

POETRY.

From the Liverpool Mercury, Jan. 4, 1833. FAREWELL TO THIRTY-TWO.

Brief space of time—far well, far well! Fleecy thy hours have flown away; Journal e' joys, an' griefs, and sorrows, Thou'st been—departing—Thirty-two.

The hopes thou strew'dst along my path, O! they have been delusive all! As bright in prospect now they seem, As when I had thee—Thirty-two.

There's monie an eye in sorrow steep'd, Thine infancy in smiles that saw; An' in a heart has ceased to beat, That joys had thee—Thirty-two.

In partings shade thee monie an eye, When thou hast seen face wealth to fly; An' monie a nameless orphan sigh, That smiled to hail thee—Thirty-two.

The gull, the fully seen by thee, In play unit cut, and lordly ha; 'Twill be a dark an' tearful page, The history of Thirty-two.

The good an' ill that it contains, Are faithfully recorded a; Thy chapter of life's dreary tale Is written out now—Thirty-two.

Thou' t'wail brave children, thou hast seen Come down the Lethe, an' an' a; I fear there's cause to rue the way, We've used thee offing, Thirty-two.

O Thirty three, thou'rt but a balm—Nane kens what thou wilt be a; But may we spen thee better than, We've spent departed Thirty-two, Burlington street, 1st Jan. 1833.—P. M.

ADVERTISEMENTS. PHILADELPHIA SATURDAY COURIER.

A FAMILY NEWSPAPER OF THE LARGEST CLASS. At only $2 per annum, payable in advance.

ENLARGEMENT & IMPROVEMENT. The publishers of the Saturday Courier gratefully acknowledge the extensive and unexpunged patronage which they have received.

The literary department of this paper is supplied by original contributions from the best and most distinguished American writers; and selections carefully and judiciously made from the whole range of English periodical literature.

Whatsoever can be obtained, whether at home or abroad, calculated to amuse, interest, or instruct, provided it be suitable, is procured and published, without reference to expense or trouble.

In furnishing news, foreign or domestic, the publishers of the Saturday Courier have very great advantages, and they confidently appeal to the past experience of their patrons to sustain them in saying that they have generally been, in this respect, in advance of their weekly contemporaries.

The Saturday Courier is at present the largest newspaper, unconnected with politics, published in the United States. It is printed on a sheet of greater size, and contains, by actual measurement, a larger amount of reading matter than any other weekly journal of a purely miscellaneous character.

Notwithstanding this superiority, the publishers, anxious not merely to merit but to insure a continuance and extension of their great patronage, have determined to increase the size, and otherwise improve the Courier, so as to make it beyond all question the largest, cheapest, and most desirable weekly paper in this country.

From this purpose, on the first of January, 1833, the Saturday Courier will be enlarged by the addition of four columns in width, and a proportionate increase in length, so that it will then contain a quantity of matter nearly two hundred pages of a common octavo volume. This increase shall be filled with the choicest tales and poetry—miscellaneous essays—extracts from recent popular publications—and all other topics relating to the literature of the times.

Besides the most regard to the agreeable, due attention will be paid to the useful, and all important facts connected with the state and fall of stocks, the fluctuation of the grain market, &c. will be especially and carefully noted.

I MUST DO RIGHT.

ALL persons should know that to write a good hand is no great thing. But to be a Statesman, a Judge, a Lawyer, a Doctor, a Preacher, or a Teacher is essentially necessary we all know. For to say that these persons mentioned should have no knowledge of Penmanship, they would not be calculated to fill their several stations; therefore we find Penmanship, one of the essential branches. Then if worth doing at all it surely is worth doing well, what signifies a person writing, unless some person can read it? Indeed I have known the scribe inter himself, but able to read his own hand writing, especially if he had forgotten the subject.

The small business hand, surely is the hand more suitable for writing notes, letters, and receipts, &c. than the round hand, because it can be written faster.

Now A. D. Smith, when he informs the public that he has invented a new plan to teach Penmanship does not wish to be understood that he has invented a new Penmanship, I wish the people would read with the understanding that surely they would be more happy. Now some persons that have seen the small business hand written by my new plan have cried out in a taunting tone and said that this hand has been taught among us more than 15 years ago! there is no truth in this, the inventor—now if this monster had understood the subject, he need not have strained his lungs quite so much.

The improvement in teaching said hand consists—1st in a direct principle, namely a geographical—2nd in the classification of the alphabet, being divided into the three classes namely North Southern and Eastern classes, 3rdly in learning to write a part at the same time the pupil is taught to form the several letters in the alphabet. 4thly, being alternately governed by an east line which runs from the west side of the paper due East, made at the same time that the letters are made and each letter, having its own east line—which is a mystery to the scribe who knows nothing about it, 5thly, The system being taught by lectures. The pupil not to write by copies, but by the principle said down; Hearing the plan in his head, writes now without looking at a copy, writes without imitation therefore having the system the pupil never wants a copy, unless if he should be blessed with common sense after once learning the system he never would fail to write his hand, when he thought proper—Now I can by this new plan, learn a class of pupils to write the small business hand in one day, and the most of them in two or three days, therefore I am entirely convinced I can learn any person in the time specified. I have found it a hard task to learn a young lady, when he would be in a class of young ladies and widows for he being so captivated he would hardly know whether he was writing or not; in fact, I might say it is not a weary task to learn widows or young ladies, in every such case for they would be so in participating in the reflections of the future. I sometimes condescend to teach a class of rude Academic Students, and do not often learn half of the class to write, owing to their rudeness and impatience and their indifference, subscribing merely to be absent from their paper studies; who could learn such? Now in conclusion let me say that this is a happy plan to learn persons to write a decent hand in a very short time—Ladies let me say unto you, if you do not quit your course of studies yet if you do not write a good hand learn to write by this system and you never will regret it.

I will remark here, that I have secured the benefits of this system to myself according to law. And as it is not expected for me to teach such a large mass of people as should be instructed in this short time, I will inform the people that there are persons who have Liberty to teach said system, but none by the name of Howlet, Green, Stephens, Musell, Plomer nor Simmons. The following persons have bought permits from me to teach my system namely: John Watkins, Gratton Massey, Bryant Redden, Wm. Hughes, Samuel R. Bell, James McPherson, Wm. Roberts, Wm. B. H. Lane and Jeremiah F. Vestal. As to those persons signing over their interest in these permits that is not admissible at all, and a person buying a permit should be at any time teaching for less than three dollars per scholar they do not intend to teach any more until they should be permitted to teach again by the proprietor. As there will be many teachers out teaching this system it would be well for those who wish to be instructed in said system to know of a certainty that the person who offers to teach is well qualified, that they will know by his having a recommendation from me signed with P. R.

Were it necessary, I could lay before my friends, certificates in abundance to testify of the utility of my system of teaching Penmanship, but the system proving itself in such short time, I deem it hardly necessary.

Having made these remarks I will conclude by saying that I feel grateful for the extensive patronage I have received from the people of North Carolina and Virginia and anticipate a hope of rendering to the people of the same states the benefits of my invention more extensive, than heretofore.

A. D. SMITH. Salisbury, N. C. Feb. 20th, 1832—23.

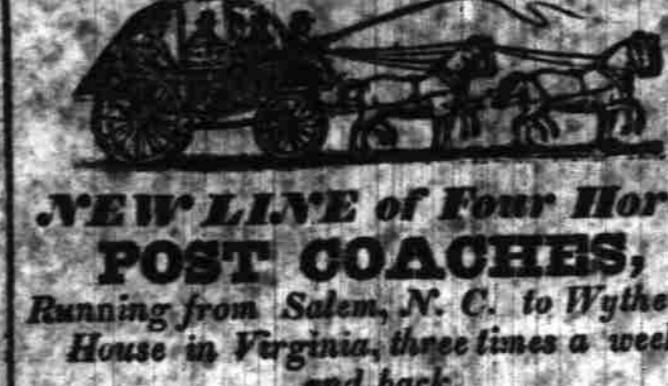

To the Publick. I HAVE been informed, from a source entitled to credit, that a man by the name of Stephens has been teaching my system of penmanship for more than twelve months. I understand he informs the people wherever he goes that he has a permit from me, to teach my system; which is certainly a lie. I have given neither lessons, nor permits to any such man.

This is not the only scoundrel that has infringed upon my rights. The names of several others shall come to light in due time. Those who have permits from me, are not allowed to teach for less than three dollars per scholar. I have secured the benefits of the system to myself according to law, and have come to the determination to put the law in force against all who teach my system without permits, as well as those who patronize them. All are liable and shall suffer. But even without this threat, it might be hoped that the good people of this happy land would not encourage such rascality, by patronizing such low priced and low paid swindlers merely for the sake of a few dollars.

A. D. SMITH. Feb. 1833—23.

We have on hand neatly PRINTED BLANK Deeds of Bargain & Sale, containing a covenant of seizin in addition to the usual covenant of quiet enjoyment commonly called a warranty.—There is a considerable advantage to the purchaser in this improved form, as it enables him to bring a suit so soon, as he discovers that he has obtained a bad title—according to the usual form he cannot sue the seller until he has been ousted from his purchase by suit.—This is worthy of attention in those who lay out money for land. We have also on hand BLANK Deeds or Trusts, which will answer the common purposes of securing debts.

GREENSBORO, Jan. 26, 1833. We whose names are hereto subscribed have taken lessons from Mr. A. D. Smith, in his new method of teaching Penmanship. We believe that the system may be learned in a short time, and be of considerable advantage in improving the hand writing of any person who writes an indifferent hand. PETER DOUB, E. ANDERSON.

J. Johnson's, Orange county, Jan. 24th, 1833. The undersigned, have taken lessons from Mr. A. D. Smith, in his new method of teaching penmanship, and we are entirely pleased with his plan. It is indeed penmanship simplified. We hesitate not to recommend it to all gentlemen who do not write a good hand, two or three days the student can be taught to write an elegant hand. We have heard of sons not writing this system after they had neglected it; but they can only say, on this subject, must be the student's own fault—should neglect to write it. The system is, at once simple and free. In testimony whereof we have hereto set our hands the day above written. FLORENA M. GARDNER, MARY JOHNSON, CALVIN JOHNSON, J. T. VESTEL, ANNA JOHNSON, SUSAN JOHNSON.

Orange County, N. C. Jan. 24th, 1833. Mr. A. D. Smith has taught his system penmanship at my house two days. During time he taught four of my children to write a hand. I think his system to be a good one, worthy of patronage. JOSHUA JOHNSON.

GREENSBORO, January 29th 1833. I certify that I sent my sons to learn penmanship with Mr. A. D. Smith; and I can recommend his systematic arrangement of the pen, and I think it a happy plan by which a clumsy hand, in a short time may be made neat and elegant hand writing. THOMAS CALDWELL.
