MacArthur To Have Pacific Command

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—Several senators today endorsed Lieut. Gen. James Doolittle's suggestion of a supreme commander for the Pacific and named General Douglas MacArthur as their choice.

Doolittle, commander of the 8th air force, said in a speech at Okinawa that an overall chief of all the armed forces in the Pacific is needed. Doolittle added that that system had been tried and proved in North Africa and Europe under General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) commented "I would like to see an overall command in the Pacific and I think General MacArthur should head it."

Senator Stewart (D-Tenn.) said "I'm for it and I'm for General MacArthur having it."

sea. There has been some discussion of moving Holland's frontier eastward to the Ems river.

The Dutch government is waiting to determine what popular reaction to the proposals may be. The claim is based on the fact that while they were occupying Holland the Germans destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of rich agricultural lands by flooding.

The Big Three decision to put Poland's western boundaries on the Oder and Neisse rivers together with the division of East Prussia between Poland and Russia already has sliced off 40,000 square miles of land which was German in 1937, when Hitler began adding stolen lands. At that time Germany embraced 181,000 square miles.

In the 40,000 square miles are approximately 9,000 Germans. They are to be moved back into the lands which Germany retains, along with more than 4,000,000 Germans in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Since the pre-Potsdam population of Germany is figured at 67,000,000 this means that the new Germany as already carved up must support a total of 71,000,000 in an area where 58,000,000 persons have lived. Further, the Dutch say they are determined that the German populations must be removed from any lands they get.

The Potsdam communiqué emphasized that Germany was to become a nation of agriculture and peaceful industries without international commerce. Authorities on Germany here, however, say there will have to be some food imports into the reduced Reich because it never has produced enough to meet the needs of its people.

John L. Lewis May Get Foreign Post

MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—(P)—The name of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, is being mentioned today in responsible foreign diplomatic circles in Moscow in connection with an important job in Europe.

No details were available.

Describing his work during the occupation, Laval said the Germans "asphyxiated" France by occupying departments from which most of the important food supplies and industrial products normally came. Moreover, he said, 600,000 war prisoners had been repatriated and there was no work for them, nor for approximately 1,000,000 other Frenchmen.

"It would have been impossible for France to survive without collaboration," Laval added. "We had to negotiate.

"We depended on the Germans for everything. Our economic life was at a standstill. The Germans had two weapons against us. Firstly, they could always threaten to recall the 600,000 prisoners they had returned to us. Secondly, they could withhold food and industrial materials from the north."

IT WAS TEN YEARS AGO THAT: An operating "moonshine" still with a 40-gallon capacity was captured. In addition about 1,300 gallons of beer were also seized.

The gasoline prices in Cleveland county rose one cent and one-fifth lifting the price to 22.2 cents per gallon.

Governor Eringhaus offered "the maximum state reward of $400 for the arrest and conviction of the men who lynched Govan (Sweet) Ward, 25, negro, in a grove of trees near Louisville in Franklin county after Ward had chopped off the head of Charles Stokes, white farmer in Franklin."

Cleveland county's projected expenditures of school improvements, including the construction of the Shelby high school building was placed by architects at $470,000.

Miriam Hopkins was playing in "Becky Sharp" at the Carolina theatre. "Now you will see her transformed by the glorious new technicolor," the advertisement said. This was Pioneer Pictures' first full-length color feature. The film was produced in "three component technicolor" and promised "a revelation in beauty, fidelity, to life, and clarity."

The last performance of the amateur play, "The Flower Shop" was being given in the high school auditorium. It was given for the benefit of the civic department of the Woman's club.

Randolph Logan and Deputy Mike Austell bought a lot of West Warren street to build a "gas and oil filling station."

That the Star had this to say about woman suffrage. The bill had been ratified by 35 of the 36 states required to make the measure a law. The (North Carolina) lawmakers are hoping that Tennessee will ratify so that the issue will not come up in Raleigh, but if the buck should be passed to North Carolina, let the lawmakers vote the sentiment of the people rather than their own and the proposition will be voted down on the first ballot."

It was twenty-five years ago that: An editorial began: "Sentiment seems to be crystallizing in favor of a hospital for Shelby, but as yet no movement has been launched. What is needed right now is some broad-visioned business men to start something. We would suggest that our business men, doctors, and ministers get together at once and decide on the best plan."

for the statement, what I meant by it, and the practical effects of it."

Laval did not relate the reaction of Leahy, now chief of staff to President Truman. In a letter read earlier at the Petain trial, Leahy expressed belief that the 89-year-old marshal always had acted in the best interest of France.

Laval's mention of Leahy came after a defense attorney asked if the United States had made any moves to break diplomatic relations with Vichy after the broadcast by Laval bespeaking a Hitler victory.

A juror remarked that Laval should know "that after his departure yesterday Marshal Petain said that he insisted on the removal of that phrase from the radio speech," Petain told the court he was amazed when he heard the speech delivered with the disrupted passage.

Laval testified yesterday he broadcast the statement "I desire a German victory" only after Petain made him change the wording from "I believe in a German victory."

Today, in response to the juror, Laval said: "I stand on what I said. The marshal deleted the word 'believed' but left the word 'desire.' And he was not indignant at all."

Laval testified that long after he made the broadcast, Petain said in a speech that from now on, Laval and I walk hand in hand—all subjects of discussion between us have been solved."

Laval said he went to the Hitler-Petain meeting at Montoire only because the Germans had barred Paul Baudouin, Vichy foreign minister, whom Petain had wanted to take along.

Describing his work during the occupation, Laval said the Germans "asphyxiated" France by occupying departments from which most of the important food supplies and industrial products normally came. Moreover, he said, 600,000 war prisoners had been repatriated and there was no work for them, nor for approximately 1,000,000 other Frenchmen.
