THEATRE MANAGER SAYS TELEVISION TO FLASH SOON ON THEATER SCREENS

In the not too far distant future patrons seated in the Roper and other Shelby theatres will probably have their screen entertainment interrupted so that an important news event, then occurring, can be flashed on the screen through the medium of television. That is the prediction of Hall Houpe manager of the Rogers and Carolina Theatres.

COMING QUICKLY

This may be a terrific jolt to those who were predicting it would take at least five years or more to cover the nation with enough relay stations to make television networks possible. If the army can turn these towers out on an assembly line basis, civilians can also. This type of construction erectors can follow as fast as surveyors pick out high spots and lawyers sign the ground leases. High ground is necessary because the microwaves will not bend with the curvature of the earth. These waves travel in a straight line and are scrambled that nobody can pick them up unless he has the unscrambling machine at the other end.
