The final union service in connection with the local observance of Religious Emphasis week was held at the First Baptist church this morning with an eloquent message on the "Heavenly Vision" brought by Rev. Encouraging reports on the services held in the individual churches were heard from the 18 ministers present. Rev. W. F. Biggerstaff, pastor of Eastside Baptist church, presided at the ministerial meeting as well as at the final union service. He expressed the hope that the local observance would be only a beginning in the efforts to reach the lost in Shelby.

South Carolina, planned to intercede in a strike at the Gaffney Manufacturing company if "an amicable settlement is not reached soon." Around 800 operatives at the plant have been on strike for the several weeks since the Army turned the plant back to the management after operating it for several months to speed production of needed products in the war effort.

Negotiations continued at the three plants of the Erwin cotton Mills at Durham, Erwin and Coolesville where a strike next Monday is impending unless contract differences between the management and union members are ironed out. Striking workers announced this week that a vote had been taken to walk out Oct. 8 unless the management adjusted the differences by Sunday.

Conferences also continued at High Point where workers at 13 hosiery mills continued idle.

At Charleston, S. C., around 900 negro workers were scheduled to return to their posts today at the American Tobacco Company Cigar plant where a sit-down strike took place. LABOR bach invited John L. Lewis and bituminous operators, to meet with him tomorrow. The operators twice had refused to meet with Lewis, mine union boss.

J. Schwelienbach presented a statement during the day reviewing the whole reconversion labor picture.

A meeting was scheduled during the day to arrange final plans for the labor-management conference called by Mr. Truman to fix a formula for settling labor troubles. Among things to be decided was a proposal to advance the scheduled November 5 convening date because of the present widespread industrial disputes.

Vice Admiral Ben Morrell, chief of the navy's bureau of yards and docks, drew the assignment of running the seized oil facilities. His first act was to send messages to plant managers to act for the government.

UNIONS SILENT
Acting Secretary of the Navy H. Struve Hensel told a news conference the navy would not try to deal with the union demand for a 30 per cent increase without an order from the War Labor board.

Chairman George W. Taylor said WLB had not been asked to weigh the wage question.

In the past WLB has taken up a wage dispute in a seized plant only after being asked to do so by the seizing agency or the White House.

The strike grew out of the union's pay demand and the companies' refusal to go beyond a 15 per cent increase. Schwelienbach proposed that the strike end with the 15 per cent hike placed into effect temporarily with an arbitrator to settle the difference between that and the 30 per cent the union wanted. However, all but one of the companies wanted the arbitration to start from scratch at the present wage rates and the negotiations collapsed.

In a statement announcing seizure of the truck plants, Mr. Truman said "oil is so vital to the continuing military operation, and so essential to production for the armed services and national se-

TAR HEEL HERO, YOUNGEST TO WIN CONGRESS MEDAL, HEADS FOR SCHOOL

By MARGARET KERNODLE
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—"I love that woman," said the fond ex-marine. "It's crazy about."

Brother, you can say that again," said the woman.

That woman is 17-year-old Carolyn Brown and her man is 17-year-old Jacklyn Lucas.

He's a man all right. It was a lot of man who smothered those two Japanese grenades with his own body last February 20 out there on Iwo Jima. The three comrades he did it for must have forgotten right there that "Luke" was only six days past his 17th birthday.

And President Truman made it official when he summoned former Pfc. Lucas along with 13 others to hang the congressional medal of honor around their necks today. It's for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty" and in this country medals don't come higher.

As far as the records show the tough kid from Belhaven, N. C. who'd rather fight and eat bread and water than eat, is the youngest ever cited for this peak award.

But Jacklyn and Carolyn didn't seem to be thinking much about the congressional medal of honor as they sat eating southern fried

Wife Dies Trying To Save Husband's Picture From Fire

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Moraghan, 34, was dead today because, firemen said, she attempted to save a photograph of her soldier-husband from her burning home.

Mrs. Moraghan died last night, only a few hours after firemen found her, burned, unconscious and newly suffocated by smoke.

Battalion Chief Frank McNea said she apparently was overcome while trying to save a picture of her husband, Richard F. Moraghan.

"Globester" Goes On Regular Schedule

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The first historic flight is over. Regular round the world air service becomes routine starting today.

This afternoon and every Friday afternoon henceforth, U. S. Army Air Transport command planes—40-passenger C-54s—will leave Washington on a schedule that terminates here the following Thursday night.

Lt. Gen. Harold George, commanding general of the ATC, predicts the "Globester" will be run twice weekly, in both directions instead of east as now, as soon as mail and courier traffic justifies.

The seven men and a woman who made the first flight, ended here last night, agreed that they'd make the same 23,279 mile junket again, and gladly.

Discharged Veteran Killed By Own Truck

WAKE FOREST, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Bruce Wadford, 27, of Wake Forest, discharged from the Army Oct. 3 after 40 months service in the Pacific, was killed Thursday afternoon when a truck he was driving overturned near the city limits on U. S. Highway No. One.

Investigating officers said the truck turned over five times. They said Wadford apparently was attempting to turn into a driveway from the highway when the accident occurred.

The veteran died at the Wake Forest infirmary 30 minutes after the accident. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

CLINTON, N. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Lt. (jg) Clinton Horton, Jr., of Pendleton, S. C., who was stationed at the Camp Lejeune Marine base, was killed near here Wednesday night when the car he was driving collided with a wagon and a bus.

Several passengers on the bus suffered minor bruises and cuts. The accident occurred about three miles from Clinton on the Fayetteville highway.

Curly at home that we must move without further delay to protect our petroleum supply positions.

"The public interest, in an emergency of this character, transcends the interests of any group," Hensel estimated it would require two weeks to restore full production in the strike-bound plants even if workers get back on the job immediately.

In anticipation of today's telephone demonstration, Joseph Beirne, president of the federation, and other union officials moved from New York to Washington to "operate centrally."

Urge Lifting Of Cotton Controls

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Representatives of the Southern Textile Industry are being urged by the American Cotton Manufacturers Association to request their congressional representatives to use their influence for lifting price and production controls.

Letters urging such action were mailed yesterday by Dr. W. P. Jacobs, president of the association.

He pointed to the fact that cotton consumption dropped around 13,000 bales daily from May, 1942 to August, 1945, and said that the farmer is being deprived of a much needed market.

The letter expressed the belief that given freedom of action the industry can go forward toward its task of supplying civilian needs of textiles and the increased employment will be necessary to take care of returning veterans.

Teacher Meeting Schedule Slated

RALEIGH, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Dates and places for six district conventions were arranged here yesterday by directors of the North Carolina Education Association.

The meetings were slated as follows:

EMPEROR

that a new cabinet was being formed.

The newspaper Asahi today cited two "direct" reasons for the cabinet's fall: It felt that it couldn't carry out MacArthur's freedom directive; and it felt that it couldn't be responsible for maintenance of peace and order after the directed removal of leading political officials.

Customarily, cabinet changes in Japan are watched by observing the journeys of ministers after the resignations. Circumstantial evidence—if the itinerary of Yoshida was correctly reported by the Japanese newsmen—would indicate the selection and approval of a new premier, since deliberations within the palace grounds suddenly ended after Yoshida reported back to Kido.

A Reuter's dispatch from Tokyo speculated that another former foreign minister, the 73-year-old Baron Kijuro Shidehara, one-time ambassador to the United States, had been offered the premiership and was considering acceptance.

There was no confirmation.

The cabinet to be named by the incoming premier may not have army and navy ministers. Japanese government authorities said these posts have been retained up to the present to carry out demobilization of Japan's armed forces, now expected to be completed by Oct. 15.

The new premier's first job will be to take steps toward alleviating a critical food, fuel and housing shortage throughout Japan. He also may be called on to cope with political agitation stemming from American release of Japanese political prisoners and elimination of feudalistic thought control and other repressive measures.
