at about the same time. This revolution, he explained, was marked by the inventing of the steam engine, new methods of making steel, and great improvements which completely changed the textile industry.

BRITAIN GREW RAPIDLY As a consequence of the industrial revolution, the speaker said that Great Britain grew rapidly in wealth and population and commerce, with the result that the British empire was expanded and developed and Britain became the leading nation of the world.

Germany's defeat in the first World War enabled the United States to become the economic center of the world, he asserted, and opportunity for world leadership was afforded at that time, Daniel stated, but our people would not accept moral and political leadership, and as a result we attempted to isolate ourselves, while refusing to accept the responsibilities which would have had to be assumed had we chosen to take our proper position.

DON'T TEACH GEOGRAPHY He set forth four purposes for which this nation must remain, powerfully armed; to enforce the peace on defeated enemies; to support the United Nations; to defend the western hemisphere and to defend the United States.

China, however, according to Mr. Daniel, has great possibilities for development, and likewise Russia, although he does not view with any degree of alarm the development which he foresees in the Soviet Union.

Mr. Daniel is definitely of the opinion that the secret of the atomic bomb should be shared with our allies, because if we don't share it the scientists of Russia and perhaps other countries will find the answer for themselves.

He urged universal training because the nation of the future that is not prepared will be in no position to keep the peace of the world or even prevent its own destruction.

Last night's speaker was presented by Phil Elliot, president of the Club.

J. W. Osborne, secretary, said the next meeting will bring Dr. Vernon Nash, celebrated lecturer, to the club November 16. Directors of the club met following last night's dinner and approved acceptance from the club's membership waiting list of a limited group of additional members for next year, extending privilege of the final two meetings this year to those who affiliate meanwhile.

The club roll of 150 has been full since organization, but the desire of a number of Clevelanders to affiliate now caused directors to extend the membership privilege further.

VALUE OF HYBRID CORN SEED BEING TESTED ON CLEVELAND FARMS

It is corn shucking time in Cleveland county.

To a great many folks this is a festival to be marked by moonlight nights, red ears, big suppers and hilarity in general. But to Dr. R. P. Moore, associate agronomist with the extension department of State college and L. S. Bennett, secretary of the North Carolina Crop Improvement association, and the farmers who are cooperating with them in the development of hybrid seed corn and the testing of hybrid corn production this period is really marked by serious business.

These two experts have just completed a survey on the Lloyd Wilson farm near Fallston where seed is produced and crops tested. There are about 400 of these farm cooperators in North Carolina being scattered over the coastal plain, the Piedmont area and the western section of North Carolina. Each hybrid variety has to be tested in its own region so that it will not be sold out of the range of its adaptation.

HYBRID SEED Lloyd Wilson will produce nearly 300 bushels of hybrid seed corn this year. This will be marketed through Morgan and company, by F. C. X. and by Mr. Wilson himself. Cleveland farmers planted a total of about 600 bushels of hybrid seed last year. Each year the farmers of Cleveland county are planting more and more hybrid seed and they cannot get nearly all of their supply locally grown.

It requires patience and skill to produce hybrid seed corn.

The male parent corn and the female parent corn obtained from recognized foundation stock must be planted in the same field. As each stalk in the female rows produces a tassel, this tassel must be pulled off. And the seed must come from only the female rows. CAREFUL HARVEST

When harvest time comes the corn must be gathered from the female rows, shelled by hand and all faulty grains eliminated. The testing of the yields from hybrid seed corn, also carried out on the Wilson farm is done in a scarcely less painstaking manner.

On the Wilson farm the test tract was planted in short 25-foot rows with 49 varieties being grown on this one field. At harvest the corn is shucked from the stalk and taken to the end of the row. There the ears are counted weighed and examined with samples being taken for testing for moisture content and weevil infestation. The results are carefully tabulated for each hybrid variety.

Truman through Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Mr. Truman said differences which exist among the allies "are not hopeless or irreconcilable."

With a possible view to conditions in the Balkans, however, he stated emphatically that the United States would "refuse to recognize any government imposed upon any nation by the force of any foreign power."

He set forth four purposes for which this nation must remain, powerfully armed; to enforce the peace on defeated enemies; to support the United Nations; to defend the western hemisphere and to defend the United States.

The atomic bomb makes the solution of international problems "more urgent than we could have dreamed six months ago," Mr. Truman said, but it "does not alter the basic foreign policy of the United States."

That policy he described as one of "friendly partnership with all peaceful nations and of full support for the United Nations organization." He defined it in these 12 principles:

1. No territorial expansion, no plans for aggression, no objective "which need clash with the peaceful aims of any other nation."

2. Eventual return of sovereign rights and self-government "to all peoples who have been deprived of them by force."

3. No territorial changes involving friendly peoples except with their "freely expressed wishes."

4. Self government for all peoples prepared for it "without interference from any foreign source."

5. Cooperation with the allies to help defeated enemy states "establish democratic governments of their own free choice and a world "in which Nazism, fascism and military aggression cannot exist."

to press demands for a 30 per cent wage hike for the industry's half million workers, workers at Ford Motor company will ballot on the same issue on Nov. 7.

As the number of workers idle across the country because of labor disputes increased 16,000 in the last 24 hours to a total of 239,000 the federal conciliation service in Washington said that in the week ended Oct. 24 the number of strikes settled exceeded the number of new ones which started.

The agency concluded that "near normal" conditions may prevail by mid-November.

Murray announced the strike ballot plan after a meeting in Pittsburgh of the union's wage policy committee authorizing "whatever action is deemed necessary" in efforts to secure the wage increase.

He asserted the wage demands were "necessary to sustain purchasing power and prevent another depression." Spokesmen for the U. S. steel said the demands were rejected because of the "existing ceiling prices for steel products, together with the government's wage stabilization program."

In Detroit, Walter P. Reuther, CIO-UAW vice president said he was still hopeful of settling the wage issue with General Motors but he asserted the union would stand firm on its demand unless General Motors proves its claim of inability to meet the demand with "cost factors and other kinds of figures."

In the vote by 22,304 of more than 98,000 eligible Chrysler employees, 19,870 favored a strike, 2,359 opposed and 75 votes were voided. General Motors results showed 70,853 favoring a stoppage to 12,438 against. About 200,000 eligible employees did not vote.

Prospects were brighter today in the long strike of movie workers in Hollywood as producers and union leaders agreed over the strike settlement terms which were announced earlier this week in Cincinnati by the AFL executive committee.

Rumors Persist Of Threatened Revolt In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 27.—(P)—Published rumors of an impending revolution in Brazil brought repeated demands today from supporters of President Getulio Vargas that he remain at the head of the Brazilian government.

Vargas has announced that he would not be a candidate in elections Dec. 2 for president and congress.

His followers, the Queremistas, broadcast repeatedly over the radio that "we want a constituent assembly and Getulio Vargas." They added that the labor minister would speak on this subject tomorrow night.

Communists, who favor a constituent assembly but not necessarily with Vargas at the head of government, will meet tonight.

reputable witnesses was accepted here as fact. NOT FULFILLED

Although the Sino-Soviet pact provided that Russian material aid to China be made through the central government, different quarters here claimed this clause was not being fulfilled, and they complained that Moscow had not severed all links with Chinese communists.

Foreign business men were perturbed over the confused position of China's future in international trade arising partly from the central government's failure to establish an exchange rate other than the present purely artificial, impractical quotation of 20 Chinese national dollars to one United States dollar.

Main concern, however, centered on two points: First, Russia's China attitude. Second, the danger of civil war.

VOLUNTARY ENLISTMENT'S REACH 44,799

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—The War department announced today that voluntary enlistments in the new peacetime army reached 44,799 on Oct. 19.

Of this number, 48.92 percent are former regular army soldiers; 43.15 percent are men who are now serving or who have served as a result of selective service and 7.93 percent are men with no previous service.

A breakdown shows that 97.37 percent of enlistments are for a three-year period; 1.36 percent for 18 months; 1.02 percent for one year and 0.25 percent for two years.

The department also released figures showing that through Oct. 21, more than 2,000,000 soldiers have been discharged from the army since V-E day, with an additional 250,000 expected to be returned to civilian life by Nov. 1.

The lowering of the discharge score for enlisted men to 60 points on Nov. 1 will make eligible for release another 900,000 soldiers. Of this number, 205,000 are serving in this country, while the remaining 695,000 are overseas as follows—335,000 in the European and Mediterranean theatre, 280,000 in the Pacific and 80,000 in scattered small areas or enroute home.

Chinese Nationalists, Communists Reach Deadlock In Talks

CHUNGKING, Oct. 27.—(P)—Discussions between the government and the communists, designed to unify China and avert civil war, have deteriorated to an extent which both sides admitted today amounted to a deadlock.

The stalemate came after weeks of conference during which virtually no advance was made from the situation which obtained early this month when communist leader Mao Tse-Tung departed for Yenan.

Government quarters said the communists had no desire for a settlement and had pursued delaying tactics to gain time. The communists accused the government of stalling and said clashes in various parts of the country had been provoked by government troops who planned to subjugate and eliminate the communists.
