We need not speak to the public of its virtues Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary com-plaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent with out some personal experience of its effects ; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not aprong them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dan gerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cherry Precord saves more lives by the con-sumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neg-lect them until no human skill can master the inexerable canker that, fastened on the vitals, cats your life away All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their core.
