ET ALFRED TENNYSON. Dip down upon the northern shore, O sweet new year, delaying long; Thou doest expectant natures wrong Delaying long ; delay no more

What stays thee from the clouded noons. Thy sweetness from its Proper place? Can trouble live with April days, Or sadness in the summer moons? Bring orchis, bring the fox glove spire,

The little speedwell's darling blue, Deep tulips dashed with flery dew, Laburaums, dropping wells of fire. O thou, new year, delaying long,

Delayest the sorrow in my blood. That longs to burst a frozen land, And flood a fresher throat with song. Now fades the last long streak of snow;

New burgeons every maze of micks About the flowering squares, and thick By ashen roots the violets blow. Now rings the woodland loud and long, The distance takes a lovelier hue.

And drowned in yonder living blue The lark becomes a sightless song. Now dance the lights on lawn and lea, The flocks are whiter down the val-

And milkier every milky sail On winding stream or distant sea; Where now the seamew pipes, or dives In yonder greening gleam, and fly The happy birds that change their sky

From land to land; and in my breast, Spring wakens too; and my recret Becomes an April violet, And buds and blossoms like the rest.
